200-bed hospital planned for construction in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the expertise to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area."

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president.

The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

Hospital won't help much: chiefs

Yesterday's announcement of a proposed hospital in Glenview brought surprising comments from fire officials in both Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. In both cases they said they don't think the new facility will make much difference in their emergency operations.

"This is the first I've heard about it. I don't think it will affect us in any way at all," said Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen.

The Wheeling Fire Department currently relies on Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for a majority of its emergency runs. Chief Koeppen added, however, that the new hospital is needed in the area.

"We find and we so often get notification from the hospitals that they're full and there are no more beds available. And it's only going to get worse," he explained.

KOEPPEN also said his department would look into the facilities the hospital will offer, adding he had no comment on whether his department would look to using the hospital for regular runs.

In Buffalo Grove, fire department Lt.

Robert Krause gave that department an even slimmer chance of using the facilities for emergency calls. "Our system (paramedic) is hooked into Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. I can't see any reason why we'd switch at this time," said Krause.

He added that it is really too early to tell if a switch would be made and said Fire Chief Wayne Winter, who was out of town on business yesterday, could be able to comment better on the situation.

Also commenting on the new facility yesterday was Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong. He said, "I'm glad to see that there's a new hospital closer to Buffalo Grove. Northwest Community and the other area hospitals are a little inconvenient for the village."

In Wheeling, Village Mgr. George Passolt said, "I'm sure we'd like to have one (hospital) in the village." However, he said the Glenview-Evanston facility will benefit the village. "The more hospitals we have in the area the better," Passolt explained.

staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but, he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists, Evanston Hospital officials said, and, therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

The possibility also exists, officials said, Evanston Hospital would build other satellite hospitals in the suburbs as the needs grow.

The new hospital plans are part of an overall program by Evanston Hospital to provide better services for its patients.

Also announced yesterday were plans for a $28 million expansion of the Evanston facility, including a five-story addition to the present structure. The program is expected to be completed by 1976.

Evanston Hospital is a 510-bed facility which served nearly 20,000 persons last year. It is designated as a Trauma Center in the Illinois Regional program. The hospital is also noted for its expertise in the care and treatment of newborn infants.

'73-'74 teacher contract final OK slated

by JILL BETTNER

The proposed School Dist. 21 1973-74 teacher contract today goes to the Wheeling Faculty Council executive committee for final approval.

The school board will probably review the contract next Thursday at its regularly scheduled meeting, according to Dist. 21 Assistant Supt. John Barger.

Barger said yesterday the two negotiating teams representing the WFC and the Dist. 21 school board reached tentative agreement on the contract Monday during their fifth bargaining session. The meetings, which began in January, have been closed to the public. Last year's sessions were open.

ALTHOUGH HE would not discuss the contents of the contract package, Barger did disclose that it is a multi-year agreement.

"I don't anticipate any problems in getting the contract approved by the WFC or the school board," Barger said. "I think it's fair to both parties."

Margo Richter, chairman of the WFC negotiating team, did not comment on the agreement.

Barger said this is the first year the bargaining teams have negotiated a multi-year contract as comprehensive as the proposed 1973-74 agreement. He said in the past, the teams negotiated only on annual teacher salary.

Other items included in this year's bargaining are:

- The 1973-74 school calendar.
- Extra duty salary for teachers.
- Basic salary for teachers.
- Insurance coverage for teachers.
- Contract duration.

School officials are starting work now on the 1973-74 budget. Any salary increase contained in the proposed teacher contract will have a major effect on spending.

Seeking a price rollback formula acceptable to Congress, the House Banking Committee reconsidered earlier action and voted to put a ceiling on all prices and interest at their Jan. 10 levels.

Rebellious housewives cut sharply into meat sales in the fourth day of a nationwide boycott. Farmers fought back by holding their animals off the market.

The administration abandoned its highly controversial threat to begin withholding immediately $689 million in federal welfare aid from states making payments to ineligible recipients.

The Senate Watergate committee has announced it had received "no evidence of any nature" linking White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman with the Watergate bugging.

South Florida experienced a second major power failure within 24 hours yesterday, snarling traffic, and forcing schools and department stores to close.

The United States plans to send its Skylab space research station into Earth orbit May 14, and put three men aboard it the following day for a 28-day stay, the space agency announced.

Governor Daniel Walker estimated that flood damage to Illinois highways and public buildings would exceed the $4 million necessary to qualify for federal relief, but cautioned against hysteria over the floods.

The Illinois House of Representatives again refused to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The women's rights amendment received 95 votes, 12 short of the three-fifths required for approval under House rules. Proponents now plan a lawsuit seeking a ruling that only a constitutional majority of 89 votes is required for ratification.

Fate: unknown

Prisoner? Dead? MIA Bruce Fryar's family wants to know for sure

by TONI GINETTI
American involvement in the war in Vietnam is over and more than 500 prisoners have been released, but Lt. Bruce Fryar has not come home.

Young Fryar and some 1,300 like him are among those still listed officially as missing in action. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Fryar, 4724 Kenilworth, Rolling Meadows, have not heard from their only son since Christmas, 1969. He wrote them telling how much he was looking forward to the next Christmas with his family.

Soon after the letter arrived, the Fryars were notified Bruce, a Navy pilot, had been lost while on a bombing mission over Laos.

"It was to be his last mission," said Mrs. Fryar. "He was due for rest and recreation in Japan. From all we can gather, he was shot down over Laos. They know that he and his navigator, Lt. Nick Brooks, ejected from the plane because other flyers saw that."

BRUCE, WHOSE 29th birthday was last week, has not been named on POW or casualty lists issued by the Pentagon, Mrs. Fryar said. Since a peace settlement was signed two months ago, no word on his status has been given to the Fryar family or to Bruce's wife Diane, who lives in Virginia with the couple's daughter Kristin, 5.

Calls to Naval officials in Chicago, the Great Lakes Naval Hospital, and U.S. Rep. Philip Crane's office confirm Fryar's unknown status. Spokesmen at Great Lakes Hospital have said information is not available on "unaccounted-for" war personnel. Crane's office has made attempts at getting such information from the Pentagon with no success.

"What is irking us is the terms that they (the U.S. government) argued over from October to February," Mrs. Fryar said quietly. "They wanted a list of all the missing but we still have not seen any. We want to know what happened to them."

That is why the soft-spoken Mrs. Fryar and her husband have begun a letterwriting campaign to more than 300 individuals and organizations. The campaign asks "the friends of Bruce Fryar" to send telegrams and letters to Washington urging that a full accounting of MIAs be demanded.

"We have written letters to senators and the President, but we haven't heard anything yet," she said. "We only started last week so maybe it's too early to tell."

THE IDEA FOR the campaign came from Voice In Vital America (VIVA), the Los Angeles-based organization which has manufactured bracelets recognizing the Vietnam POWs and MIAs.

The organization has suggested the letter campaign as a way to insure 1,300 MIAs listed by the government will be accounted for.

"The object of the whole thing is to see if people will write," Mrs. Fryar said. "What we don't like is the talk of giving aid to North Vietnam until they satisfy the 1,300 families who are still waiting."

Mrs. Fryar said she and her family were living in New York, where her husband worked as a controller for the Continental Can Company, when they were notified Bruce was lost. "Of course it upset us very much at the time and it still does. He didn't write in his letters about the war because he knew it upset me to read about his going on bombing missions."

"He was very patriotic and would do anything for his country," she smiled. "He was always that way. Everything was gung-ho."

THE FRYARS WERE living in suburban Broadview when Bruce graduated from Proviso East High School in 1962. He then attended the Naval Academy in Annapolis where he graduated in 1966. He was sent to Vietnam in October in 1969.

After Bruce was listed as missing, Mrs. Fryar said she and her husband "used to look at all the lists of POWs and MIAs that used to be issued." She said two years ago they wrote to the minister of Sweden who had gone to Hanoi to discuss the prisoner issues.

"According to the telegram he sent, he said they (Hanoi) didn't have his name as a POW, but they weren't giving out the names at that time anyway."

Last summer the youngest of the Fryar's three children, Marjane, sent word to VIVA to print bracelets naming Bruce as a MIA. More than 150 letters from persons throughout the country wearing Bruce's bracelet have come to the Fryars since then.

"The letters are all very nice," she said. "I would say more than two-thirds of them ask for pictures of Bruce. Some are from school children even 8 and 9 years old. They ask things about him, what he was like, is he married, things like that."

"THEY SAY THEY pray for him. The Catholics say they light candles for him," she said.

It is to these persons and others the Fryars are directing their letter campaign. "I can't think of anything else to do. What do you do?"

"I have no idea what the government is doing (about the MIAs) because I don't know the terms of the treaty. All they (Hanoi) have to say is there aren't any more POWs, but I don't know if that is true because they (VIVA) say there are still 300 Korean War prisoners not accounted for."

"When they first issued the names of the POWs, the Navy casualty officer told us Bruce was not on the list or on the casualty lists. He said the only thing they could do was question the returning POWs in debriefing to find out whether Bruce had been seen at all."

"I guess the government is doing what it can but it doesn't seem to be enough for the rest of us. I was very happy at the peace and happy for the families of the returning POWs, but I still would like to see Bruce walk off a plane."

"There is a big chance that he isn't alive," she said as she gazed out a window, "but we have to know that, too."

More POWs being held: Lindstrom

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom of Prospect Heights yesterday called upon the U.S. government to seek release of 200 American civilian and military personnel he says are still being held prisoners in Cambodia, Laos, China and North Vietnam.

Lindstrom, who spearheaded the Re-member the Pueblo Committee, said Tuesday that the 200 Americans, including six captured after the Paris Peace Treaty was signed Jan. 27, still are being held prisoner.

Lindstrom said Americans should contact the White House to express their concern for men listed as missing in action who are actually prisoners of war. He said citizens should also contact their congressmen to urge congressional hearings on the whereabouts of the missing men.

AS OF two weeks ago, 121 American military personnel were being held by the Communists in Laos, the majority of them being U.S. Air Force Personnel, according to Lindstrom.

Six of those men were captured after the signing of the peace treaty in Paris, he said.

"Communists in Laos transferred 64 American airmen across the border into China between October, 1971 and January, 1972," Lindstrom said.

Four additional men, employees of Air America, were transferred to Hanoi in August, 1972 by the Pathet Lao, Lindstrom said. One of the four is a Laotian and the other three are Americans, he said. Their plane was shot down in December, 1971 while on a mission over Laos, Lindstrom said.

I believe they are still being held in North Vietnam or they were sent back to China, unless they died, were executed or were transferred elsewhere. They certainly have not been released or accounted for by the Communists," Lindstrom said.

LINDSTROM said his sources, cultivated through contacts made during the 1969 U.S. Pueblo crisis, included military intelligence reports, former CIA employees, employees of the State Department and South Vietnamese and other Southeast Asian government agents.

"President Nixon and Henry Kissinger are lying when they say there are no POWs held in Cambodia. They know that the Communists are still holding both American military men and civilians in two Cambodian prison camps and other areas of Southeast Asia," Lindstrom charged.

He said it is essential congressional hearings be held now and not delayed four years like they were after the Korean war.

He said U.S. pressure on the Communists might have favorable results so the U.S. could avoid another situation like that in 1957 when congressional hearings revealed 389 Americans were known to be alive in prison camps in Korea in 1953 and had never been released.

Lindstrom is pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty at 203 E. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights.

County not affected by tax ruling

A Cook County Circuit Court judge ruled yesterday that 1971 Illinois personal property tax payments be repaid with interest and penalties to the taxpayers.

The ruling, however, does not apply to taxpayers and personal property taxes collected in Cook County, according to a spokesman for State's Atty. Bernard Carey.

The decision, by Judge James Mejda, came in a suit filed last July by the Illinois Agriculture Association. Refunds have been estimated at about $30 million, plus an average of 4 per cent interest to about 800,000 taxpayers in Illinois.

The Illinois Supreme Court ruled last February that the property tax on individuals was unconstitutional.

Property tax payments of Cook County taxpayers, Assistant State's Atty. Donald Joyce said, are not included in the ruling because they are being held in escrow pending a final decision from the Illinois Supreme Court.

Several other counties also have been dismissed from the suit for the same reason.

Before Cook County taxpayers can expect refunds of the 1971 personal property taxes they paid in 1972, Joyce said, the Illinois Supreme Court must rule on the definition of "individuals" as mentioned in the state constitution.

Joyce said that a ruling is expected in the near future.

A spokesman for Cook County Treasurer Bernard Korzen said yesterday the county has deposited $1,010,000 in personal property tax payments in interest-bearing accounts. About 21,500 persons were billed for the tax, he said. He could not specify how many persons actually paid the tax.

9-woman, 3-man jury picked in Jayne case

A jury of nine women and three men was selected yesterday to hear the testimony in the George Jayne murder trial.

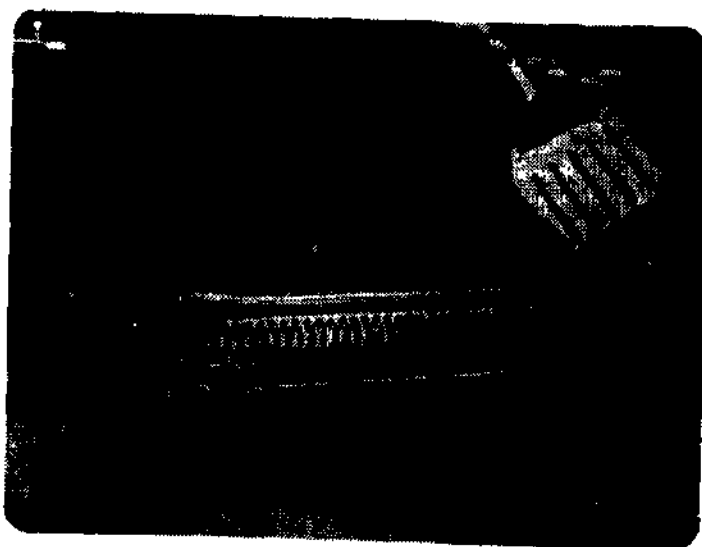

The jury, which Criminal Court Judge Richard Fitzgerald has said will be sequestered, is expected to hear testimony for as long as six weeks, according to attorneys handling the case.

The three men on trial — Silas Jayne, the murder victim's brother; Joseph LaPlaca, Silas Jayne's bodyguard, and laborer Julius Barnes — have been awaiting their trial on the murder and conspiracy charges since they were arrested in May, 1971.

Inverness horseman George Jayne was slain by a sniper's bullet the night of Oct. 28, 1970 as he sat in the basement of his home playing cards with his family.

Village again headed toward paramedic program training?

by LYNN ASINOF

The Village of Wheeling is once again headed toward participation in an emergency paramedic program.

Wheeling Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said Wednesday he is in the process of enrolling members of his department in paramedic training classes. "The men will be trained for it if and when the village decides to go paramedic," he said.

Koeppen said, however, the training is being authorized in anticipation of the village joining a paramedic program out of either Highland Park Hospital or Northwest Community Hospital.

The paramedic program is designed to provide immediate emergency medical care. Trained paramedics transmit data on the patient's condition to doctors in the hospital emergency room. These doctors in turn relay instructions on how to care for the patient until he arrives at the hospital.

KOEPPEN SAID 14 men have already received the basic 8 1/2 hour paramedic training and only have 44 hours of advanced training to complete. He said he hopes to enroll as many men as possible in the training program.

Although Wheeling participated in the initial stages of paramedic training, village officials opted not to take part in the program when it first began last year.

Koeppen said Wheeling decided not to join the paramedic program at that time because it was a pilot program. "It wasn't until the last few weeks that it got off the ground that Wheeling could have joined the program," he explained. He said for this reason the village decided to wait to see how the program developed.

The Wheeling chief said more and more hospitals are now initiating paramedic programs. "The demand is there where we are going to have to go into it," he said. Koeppen said he was looking forward to the establishment of a paramedic force in Wheeling.

ACCORDING TO Koeppen, the village will need to purchase specialized equipment in order to begin the paramedic program. He said the department would need a paramedic van and equipment, a radio setup and a place to store this equipment.

"We'd have to have the storage for that thing," he said of the paramedic van. "We have no place to store it right now."

Village Mgr. George Passolt said money for the expansion of the present fire station on Dundee Road has been included in the preliminary estimates of the village budget.

Passolt said although there has been some talk of building a new main fire station, the village does not presently have the funds for the project. "Right at the moment, the costs for a main station seem to be quite prohibitive," he said.

Passolt estimated the cost of training and equipment for the program would run between $35,000 and $45,000. "The equipment is fairly expensive," he said.

THE VILLAGE manager said he did not know when the village would officially join the paramedic program. "Part of it depends on when we can get into the training course," he said. "I think it might be September before we can get into the course. The remainder would go according to that."

Koeppen said Wheeling's participation in the paramedics will be made easier now that more hospitals are initiating these emergency programs. He said Highland Park Hospital is expected to begin their paramedic service on May 7 and other hospitals are considering the program.

When the program first began last year, Northwest Community Hospital was the only hospital carrying the program.

Trustee blasted in Strong Street feud

In what was termed a public "apology" to Trustee Bill Hein, Maureen Pitt of 294 W. Strong St., Wheeling, attacked Hein for his political influence and for using problems on W. Strong Street to further his political campaign.

Hein is a candidate for reelection on the To Overall Progress Party. Mrs. Pitt is an active campaigner for the candidates of the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) who are also seeking office in the April 17 village elections.

In an address to the village board, Mrs. Pitt said she promised Hein a public apology if he could solve the problems of certain residents in the W. Strong Street area. These residents were having trouble getting a private firm to honor a contract to connect their homes to public utilities.

Mrs. Pitt said she had accused Hein of helping the residents in order to gain political influence in the W. Strong Street neighborhood. This area is considered a stronghold of the WHIP party.

"I must admit, it was I who wore the campaign button and not you," she told Hein. Mrs. Pitt then noted the man accompanying Hein at the time was wearing a TOP campaign button.

Mrs. Pitt noted Hein had solved the residents' problem, and workmen were working on the utility connection. "You did what their attorney, the Better Business Bureau, the state's attorney, the attorney general and the governor could not do," she said.

In her "apology" statement, Mrs. Pitt said she did not retract her accusation Hein was using the residents' problems for political purposes. "I only apologize for underestimating your political influence," she said. "It appears that you are a man of great power."

Mrs. Pitt also accused Hein of taking undue credit for the extension of water lines into the Sixth Street area. She noted that residents in the area still have to pay to be connected to the local utility lines.

Hein responded the Sixth Street water extension had been installed while he was chairman of the board committee which handles such matters. He said, however, he had never taken credit for the extension of sewer lines into the area.

Second park board budget meeting slated tonight

The Wheeling park board is scheduled to continue discussion on the proposed 1973-74 budget tonight. The commissioners had their first look at the suggested spending outline two weeks ago.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the Heritage Park building, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

The proposed budget has been prepared by Park Supt. Dave Phillips. Along with next year's spending guide, Phillips has drawn up projections for park district spending during the next five years.

The board is not expected to take action on the proposed budget for several weeks.

In other business, the board will discuss priorities or the completion of projects improved in last December's referendum. The commissioners are currently exploring the possibilities of obtaining state or federal funds for part of the work.

The commissioners also are set to canvass the votes cast in Tuesday's park board election. Incumbent Pres. Lorraine Lark and Hugh Wilson, 417 Meadowbrook Ln. were each elected to serve six-year terms on the board.

The board is also scheduled to finalize the terms of a contract with park planners McFadden & Everly. The firm was hired several weeks ago to put together a master plan for future park development.

An executive session to discuss personnel is also on tonight's agenda.

Gill, teacher salaries account for about 60 per cent of the operational school budget.

Last year, the negotiating teams reached an impasse in their talks late in June. The 1972-73 contract was finally adopted early last September. It is valid until June 30.

BARGER SAID he felt a settlement was reached earlier this year partly because the negotiating sessions were closed to the public. He added that the efficiency of the negotiators was another factor that contributed to the early agreement.

If the proposed contract is approved by the WFC executive committee today, the measure will go to the entire membership for ratification. A simple majority vote of approval is necessary for the teachers to adopt the contract.

After the contract is approved by the school board, Barger and Miss Richter will sign the agreement making it official.

Summer program for handicapped

Seven suburban park districts have joined forces to form a recreational summer program for the handicapped. The park districts, all located in Maine and Niles townships, include Des Plaines, Lincolnwood, Skokie, Morton Grove, Niles, Park Ridge and Golf-Maine.

The districts have planned a summer program for educable mentally handicapped, trainable mentally handicapped, learning disability and emotionally disturbed children aged 5 to 21. Four camps will be established in local park districts and bus service will be provided for those without transportation.

Sales off, but meat prices stay high Price ceiling worries farmers

by United Press International

Retail meat sales were off as much as 70 per cent in some areas yesterday, livestock market activity dwindled and an estimated 5,000 packinghouse workers lost their jobs but high meat prices refused to budge in the fourth day of the consumers' boycott.

Boycott leaders hoped for a delayed reaction and talked of extending the campaign beyond its original one-week limit.

Ethel Rosen, chairman of the Women's War on Prices, which is coordinating the boycott in the Chicago area, called for an extension through the month of April.

"We want a 20 per cent across-the-board rollback on food prices," she said.

PATRICK GORMAN, international secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen Union, said the boycott has thrown 4,000 to 5,000 packinghouse workers out of work.

"That's my estimate," he said. "We don't have an official count, but it's a couple of hundred here, a few hundred there across the country."

Livestock sales at 11 major markets "slowed significantly," an Agriculture Department survey showed.

Sales of live hogs were down Monday and Tuesday of last week, the survey showed. On the same days this week cattle sales were 33,300 as against 52,700 last week.

THE DROP in cattle receipts continued yesterday, early reports from two major Midwestern stockyards showed. Live cattle numbered 1,400 head today as compared with 2,400 last Wednesday at Peoria, Ill., and totaled only 1,800 at Joliet, Ill., 600 fewer than this day last week.

Hogs came in slightly higher volume at Joliet but continued their decline at Peoria.

Although both sides in the protest say it is too early to judge the full impact of the boycott, a spot check by United Press International of meat shops in 30 cities revealed sales ranged from normal to 40 or 50 per cent off, with the bulk of shops with sales declines of 10 to 20 per cent.

But despite decreased sales, the meat shops also reported in decreases in retail prices of beef, pork or lamb.

THE SURVEY also revealed hog and cattle receipts were off sharply at 11 major Midwestern markets, but many farmers appeared only to be holding back animals because of the uncertainty of the boycott and the government's imposition of ceilings on meat prices.

Spot checks of stores in some cities showed no sales dropoffs. The stores were in Honolulu, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Oklahoma City and Springfield, Ill. However, decreased sales of about 10 per cent were reported in stores checked in Salt Lake City, Columbus and Indianapolis. Counters checked at Dallas, New Orleans and Pittsburgh showed sales dropped as much as 40 to 50 per cent.

Nearly every butcher reported prices were holding firm and some said only a greater supply of meat would lower prices. A large market in Indianapolis said that its lean, ground beef had in fact jumped from a weekend low of 89 cents a pound to $1.09 Tuesday.

THE BOYCOTT also appeared to be most devastating to packing firms, many of which laid off employees. Raskin Packing Co. of Sioux City, Iowa, announced it had laid off 75 workers and, for the first time in 17 years, slaughtered no livestock Monday and Tuesday.

Union leaders in the Philadelphia areas said the boycott resulted in the layoff of about 300 meatcutters.

Support of the boycott continued to grow in many areas.

"Those who did insist on getting meat with their meals got it," said Henry Markwood, restaurant manager at the Holiday Inn East in Columbus, Ohio. "But we are trying to encourage customers not to eat meat. We just tell them we're not serving meat."

CORNING, Iowa (UPI) — Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization (NFO), said he is more concerned about President Nixon's price ceiling on beef, pork and lamb than the housewives' meat boycott.

Staley said NFO meetings in livestock producing areas Monday night resulted in a "feeling of victory and accomplishment" because of "stabilized" beef and pork prices at market points.

But he expressed concern over a number of layoffs at Midwest packing plants and said the NFO is "watching the markets closely to make sure prices don't start dropping."

Staley said the NFO has a "good monitor" of the entire country and has indications the housewives' boycott of meat products in protest of high prices is not very serious.

He said NFO farm wives "went into supermarkets in almost every state" Monday and reported consumers "knew that the farmer had been underpaid, knew that prices and wages had gone up and generally knew they had to expect to pay more for food."

The boycott coupled with the President's price ceiling, however, has created a "highly emotional psychological atmosphere, and how people and the markets will react is unpredictable," Staley said.

Livestock producers threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The meat price ceilings announced by President Nixon last week will "inevitably put the livestock producer again face to face with bankruptcy," a farm leader has charged.

Tony T. Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union (NFU), said that as long as food prices were low and consumer income was rising, "no one seemed to notice or care that the farmer's income was depressed and his cost of production was jumping by leaps and bounds." But when food prices began rising, he said, the farmer and rancher became "the most convenient targets."

Officials of the National Livestock Feeders Association, meanwhile, said in an interview that many producers face possible losses or, at best, a chance to break even on cattle which were in feedlots for fattening when Nixon's order was announced.

Don F. Magdanz of Omaha, Neb., secretary of the association, said feeders bought the cattle at high prices. If they are sold as finished animals at current market prices for slaughter-ready cattle, "a lot of people will show a loss, and I don't mean a dollar or two, I mean $25 or $35 a head," Magdanz said.

He said producers might avoid break even if live cattle prices moved up to the point at which they'd be limited by the federal ceiling on wholesale beef prices.

Social Security report due

People who got one or more retirement or survivor's checks from Social Security and earned over $1,680 in 1972 must submit an annual report of their earnings to Social Security by April 16, according to Norman R. Thoresen, manager of the Arlington Heights Social Security office.

"The annual report shows how much was earned in wages and self-employment income last year by people who also get Social Security payments — and how much they expect to earn this year," Thoresen said.

"You could get your full payment if you earned $1,680 or less in 1972," he said. "And no matter how much you earned for the year, you could be paid for your full benefits for any month you earned $140 or less as an employee and performed no substantial work in your own business.

"In 1973," Thoresen said, "you can get your full Social Security payment if you earn $2,100 or less. Or, no matter how much you earn for the year, you can be paid your full benefits for any month you earn $175 or less and don't engage in substantial work in your own business."

There are penalties for people who file late or do not file an annual report when one is due, unless good cause can be shown.

System 80

Teacher who never shouts at pupils

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Keith sits in front of the white box in the corner of the classroom. "Find the first letter in pipe," says the machine, and a picture of a man with a pipe appears on the screen. He pushes the button indicating the letter "p," the machine buzzes and advances to the next question.

The teaching machine, called System 80, was developed by Borg-Warner Corp. and marketed in 1970. National headquarters for the education research division of Borg-Warner are located in Niles, and the machines are used by several local schools including River Trails School in Des Plaines and Salt Creek School in Elk Grove Village.

The machine is designed to supplement regular classroom instruction, according to Greg Campbell, a representative of Borg-Warner. It can be used to help the student who has been absent keep up with his classmates or the new student just transferred to the school.

The machine also can provide supplemental exercises for an underachiever or can help a student who is good in one subject and poor in another, said Campbell. Teachers can use System 80 to diagnose the particular learning weaknesses of each student by giving machine scored tests.

Before a child begins a System 80 program, the test is given to determine his level of achievement in a given subject area. A paper tab is attached to a plastic slide containing a filmstrip. The slide is inserted in the machine by the child and the first question appears.

PHONOGRAPH RECORDS provide the sound. The child, listening through earphones, responds to the question by pushing one of five buttons underneath the screen. His answers are recorded on a paper tab.

By looking at the tab the teacher can quickly score the test and diagnose any learning weakness. The teacher records the test results on the student's System 80 record and prescribes corrective System 80 lessons.

If a child chooses an incorrect answer the machine does one of two things: it repeats the question, or switches to a remedial frame to explain the question, said Campbell. Periodic review lessons accompany each of the eight curricula offered: preschool, alphabet, phonics, reading, spelling, math, literacy and French.

The preschool curriculum teaches children beginning number concepts. A sample question asks the child which picture has fewer rabbits and shows the child two pictures, one with two rabbits and one with three.

The alphabet curriculum teaches students to recognize capital and small letters; phonics teaches the relationship between letters and sounds; reading trains a student to recognize words quickly; spelling words are chosen for their frequency of use by primary grade students; and math stresses basic addition, subtraction, division and multiplication.

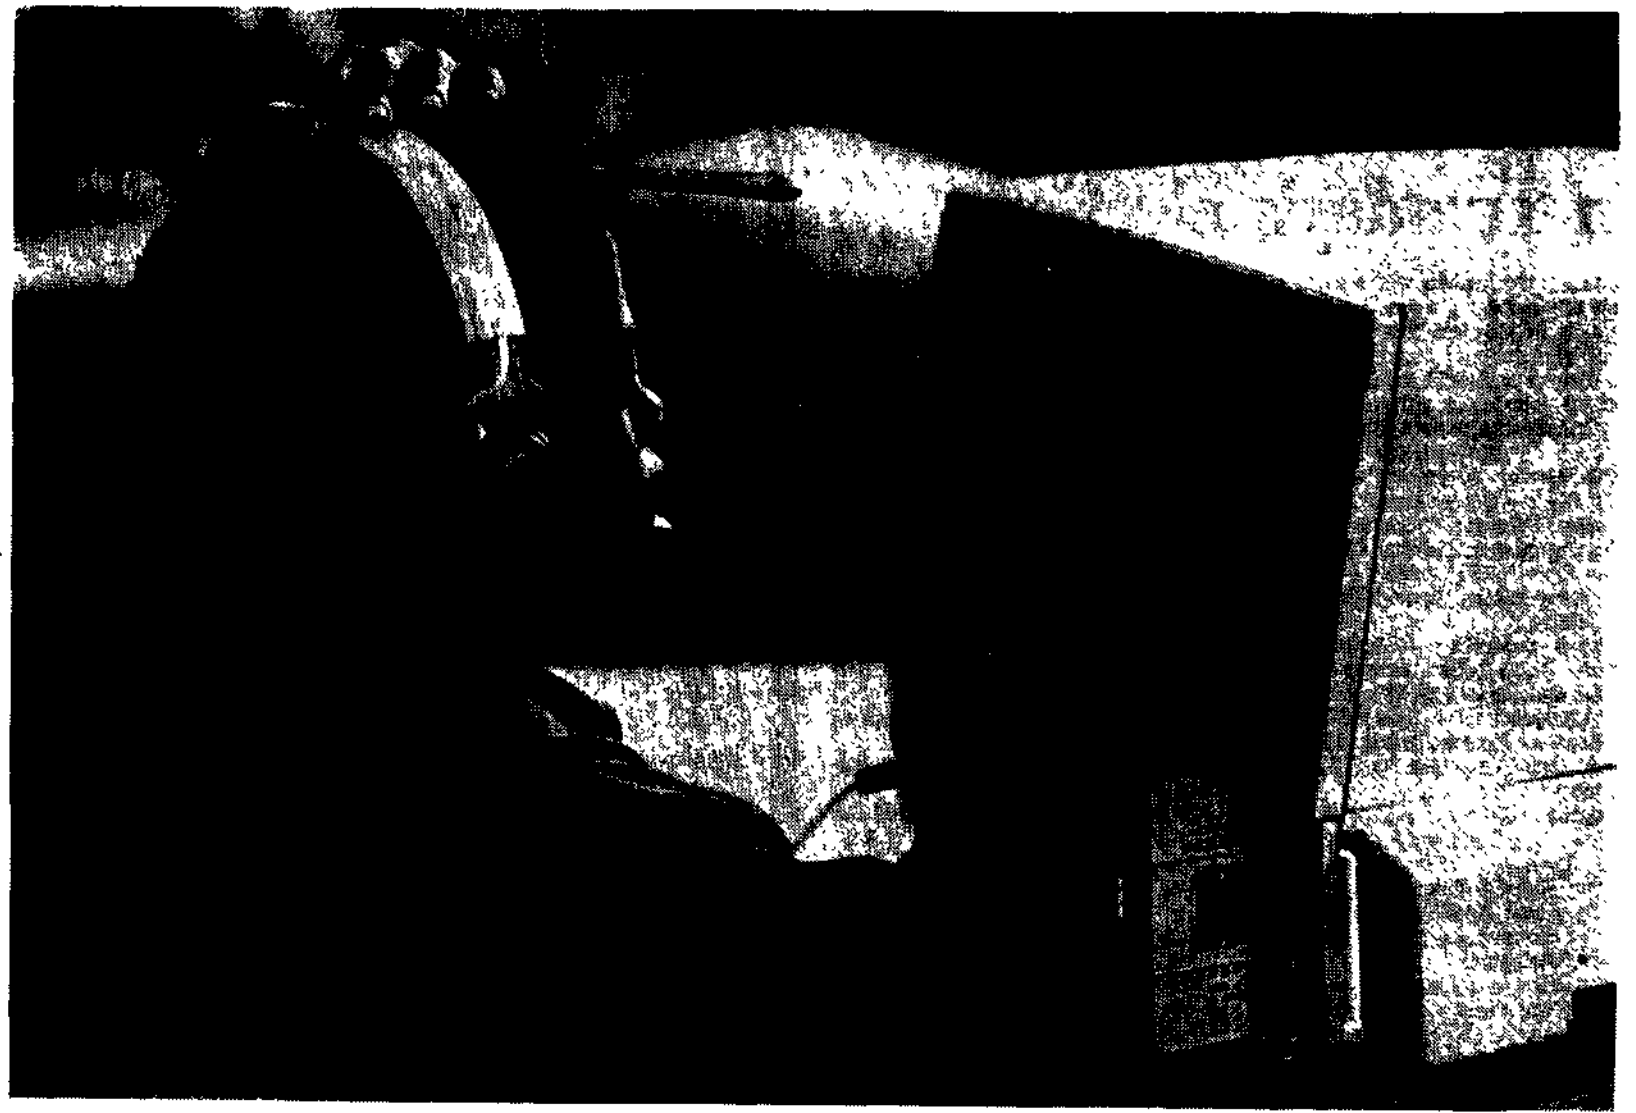

THE LITERACY curriculum is designed to help improve high school students' and adults' reading comprehension, vocabulary and reasoning. French is at the elementary school level and teaches the child listening and speaking vocabulary.

Most children like working with the machine, Campbell said. The tone of voice is the same with each question, "It never shouts back or loses its temper," he said. It is also a useful tool for a shy child who is afraid to raise his hand in class because he might make a mistake.

Daniel Cunliff, principal at Melzer School in East Maine Elementary School Dist. 63, found slow students were able to surpass their classmates in achievement by using the machine. Students in the bottom fifth of their class were given lessons on System 80 while other students were given regular classroom instruction. In many instances the experimental group received higher scores when tested than the rest of the class.

RESEARCH for System 80 began in the Hubbard Woods School in Winnetka in 1964 under the direction of Peter Shreck, now general manager of the Niles office. Booths with two-way mirrors were constructed in the school basement so researchers could watch the reactions of children using the teaching machine. The test lessons proved valid when 80 per cent of the students answered 80 per cent of the questions correctly.

Other tests were made in Evanston,

SYSTEM 80, A TEACHING machine developed by the Borg-Warner Corp., is used by local schools to supplement regular classroom instruction in reading, math, phonics, spelling and French. The machine, marketed in 1970, was developed in Hubbard Woods school in Winnetka and tested in elementary schools throughout the country. Keith Hedgepeth, student at River Trails School in Des Plaines, uses the machine for a lesson in alphabet work.

Chicago and Washington, D.C., on children of different racial and economic backgrounds. In the Chicago tests, children matched according to age, sex, and ability were divided into two groups, one using the machine 12 minutes a day. The group using the machine achieved a 31 per cent gain in word recognition and a 71 per cent gain in paragraph meaning over the second group, which remained in the classroom.

In January Borg-Warner introduced a less expensive marketing plan for schools. For a $30 a year maintenance fee, schools are loaned the teaching machine if they buy the accompanying lessons. System 80 materials are eligible for reimbursement through federal education programs, the National Defense Act and Model Cities.

'73-'74 teacher contract final OK slated

A 6.4 per cent teachers' salary increase has been approved by the River Trails Dist. 26 Board.

The increase includes a 3.7 per cent increment built into last year's salary schedule, plus a 2.3 per cent raise. The new contract means a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree will receive $8,325 to start, $225 more than last year. Beginning teachers with a master's degree will receive $9,275.

For the first time, the board also provided for wage hikes for teachers with bachelor's degrees after 12 years of experience. After 14 years, this schedule provides for an additional $200 a year and after 16 years, another $200. The board also approved a new schedule for teachers with master's degrees and 30 years service. The starting wage for this schedule is $9,875. With 16 years service, the wage is increased to $16,025.

ONE OTHER important provision in the new contract is for a classroom enrichment fund. This fund allows each principal $50 per teacher in his building to be used for supplies and materials without prior approval of the central office.

After approval of the new contract by the board, Gary Rathgeber, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, said, "It's very close to what we expected. It's not what we originally asked for, but then you never expect to get just what you asked for."

The new contract was formulated in three meetings between the board and teachers' representatives. Last year, negotiations were not completed until September. In discussing the speedy agreement, representatives from both sides said they thought that doing away with an outside negotiator helped negotiations quite a bit.

"I said a long time ago that people-to-people contacts are the most appropriate," said Board Pres. Lloyd Demel. "It promotes open discussion and trust."

Boost seen in milk prices

Today's announcement by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) of the milk marketing orders, or base price levels, for bottled milk may represent only one part of an upcoming boost in retail prices within coming weeks.

As explained by USDA's Dick Emery, federal milk market administrator in Chicago, the price levels for Class I (bottled milk) will be announced for May based on the prices paid for Class II milk (used in cheese and other products) during March. In April, the price was $4.71 a hundredweight for bottled milk. "For next month it will possibly go up a nickel or more per hundredweight," he said.

Community college topic of radio show

The role and responsibility of the community college will be the topic for this week's broadcast of "Focus: Northwest."

Guests will be State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Robert E. Lahti, president of Harper College, and Wandalyne Rice, education editor of the Herald.

"Focus: Northwest" is broadcast over Arlington Heights station WMM-FM (92.7) on Friday evenings at 6:45. It is repeated on Sunday mornings at 9.

The program is produced for Harper College in association with WMM-FM by Susanne Havlic.

The federal milk marketing order sets a minimum price to the dairy farmer. It does not include charges added for processing and distribution and "superpool" charge by the large milk dairy cooperatives.

"I don't know how much this will increase the price at the retail level," said Emery. He added that prices could be expected to decline this time of year as the supply increases, but the higher rising demand for dairy products may keep price levels higher than normal.

AREA MILK distributors are predicting that an added price increase could materialize in May if the upcoming settlement with milk wagon drivers is steep. The union, Teamsters Local 753, passed up a cost of living wage increase last year and opted instead for increased pension and welfare benefits. Their contract expires April 30.

Then there is the problem of increased costs passed along by processors, according to John Loss, president of Chicago Milk Distributors. He said the price increases within the last two months of several cents a gallon have already hurt the company. His firm will not pass this month's cost increase from processors along until the milk wage drivers settlement is announced. "It's a problem that it's better to take a loss for 30 days, because the consumer is concerned over rising prices," Loss said.

Several other area milk distributors and retailers indicated their bottled milk prices will be increased in May to reflect a combination of cost increases this month.

One Northwest suburban vending company reported this week that it will begin selling milk at 20 cents a carton for a third of a quart of milk, rather than the present 15 cents for one half pint, as a result of week to week price increases. A company spokesman said they're taking their lumps until a nickel price boost could be justified.

Let's tell all about Watergate

There is today a tumor called the Watergate Affair gnawing at the credibility of the executive branch of American government. But it is not too late to treat the tumor without permanently harming the patient.

It began as a tiny sore last summer, when seven men were charged with conspiring to burglarize and bug the Democrats' national headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The spread of the tumor became apparent several weeks ago, when convicted conspirator James McCord agreed to tell federal Gray confirmation hearings, President Nixon invoked "executive privilege" to prevent one of his aides, John W. Dean III, from testifying.

Executive privilege is an informal privilege designed to prevent a Congress from conducting random witch hunts among executive officials. It is not, however, designed to hide men from testifying about violations of the law. And, as well intentioned as the White House's use of it might be, there's a sense of guilt about the President's threat of it in the Watergate Affair.

Put simply, you look like you're hiding something if you crouch behind a shield. It is time for all White House officials to tell the whole, unvarnished and simple truth about Watergate. The full story has not yet been told.

Watergate is no longer a figment of the imaginations of George McGovern or the press (as some persons believed last fall). There are too many names and too many contradictions in the evidence that's accumulated since the break-in to dismiss the affair as a comical, isolated burlesque act.

Now the Democrats aren't the only ones complaining about Watergate and the way it's been handled. There are many moderate and conservative Republicans today concerned about the White House's lack of candor. Their voices should be heeded.

The tumor must be treated. Perhaps the treatment will be hideously painful to those involved. Perhaps reputations and careers will be ruined. Perhaps the GOP will suffer a drastic loss of votes in the 1974 Congressional elections.

But leave the tumor alone and it may prove to be cancerous, and it may continue to eat away at the integrity and credibility of American government. Now is hardly soon enough for the treatment — full, public disclosure — to begin.

James McCord

Judge John Sirica and a Senate committee more than he's told the jury that convicted him.

Reporters soon learned that McCord had named former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell as the man mentioned by co-conspirators as a planner of the raids, and top White House officials Charles Colson and H. R. Halde- man were implicated, too.

McCord's testimony could open a floodtide of testimony by the conspirators about the Watergate affair. The threat of long prison sentences — and McCord's breaking the ice of truth — may inspire more testimony from G. Gordon Liddy and Howard Hunt.

Logically, the Mitchells and Colsons should come before a Senate committee to answer McCord's charges. But during the Patrick

A 'rain war'?

International crises of the future may be set off by "environmental aggression," warns Maurice S. Strong, head of the United Nations' recently established Environmental Program.

Rainmaking by seeding clouds with silver iodide is already feasible, he says, making it possible for one country knowingly to "steal" another country's rainfall, causing drought.

Predicting that "in 10 or 15 years environmental aggression will be a major source of political conflict," Strong urges that international rules and regulations be drawn up now to control experiments in modifying weather and climate.

No one with any acquaintance with history will believe that men will shrink from using the new science of weather modification to the disadvantage of their neighbors.

But while you can "steal" rainfall, you can hardly stash it in the national treasury. It has to fall somewhere, and chances are it will fall on your own head in amounts greater than you care to have.

In other words, the best defense may be that, like nuclear aggression, it is likely to hurt the aggressor as much as the aggressee.

Farr's case hurts the press

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

The case of William Farr is a bolluxed-up affair which has regrettably muddled the waters in the debate over whether newsmen should be protected by law from revealing the identity of confidential news sources.

Farr is the former Los Angeles Herald-Examiner reporter who has refused on numerous occasions — in the face of what could become life imprisonment for contempt of court — to name the lawyers who told him about a mass-murder plot by the Charles Manson family.

Clark Mollenhoff, a distinguished investigative reporter in Washington, has described Farr as "an admirable, honest young man" who gives "frank and forthright" testimony even when it damages his cause. I would like to believe that.

If I do, however, I am forced to the conclusion that he is also not too bright. Farr, in his battle with the court, has not only put himself in jeopardy of years in prison, but has threatened the careers of two attorneys, placed a cloud on the reputation of six attorneys (including the two whose practice of law will surely end if they are identified) and given opponents of a "press shield" law ammunition which is difficult to protect against.

During the course of the Manson trial, Farr alleges, two of the six defense attorneys gave him information about plans of the "family" to murder and mutilate such show business luminaries as Frank Sinatra, Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor.

It was, as Farr himself acknowledges, a tale which embodied no "great public good." But it was a hell of a tale, nonetheless, and it's hard to imagine any police reporter ignoring it.

Farr wrote the story, citing unidentified sources, and the Herald-Examiner printed it. So far, so good. If there was no "great public good" in the story, there was also no great public harm, and there is something to be said for illuminating the dark corners of the mind of an aberration like Charles Manson.

Had Farr stood his ground at that point, he would at least have been in a defensible position in the debate over confidential sources. Instead, perhaps in an attempt to ease the pressure on himself, he stated publicly that two of the six attorneys had supplied the information.

The common understanding of protecting a source is to keep that source not simply unnamed, but anonymous. Pointing to six people and saying, "Well, I can't tell you who it was, but it was two of them," hardly meets that test.

Superior Court Judge Charles Older promptly summoned the six attorneys and demanded to know which of them had talked to Farr. All swore under oath that it wasn't them.

Either two of them lied — or Farr lied.

If two of the attorneys lied, Farr is now in the position of protecting not only news sources, but perjurers. He has also created and is sustaining a cloud of suspicion over the other four.

If Farr lied, he belongs in jail.

Frankly, I find it difficult to imagine two attorneys standing in open contempt of a judge and perjuring themselves, when the only protection they have against exposure, destruction of their careers and quite likely prison, is the blind faith that one man will accept imprisonment to sustain them in a lie.

Had Farr simply refused to identify his sources, I would be an enthusiastic supporter of his position. But by trying to do it halfway, he deserted his post in guarding those sources and introduced extraneous arguments into a serious debate over shield laws.

He told a congressional committee, "any loophole you allow in this (California shield) law can be fashioned into a noose that will be used to hang reporters."

I agree with that statement. But newsmen who believe that sources must be protected — and that includes me — must remember that any loophole they allow in confidences given them can be fashioned into a noose that will be used to hang sources.

Farr, regrettably, has fashioned a noose.

Fence post letters to the editor

'Soldiers were pawns'

I must say that I read the letter of March 28, written by E. Margaret Osness, with great relish. Ms. Osness spoke of her "two men" who were returning home after an imprisonment in a camp located in North Vietnam. She proceeded to muckrake a while and then capture our collective "patriotic hearts" by branding all military deserters and dodgers cowards.

Perhaps those, Ms. Osness, whom you label cowards are the bravest of all because in order to protest its inhumane involvement in the Vietnam War. These men, nee these protestors, very simply did not want to kill other human beings for a country that was wrongly attempting to play the "policeman of the world," while invading territory and serving as a catalyst to an already brutal civil war.

These men, Ms. Osness certainly are not, in Webster's definition of coward, "shamefully timid people," in that they do not narrowly-mindedly follow the time-worn adage, "My country right or wrong." These straightforward young protestors understand that every society, just as every individual is fallible and these men refuse to fight for a bureaucratic society which allows itself to become a consenting part of a needless slaughter.

I ask, my fellow Americans, what did we really gain from our decade of involvement in the Vietnam conflict? Certainly we did not halt the spread of communism as was our goal. What we gained, my friends, was Nixon's "peace with honor," which is our President's attempt at gaining a stalemate with the North Vietnamese.

Stalemate, why, that's a word usually associated with chess. Quite frankly, the Vietnam War was most definitely a game of chess, with the leaders of North Vietnam and the United States serving as kings and the young men of the world serving as dispensable pawns.

Finally, Ms. Osness, your postscript states that you agree totally with President Nixon. In that case you will wholeheartedly forgive the country which held and tortured your "young men" by agreeing to send your tax money to help in rebuilding Hanoi in accordance with Richard Nixon's latest policy. You and your kind, Ms. Osness, amuse me because you can never forgive members of your own country, yet you are willing to aid people, who just two short months ago were slaughtering hundreds of your precious "young men."

You sound, Ms. Osness, like one who reads the scriptures and so I ask you and others like you to think about this quote from Isaiah the next time you call a person who does not want to kill, a coward: "Nation shall not lift up sword against nation and neither shall they learn war anymore."

Dist. 57 credibility hit

It was very disturbing to learn that our local school board candidates were running unopposed for the Dist. 57 board. I did attend the Westbrook PTA meeting Tuesday, March 27, however, to at least hear what the candidates had to say — and I did have a few questions I wanted answered. Mr. Kluxdahl pointed out the lack of credibility on the part of the present board; Mr. Oleson assured us of the great credibility that the board has established within the last year. Taxpayers, judge for yourself where the credibility lies when I give you the following information:

I asked Mr. Oleson if Dr. Hall was being considered for the position of superintendent and he was evasive, my impression was that he did not know. I asked him who was interviewing the final selection of candidates and he said he did not know and that he was not one who would be. I accepted this as fact.

Those rotten apples

In answer to your distasteful, disparaging, ill-timed editorial on draft dodgers, traitors, etc., who in their right mind would put rotten apples back in the barrel?

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Post graduate medical and dental instruction in the United States appears to be expanding from the lecture room into the homes of doctors and dentists.

It also is creating a big business in the production of video cassettes and players to show the instructional films through a television receiver, says Dr. Edward O'Rourke, former New York City Health Commissioner.

O'Rourke now is vice president of Primary Medical Communications Inc., a cassette producer. His company has launched an ambitious postgraduate cassette teaching program in collaboration with the American Association of Dental Schools.

OTHER COMPANIES in the field of producing cassettes in color in medicine, surgery and related fields include American International Medical Services of Hollywood, BNA Films of Rockville, Md., Time, Inc., Synapse division of J. Walter Thompson Co., Network for Continuing Medical Education, a division of the Hoffman-La Roche pharmaceutical house, and Medcom Video Records of Westport, Conn.

THE MEDICAL profession was quick to see the advantages of television to enable doctors to take postgraduate instruction.

In the earliest days of television, there were several broadcast shows devoted to this continuing teaching of medicine and surgery by means of electronic journalism. Doctors watched these shows avidly, but the sponsors had to pay for a big waste audience on the television stations. It was hard to find a convenient time for the shows. Also the doctors had to grasp the program's full significance instantly.

INVENTION OF the video cassette and the cassette player killed the broadcast programs. A doctor can play the cassettes at his convenience and take all the time he wants studying them. The cassettes may be either purchased or rented.

Physicians, dentists and nurses always have had a strong incentive to seek continuing postgraduate instruction, but O'Rourke said this incentive now is being strengthened by the pace of scientific progress and by the enactment of relicensing laws designed to weed out backward and incompetent practitioners.

Only Kansas, Maryland and New Mexico have adopted relicensing laws so far, but the medical societies in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Florida, Pennsylvania, Arizona and Oregon have endorsed the relicensing principle and urged their state legislatures to enact such laws. O'Rourke said the trend is likely to spread.

Small institutions also would be insured

Bills seek relief for S&L depositors

by LEA TONKIN

Socking away your cash at the local savings and loan association usually is a sure bet you can collect the money when it's needed.

Unfortunately for a number of Illinois depositors in these thrift associations, their investment went sour in the wake of an uninsured S&L's financial flop. In the well-known City Savings and Loan case, depositors were left in limbo for years on their chances of collecting savings and the state probably will have to foot the bill to repay their losses.

WHEELING AND dealing on a grand scale as in the City Savings case, is unusual in this industry, according to Illinois Savings and Loan Comr. John Lanigan. Nevertheless, he says, the only way to prevent another S&L failure from backfiring on its trusting depositors is to require mandatory insurance for all the institutions.

"I have a bill on my desk, to be introduced by Sen. Howard Carroll, D-Chicago, which will require by June, 1975, all S&L's have Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp. insurance or insurance from an acceptable insurance company," said Lanigan this week. A similar bill introduced last year, died in committee.

One of the problems of FSLIC is that their standards are so high uninsured S&L's are unable to qualify," Lanigan said. One requirement is that the association must have $1 million in assets, and another calls for day-to-day management of assets. Many of the uninsured associations in Illinois are simply too small to meet the FSLIC standards.

MOST OF THE fewer than 50 associations in Illinois which do not maintain insurance "are well-run and have adequate reserves," Lanigan says. "This bill is intended to take care of the one that goes bad."

A separate insurance company could be set up, through another bill set for introduction in the near future. This would enable the small institutions to buy insurance rather than forcing them out of existence.

"In this bill, I think we have enough preventive guarantees to prevent any depositor from losing his savings in the future," adds Lanigan. "Of course there are limits, as FSLIC covers only $20,000 in deposits."

LANIGAN, WHO studied pensions in his former job as a state legislator, says similar protection should be extended to persons investing in pension plans, credit unions and other "stable" investments. State legislation could complement federal standards if these are drafted in 1973, he said.

"We're in the age of consumerism," he emphasizes, "and I think the consumer should be given every possible guarantee that of their savings."

The City Savings case also points out the need for another bill to license appraisers in Illinois, according to Lanigan. Much of the association's problems stemmed from phoney appraisals and the payouts made on these reports. The house committee on registration and education considered the bill yesterday, called by its sponsor, Rep. Michael Madigan, D-Chicago. A number of professional appraiser groups are supporting the bill.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All state and national banks were ordered this week to report their condition to federal regulatory agencies as of March 28.

A joint call was made by the Federal Reserve Board for state banks in the Federal Reserve System, the comptroller of the currency for national banks, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for state banks that are not members of the Federal Reserve System.

Banks must report conditions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All state and national banks were ordered this week to report their condition to federal regulatory agencies as of March 28.

A joint call was made by the Federal Reserve Board for state banks in the Federal Reserve System, the comptroller of the currency for national banks, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for state banks that are not members of the Federal Reserve System.

Commenting on the bank's continued growth in the past 10 years, president Neil Cooney said, "We are proud to offer a full range of financial services to the community and to have participated in the rapid growth of the Elk Grove area. And, as a member of the community, we feel a responsibility to be actively involved in local affairs."

Bank celebrates 10th year

The Bank of Elk Grove is celebrating its 10th year of service to Elk Grove Village and neighboring communities now through April 14.

The bank opened in April, 1963, in a one-story building located in the Park and Shop Plaza in Elk Grove Village with assets of $500,000. The financial institution now is housed in a new, modern two story facility at Arlington Heights and Higgins road with assets of more than $38 million.

Dividend News

NI-Gas

Northern Illinois Gas Co. reported it expects to show a 1973 earnings increase although "uncertainties obscure our earnings picture."

C. J. Gauthier, NI-Gas chairman and president, reported in the annual report revenues and earnings for 1972 set new highs, despite ever-tightening gas supply problems. Annual revenues were $425 million, up from $374 million in 1971. Colder than normal weather helped raise year-end 1972 earnings to $2.92 a share, 12 cents over 1971.

Richardson Co.

The Richardson Co.'s sales and earnings have been at a good level, and first quarter results are expected to compare favorably with the same period last year, president William B. Basile told shareholders at the company's recent annual meeting in Des Plaines.

"General economic conditions remain favorable and the outlook for our own markets and business are encouraging. As we now see the outlook for the full year 1973, we believe that Richardson should report a nice increase in both sales and earnings," Basile continued.

Citing the company's major attention to being more market oriented and directed, Basile said, "Our task is not yet complete, but we have had considerable success in implementing these management concepts with accepted and working management methods, and considerable benefit has and will result therefrom."

Basile said plans call for a stepped up pace of plant expansion to achieve the potential growth in sales and earnings. Construction of a new 162,000 square foot facility is under way in Beacon, N.Y., and the company recently acquired a polystyrene plant in Houston, Tex.

Richardson, whose common shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange, has interests in engineered industrial materials and parts, specialty chemicals and graphic art materials.

American Hospital

American Hospital Supply Corp. achieved record annual and quarterly sales, net earnings, and earnings per share, it was announced recently by Karl D. Bays, president and chief executive officer.

For the 12 months ending Dec. 31, 1972 AHSC had net sales of $668,875,000, up 16 per cent above the $576,807,000 of 1971. Net earnings were $33,893,000, up 16 per cent from $29,163,000 of one year ago. Earnings per share increased 16 per cent in 1972 to 99 cents a share from the 85 cents a share of 1971.

Net sales for the three months ending Dec. 31, 1972, were $181,038,000, up 18 per cent from $153,490,000 for the fourth quarter of 1971.

Quirks in the news

by JIM HARVEY

BARTENDER DRAINED: Motel manager Joe Ewing of Nashville, Tenn., finally found the cause of his drainage problem — the dead pet boa constrictor of rock singer Alice Cooper, who was a guest last August. While at the motel, the snake disappeared and Alice had to get another one. "The bartender was cleaning the bar and found the drain stopped up," Ewing said. "All of a sudden he looked at the floor and the boa came easing out of the drain. It wasn't alive ... but it was still a snake."

'SHOT' FROM HIP FAILED: When police in Portsmouth, England stopped a suspect for alleged drunken driving, he took several quick gulps from a hip flask, then said they could not give him a breath test because he was drinking after being stopped. It didn't work. Police checked the flask and found it contained only coffee.

BAD NIGHT AT OXNARD: The Rev. C. Eugene Rogers, pastor of an Oxnard, Calif., Baptist church, was awakened by a call from police, asking if he owned a black and yellow Ford. He said he did, and it was in his driveway. No, the policeman said, it was parked 10 blocks away. Rev. Rogers said he'd be right over to claim it. He could drive his other car. He walked outside and found that car, too, had been stolen.

A GASSER: After waiting four months for the gas board to fix his kitchen stove, Patrick Fisher of London wrote a check for his last gas bill — on his oven door. The gas board accepted it and a bank "cashed" it. "If I get no satisfaction," Fisher said, "my next check will be written on an old sofa."

PERILS OF TELEVISION: Pub manager Peter Butler thought he knew all the perils of TV until his 9-year-old son Colin went on strike for more allowance money. After watching strike reports on TV, Colin decided to strike for an increase in the 49 cents a week he earned for doing odd jobs. He won a pay hike of 37 cents.

FIREMEN TO 'RESCUE': George Petty of Bournemouth, England, faced the task of painting a small window that was difficult to reach. He asked, and received, from firemen a special fire escape ladder. The cost of having the firemen raise him 60 feet and wait while he painted the window was $12, one-tenth the cost of scaffolding.

TRIM AND WATER THE CAR: Two men who normally work on floats for the Rose Bowl have built a grass-covered car for an ad campaign by a plant food company. The car's metal body is covered with sod. Rivets, angle iron braces and chicken wire hold it on. But there are problems ... The car has to be trimmed regularly, especially the hood where the lawn grows fast and looks shaggy because of engine heat. And, when it rains, the sod absorbs about 2,500 pounds of water.

Homes of the Northwest Suburbs

The "L" Shaped Ranch

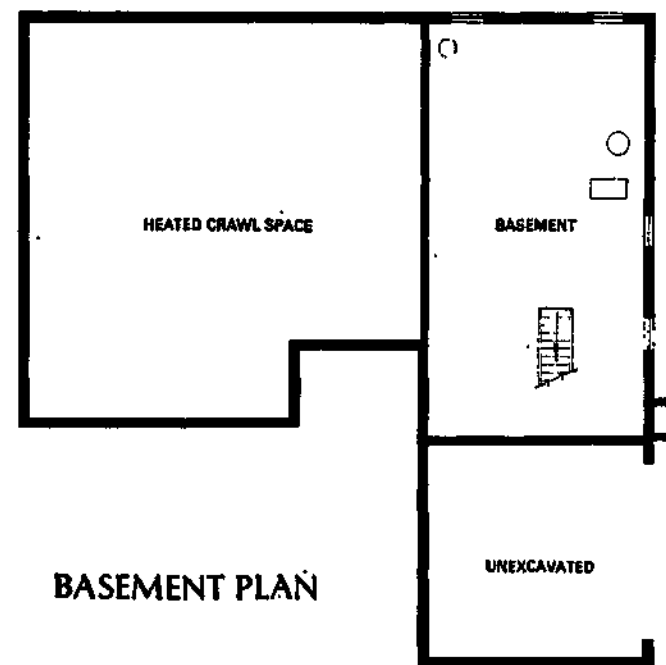

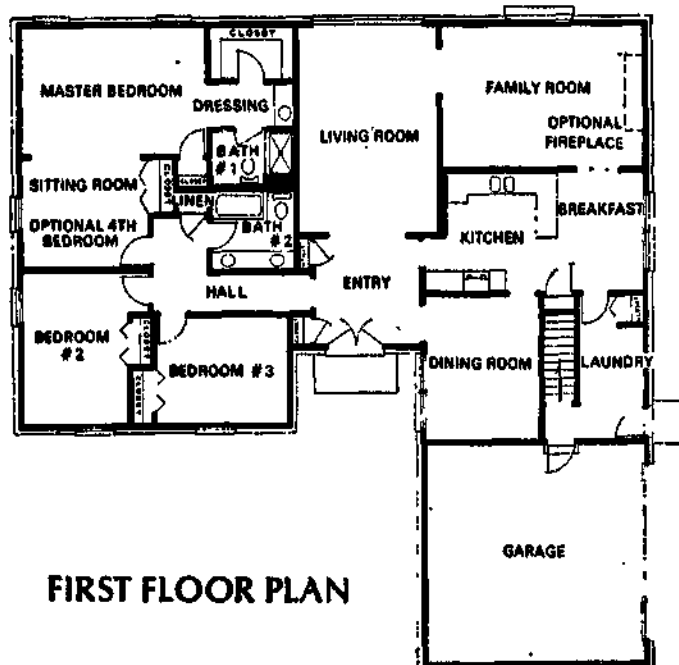

The "L" Shaped ranch combines economy construction with central traffic pattern for the utmost in economy construction and exterior interest.

The basic "L" shape ranch offers many interesting possibilities for unusual landscaping because of the 6 wall exterior design and allows for many different elevations and building material combinations.

Most Midwest Ranch homes include full or partial basements ideal for total family recreation and game areas plus adequate storage area and the home style is most popular for families who like single floor living.

The Ranch home concepts are many and varied in styles and sizes but essentially were developed to offer a more casual living atmosphere with reduced traffic and maximum convenience and they offer the ideal construction for room additions and expansion.

Quinlan, Tyson Palatine office breaks record

Quinlan and Tyson's Palatine area office is off to a record-breaking start early in 1973.

After only two months, the office has recorded a sales volume that is 120 per cent higher than the same period of 1972.

Robert Stirn, office manager, reported that January sales totaled $1,446,050 and February sales totaled $1,582,200.

The new record was set during a 1973 Push Up campaign conducted in the office. The sales representatives were honored for their outstanding efforts at a special luncheon.

Simon/R-G was established last year by I. Simon and Son, Inc., and Romanek-Golub and Company to develop planned communities.

Wilke, a life-long resident of the Chicago area, had been executive vice president of Contracting and Consulting Corp., Rolling Meadows.

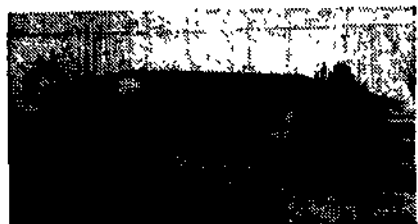

Wilke was graduated from Wright Junior College and studied electrical engineering at Northwestern University. He was with 3H Building Corp. and Contracting and Consulting Corp. for 11 years before assuming his new assignment.

He and Mrs. Wilke and their son and daughter reside in Lincolnshire.

Grand opening at Village on the Lake

THE HERALD

Thursday, April 5, 1973

Section 2 —3

The grand opening of the fourth 96-unit residential building in the Village on the Lake condominium complex in Northwest suburban Elk Grove Village has been announced by Walter L. Sebring, vice president and director of marketing for the United Development Co.

The new building, which features six model homes, is located adjacent to the community's 35-acre private lake and has convenient access to such amenities as a swimming pool and tennis courts provided for the private use of Village on the Lake homeowners. The fourth building includes all of the popular features which have made the development so successful, including a custom decorated social room by the award winning Richard Honquest, a refuse compactor with chute on every floor, individual storage lockers, and a bike and buggy storage area. Each condominium home is also provided with a gas oven-range, 14 cubic foot refrigerator, dishwasher, and disposal. Central heating and air conditioning with individual controls are found in each home.

The sales success of Village on the Lake can be traced to three factors, according to Sebring. First, the Elk Grove Village location is attractive both to current residents of the village and to those moving from the city. Sebring noted that a large number of condominium owners at Village on the Lake have moved from homes in the Northwest suburbs. A second factor is the full range of recreational and social facilities. Third is the convenient access to the nearby facilities such as Woodfield Mall and over 2,000 acres of forest preserve.

The fourth building introduces the first 3-bedroom homes at Village on the Lake. These homes are designed for larger families or for families requiring a den or spare bedroom. Two versions of this home, starting from $36,200 are available.

LIVING PLAN F1 offers an excellent traffic pattern, dividing its over 1,340 square feet into gracious entertaining areas and extremely private bedroom suites. A separated entrance foyer with a recessed guest closet leads to the over 30 foot long, open planned living room-dining area. Sliding glass doors lead from the living room to the wide, deep, private balcony.

The large kitchen, with a convenient swinging door pass-through for easy serving, features over two full walls of counter, cupboard, and storage space, with a full complement of appliances. The kitchen also opens to the bedroom area hallway, giving the homemaker easy access to all areas of the home.

The generously sized master bedroom suite features a full bath, separated dressing area with a wash basin, and a huge walk-in closet. The two bedrooms across from the master suite also have full walls of closets, and are adjacent to the second full bath and a larger linen closet.

Living Plan F2, a larger home, offers all of the features of Plan F1 but also includes a large breakfast room opening off of the kitchen. The breakfast room has access, through sliding glass doors, to a second balcony, which also may be entered from the master bedroom.

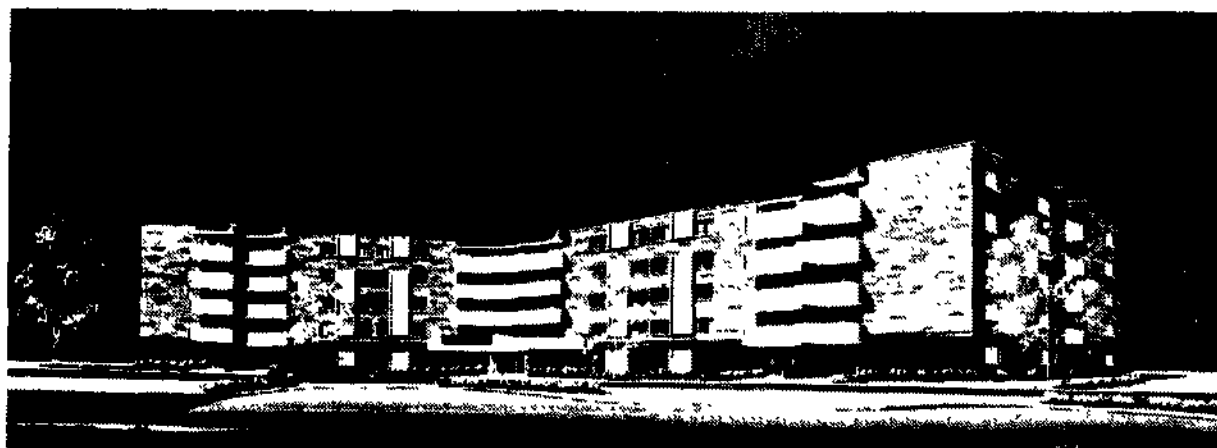

Village on the Lake is located on Birsterfield Road in Elk Grove Village. Models are open daily from 10:00 a.m.

Warn landlords about leases

Roger C. Beck, Internal Revenue Service District director, for northern Illinois, reminded landlords recently that renegotiation provisions pertaining to rental agreements prior to Jan. 11, 1973, which provide for renegotiation of a higher rent when controls end or which specify the higher rent to be charged when controls end, are illegal.

In the executive order establishing Phase III, President Nixon declared such renegotiation provisions inoperative as they are unreasonably inconsistent with the goals of the Economic Stabilization Program.

Landlords who attempt to enforce renegotiation provisions are subject to action by the Cost of Living Council and the Justice Department to prevent operation of such provisions. In addition, tenants may enforce their own behalf in court.

PRIVATE BALCONIES are one of the popular features at Village on the Lake in Elk Grove Village. One bedroom homes start at $21,950.

has made all other forms of buying or selling a home totally obsolete.

Because starting today, he's introducing a whole new way to buy and sell a home. It's called Video Homes Selectra TV. And he's the only exclusive member of the Video Homes Selectra TV Network in this community.

Here's how it works:

If you have a home for sale, you call your Video Homes Selectra TV Network member and he'll put a tour of your home on video tape. So instead of dragging a lot of lookers around to your home, he'll give them the tour in front of the TV monitor in his office. The people he does bring finally will probably make you an offer and close the deal.

Or if you want to buy a home, instead of spending two or three days looking at homes that don't quite make it, you take a couple of hours to find the home that's just right.

And if you're moving out of town, he'll arrange to show you what your new community is like and a tour of the homes that best suit your needs. So you can decide before you ever spend a dime on travel.

In every community there's only one real estate broker who's way ahead of everyone else. Starting today, you know who that is in your community. And he knows who it is in every community in the country. Because they're all members of the Video Homes Selectra TV Network, the original coast-to-coast network that makes buying and selling homes as easy as an afternoon in front of the TV.

'Soundless' construction concerns developer, buyer

Sound construction also ought to mean "sound-less" construction — as far as residents are concerned — according to Mel Collins, Glen Ellyn condominium developer.

"We believe condominium owners are entitled to the best sound-control techniques that acoustical engineers can design," said Collins, whose Scope Development Corp. is building the 60-unit Churchill condominium in downtown Glen Ellyn.

Various methods of deadening sound between adjacent units in an apartment building are available, Collins said.

In Scope's completed Riviera, 40 S. Main St., Glen Ellyn, with two and three-bedroom condominiums priced from $38,500 to $47,500, builders used staggered studs in constructing six-inch-thick party walls between units.

"In this method, one set of studs supports each outside face of the wall," Collins said. "Overlapping bats of sound-trapping-fiberglass are set in place between the studs. A layer of sound-deadening board is attached to studs, and then 5/8-inch dry wall is applied to it with mastic to complete the party wall."

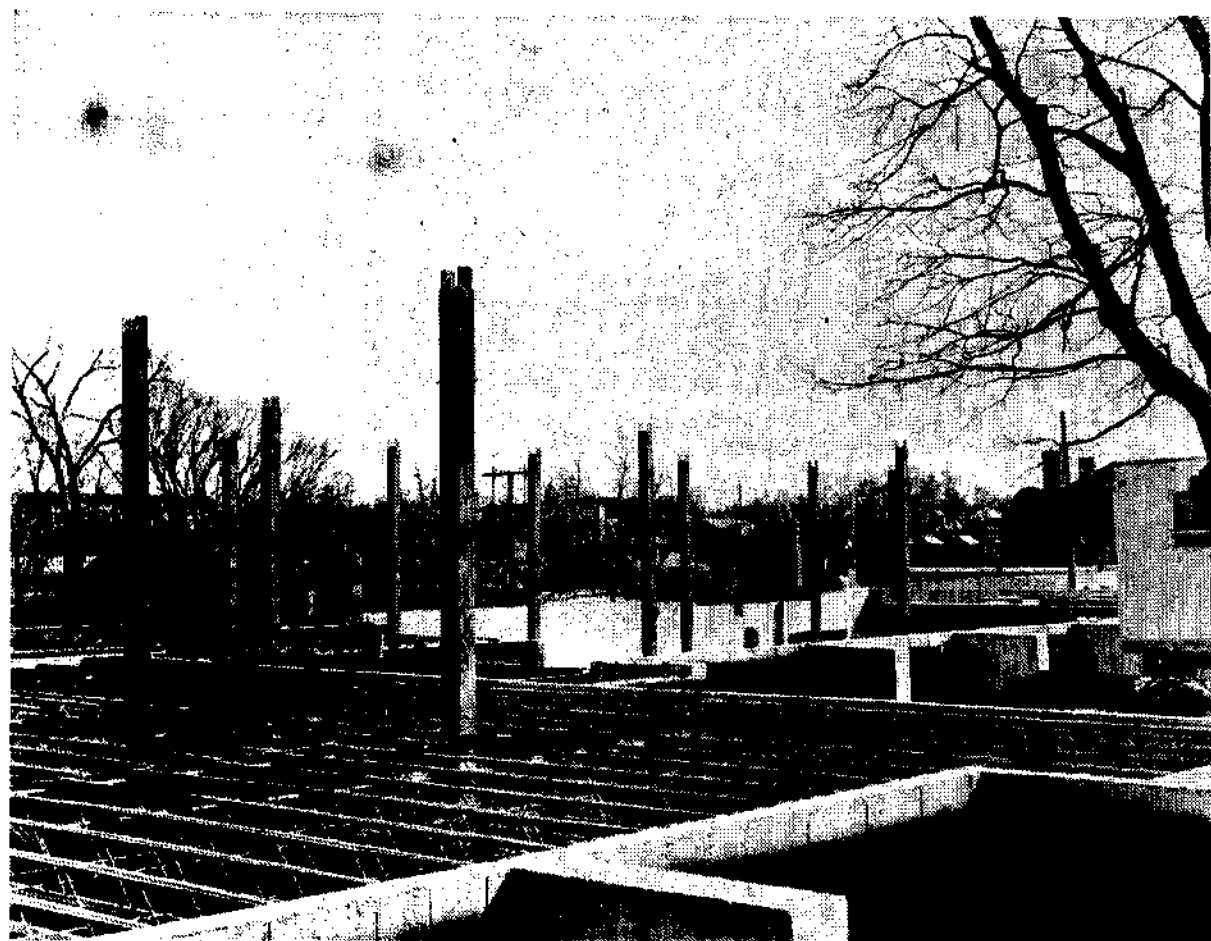

Churchill, which will offer one-, two- and three-bedroom condominiums, from $32,000 to $50,200 will employ an even more effective system for party wall sound control, Collins said.

Studs will be erected in a conventional manner, and one dry wall surface will be attached. Then, several inches of an asbestos fiber insulation material will be sprayed in place, covering dry wall, the sides of studs and electrical conduit and boxes in the wall.

The party wall will be completed by attaching the other face of 5/8-inch dry wall, Collins pointed out.

Sound control between levels in both buildings is provided by solid concrete, carpeted floors.

"The gap between the top of the room-high party wall and the underside of the concrete floor above will be treated the same in Churchill as it was at Riviera," Collins said. "Sound-deadening board was used to fill the opening. It then was sprayed with acoustical material to provide a solid sound barrier as well as an effective fire-stop."

vide a solid sound barrier as well as an effective fire-stop."

Like Riviera, Churchill will have apartment entry doorways designed to trap as much sound as possible. Doors are steel, filled with sound-deadening material, and pre-weather-stripped on all four sides.

Back-to-back electrical outlet boxes, serving adjacent apartments, can be troublesome channels for sound transmission, Collins said. For this reason, such back-to-back installations have been designed out of Scope electrical layouts.

"Likewise, we have no bathroom cabinets or other fixtures recessed into party walls," Collins said. "No one in a Scope condominium ever will open a cabinet — as in some of the television commercials — and find himself gazing at his neighbor's wife."

Kole Real Estate, Ltd. institutes profit sharing

A profit-sharing plan for all salaried employees has been instituted by Kole Real Estate, Ltd.

"Profit-sharing funds are not usually associated with real estate firms," states Robert A. Kole, president of the company. "However, we feel that this is an innovative undertaking that ties in with Kole's aims of breaking new ground as often as possible."

Also aimed at providing employee incentive, the profit-sharing plan is non-participating, with Kole contributing the profit-sharing funds while the employee does not. Each employee can receive up to 15 per cent of his or her annual salary.

The employees of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., may receive the full amount of their profit-sharing after being with the company for five years. The funds are not taxable for the employees until they have withdrawn the allocated amounts. Employees who leave the firm prior to the five-year period, receive an amount from the profit-sharing fund which is commensurate with the amount of time they were employed.

Founded in 1965, Kole Real Estate, Ltd. has been growing rapidly in the Northwest suburban area. The company maintains sales offices in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Park Ridge, Rolling Meadows, and Wheeling, and will soon open an office in Palatine.

Kole recently opened new executive and training offices at 1000 E. Northwest Highway in Mount Prospect.

'Salesman of Year' Realtor contest

Contest entries are now being accepted for the Stewart B. Matthews Salesman of the Year Award, of the Chicago Real Estate Board's Salesman's Club.

Judging of entries will be by the Salesman's Club, and is based on a point system incorporating both the number of sales and total dollar volume for transactions in 1972. The winner will be announced and the award will be presented at the 90th Annual Banquet of CREB in the Grand Ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel on May 9.

The contest is open to all members of the Chicago Real Estate Board. Copies of the contest rules and entry forms may be obtained by contacting the CREB office at 18 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago 60603.

Kunkel personnel attend convention

Three representatives from Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors were among the 1,200 persons at the recent annual "Homes For Living" network convention of the National Multi List Service Realtors in New Orleans.

Attending the convention from Kunkel were: Ralph H. Martin, president; James R. Duncan, vice president and director of the residential sales division; and Edward Barth, residential sales associate.

George P. Shafran, president of the "Homes For Living" network told those at the convention that to be successful in the ever-changing climate of real estate necessitates a progressive look to the 1980's. "Today, large conglomerates have entered real estate," he said, "automation and electronics have expanded services to the American public, federal and state controls and regulations have crept in, and more persons are entering our field to satisfy the growing lot of investors and home buyers."

Among the other featured speakers at the convention were Lt. Gov. George Nigh of Oklahoma and Bob Conklin, a nationally known motivational speaker.

Lieberman Realty exceeds million dollar sales mark

Stan Lieberman

Lieberman Realty broke an all time record in February with over one million dollars in sales reported from the Buffalo Grove office. Stan Lieberman, president, attributes much of the success of his organization to his association with Video Homes of America and National Video Network. Unlike other brokers, Lieberman holds the exclusive franchise for the northwest suburbs of Chicago and is the only broker authorized to perform this unique service.

All of Lieberman's exclusive listings are video-taped and available for replay on closed circuit television not only in their office, but also in offices across the entire country.

Sellers no longer have to limit their potential to the immediate area, but can distribute video tapes of homes on a coast to coast basis. Lieberman said his exclusive franchise has been a tremendous asset in moving properties in a very short period of time.

The enthusiasm that has been generated not only by Lieberman people, but also by the general public, has made Lieberman's impact on the market substantial.

The salespeople who contributed to the success achieved by Lieberman Realty in February are Eli Aschner, Evan Faber, Susie Gamm, Jack Garber, Kay Hynds, David Luchterhand, Marian MacIntyre, Gene Nichols, Larry Schwartz, and Fred Thomas.

Quinlan and Tyson off to record pace

Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, has jumped off to a record-breaking sales pace early in 1973.

After only two months, the North Shore and Northwest Suburban real estate firm has recorded a sales volume of $21,021,525.

That's a phenomenal increase of 33 percent over the same two-month period of 1972. The comparable figure for last year was $15,769,160.

The high total was boosted by a record sales effort in February. The firm set a new monthly sales record with 207 transactions — more than seven per day — totalling $11,073,050 worth of real estate.

That topped the previous monthly high set in July, 1972, when Q&T had 199 transactions totalling $10,905,925.

Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president, said, "We are extremely pleased at the excellent reception we have received from the buying and selling public."

"Public confidence in Q&T — and the excellent efforts of our sales staff — have kept Quinlan and Tyson as the leading firm in its combined marketing area of the North Shore and Northwest Suburban Area."

Currently he is in charge of sales for the Kingsberry Homes subdivision on Thacker Street between Wolf and Mount Prospect roads in Des Plaines.

At the convention of the National Multi List Service last year, he received an award for the "most unusual sales success story." He is also a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and the Illinois Association of Real Estate Board's "Million Dollar Sales Club" for achieving total sales in excess of one million dollars both in 1971 and 1972.

Stonebridge breaking sales rate

A record breaking sales rate of 38 condominium units in less than two weeks has been set at the newly opened Stonebridge condominium apartments in

Realtor protests U. S. rent control program

The Senate's approval recently of a modified form of the Phase II Federal rent control program was condemned by National Association of Realtors president J. D. Sawyer as "meeting a scattered and localized problem with an unwarranted national legislative action."

"If a rent problem in Phase III exists, it is strictly localized in a relatively few sections of the country," Sawyer said. "We are organizing a program that will deal with these isolated problem areas with a minimum of government involvement by establishing Rent Task Forces to seek voluntary compliance with the national anti-inflationary objectives. The task forces that will be formed in problem areas will also focus public attention on those who are taking advantage of this situation."

The two new buildings in the Y shaped development have been opened as condominiums due to the increased demand for ownership by the current Stonebridge Apartment renters.

Several economic influences have brought about a new condition, Kramer reported. The economics of inflation, diminishing purchase power of the dollar, pride of ownership and the security it brings, tax deductions allowed on federal income tax for interest payments and real estate taxes, plus the equity building feature of condominium ownership.

"The combination of all these factors have created a demand for the deluxe condominium apartment," Kramer said. People who have paid rent for ten years have seen the cost of renting creep upward year after year because of the increasing cost of taxes, maintenance salaries and all of the factors included in the word inflation, he added.

MEANWHILE, PEOPLE who bought condominiums ten years ago find that their payments are still stabilized at the rate of ten years ago when the contract was signed. They also find they now have a substantial equity which they can put on the market if circumstances require they sell their apartment.

One of the main reasons why sales have skyrocketed the past two weeks at Stonebridge, however, is that satisfied Stonebridge renters are buying their own condominiums. Since both the condominium and rental buildings are similar, incumbent residents won't have to give up the style of living they have grown so content with, Kramer pointed out.

Each building has 98 units of one and two-bedroom apartments designed in an attractive Y shape with three separate wings circulating from a central service core. Consequently, each apartment has maximum exposure yet is provided with privacy since there are fewer apartments in each wing.

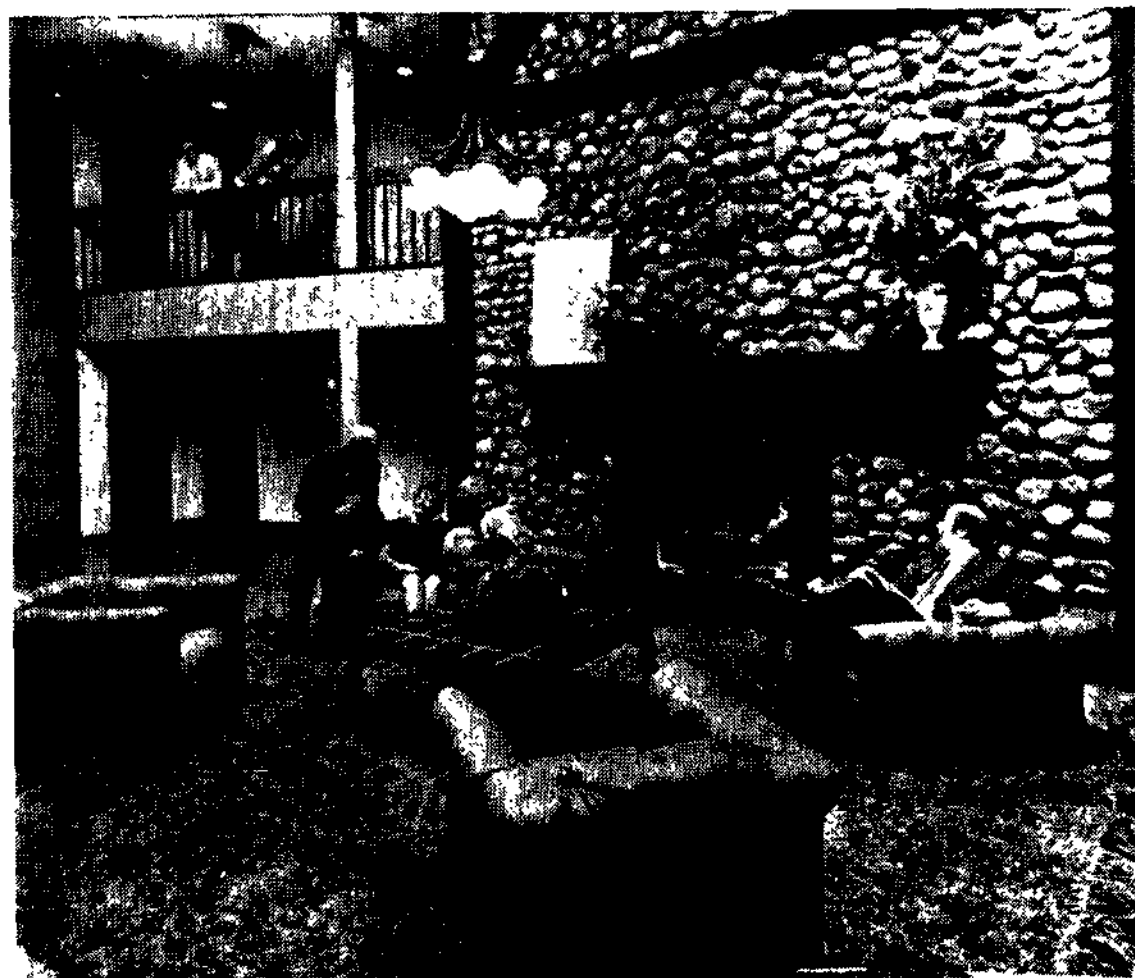

The apartment interiors are enhanced by a center foyer entrance with double sized guest closets. The spacious living room opens onto a private terrace through sliding glass doors and overlooks broad sweeps of landscaped ground.

THE FORMAL DINING room is supplemented by a breakfast nook in the kitchen which comfortably seats up to six people.

The bedrooms are set in a privacy assuring wing and the master bedroom features a large walk-in closet. A full bath is adjacent to every bedroom.

A few of the numerous amenities include: individual thermostats in every apartment for air-conditioning and heating, wall-to-wall carpeting selected by the individual owner, built-in kitchen pantry, furniture-style wood cabinets, a huge frost-free refrigerator, sun lamps in every bathroom, soundproofing between apartments and floors and built-in master antenna outlets in the living room and master bedroom.

The two new buildings also include sauna bath, party room, laundry and storage area and elevators. Both buildings also feature two story lobbies with luxurious carpeting and a conversation area facing a huge fireplace.

RESIDENTS OF Stonebridge Hill apartments in Arlington Heights enjoy the luxury of a two story lobby, fireplace and balcony. The new condominium apartment buildings have this extra feature.

Phase I begun on $70 million Lake Barrington

THE EXTENSIVE landscape program for the new luxury planned unit development in Lake Barrington includes the transplanting of trees. The placement of the Country Homes is to be determined by existing tree locations, with adjustments made in the land planning to keep the more mature trees on their original sites.

Lake Barrington Associates, developers of Lake Barrington, a $70 million residential community to be built over a 10-year period in Lake County, Ill., has begun Phase I in its land planning program for ecological preservation of the natural surroundings on the 510-acre site.

The Lake Barrington site is west of Ill. Rte. 59 between Miller Road and Kelsey Road. A total of 85 per cent of the acreage will be retained as open space, including a 36-acre natural forest preserve. The preserve will be cordoned off to protect it while construction is under way on land adjacent to it.

Harry Reid, architect with Desmond Muirhead Inc., said he personally is supervising the location of models, roadways, and pathways to assure preservation of the natural beauty of the site.

"This is an additional step to be sure the terrain and valuable trees are retained and used to the best advantage of the area," Reid said.

The east side of the forest preserve stretches 2,800 feet along Rte. 59, and is a scenic attraction to motorists traveling the route.

"The view of the forest preserve from Highway 59 will be the same after the development is completed 10 years from now," Reid said.

IN WOODED areas elsewhere in the development, dead and dying trees, and individual trees that are not compatible or do not meet standards of good forestry practices, will be removed, Reid said. Most of the major growth will be preserved, and additional trees that are indigenous to the area will be planted on existing open areas, he added.

Reid said that he expects the planned unit development will become a national showcase for luxury, low-density communities. The density of 2.7 homes per acre is among the lowest in the Barrington area, is one of the lowest in the nation for planned unit developments, and "actually is less dense than many single-family home developments," according to Reid.

Plans for the landscape architectural firm of Franz Lipp-Marvin Wehler, retained by the developers, call for the development of landscape characteristics that will blend the one and two-story dwelling clusters into the existing wooded terrain, creating an atmosphere of custom-built estates common to much of the Barrington region.

The developers have planned 1,350 one, two, and three-bedroom residences to be built in low-profile clusters around an existing mile-long, man-made lake. There will be a rustic neighborhood shopping court, a $1.5 million recreation core with an 18-hole golf course, tennis courts, swimming pool, a clubhouse, and a marina for non-motorized boats.

SCULPTURED LAND forms will be utilized in key areas to screen dwelling clusters, allowing for more individuality of the buildings as well as privacy. Roadways and building locations will be adapted to the existing landscape, minimizing the removal of existing mature trees.

In line with the ecological recycling process, plant material which is dead or scheduled for removal will be shredded into a fibrous wood chip mulch to be used for pathway surfacing and mulch-ing around new plantings. This will be a major material for transitioning newly planted areas, now treeless, into the surroundings.

Landscape plantings that have wildlife food and shelter value will be utilized, and maintenance practices will be adopted to protect wildlife. Also, the quality of the water in the lake will be improved by a series of siltation ponds to hold run-off water before it enters the lake.

Lake Barrington Associates is a partnership, the partners being James Development Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of James Investment Corporation, and Amoco Realty Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana). James Development Corp. is the managing partner. James Investment Corp. has been involved in the development of luxury cooperative and condominium communities in Wilmette, Chicago, and Delray Beach, Fla.

Black gets Realtor 'Outstanding' award

Charles E. Black, of Arlington Heights, manager of the insurance division of Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, has received an "Outstanding Salesman Award" for 1973.

Black, a vice president of the North Shore and Northwest Suburban firm, was given the award by the Independent Insurance Agents Association and the Fireman's Fund American Insurance Company.

He received the citation at a three-day sales workshop held recently in Decatur by the Association in conjunction with Firemen's Fund.

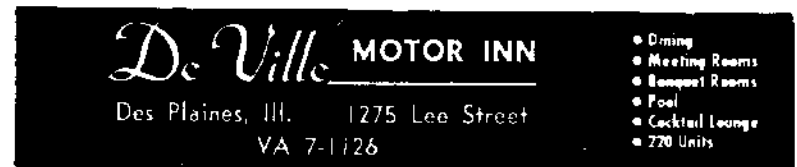

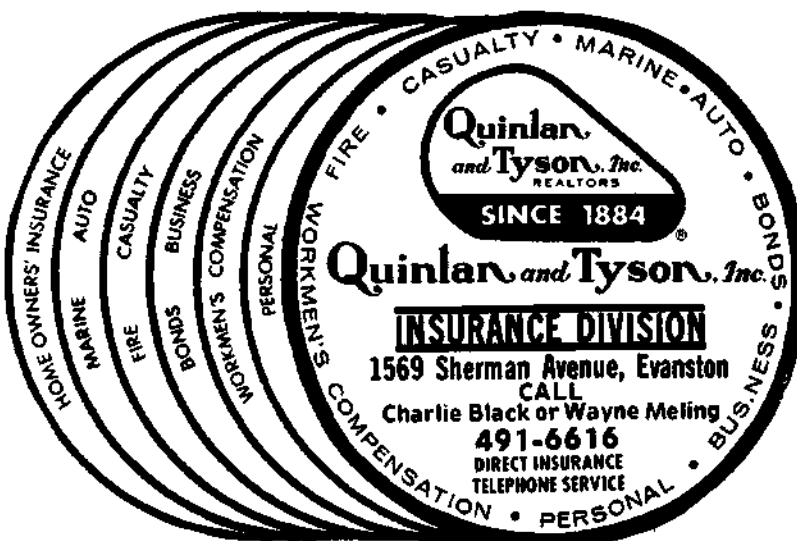

Forty-four insurance agents attended the workshop which included lectures, exhibits, exchanges of ideas and problem solving situations using closed circuit TV.

Using the closed circuit TV, the participants took the parts of an insured and an agent attempting to solve the insured's problem. They played each role for five minutes, and all of the participants critiqued the performances.

FLOOR PLAN of the Emory model in Tarrington community in Naperville. The two-story homes are located on 75th Street in Naperville and range in price from $42,400 to $60,000.

Meritex introduces new model home

A new model home, called "The Emory," has been introduced at Tarrington, the community of single-family custom homes being developed by Meritex Corp. in west suburban Naperville.

The new addition brings to five the number of model homes on display at Tarrington, which opened last summer.

When completed, the community will include 147 three and four bedroom homes spaced over a 52-acre site located on the south side of 75th Street, one-half mile west of Washington Street, in Naperville. The homes available include a mixture of traditional and contemporary styles, comprised of split-level, ranch and two-story homes, with prices ranging from $42,400 to more than $60,000.

The Emory is a two-story home, featuring 4 bedrooms, 1½ bathrooms, and an attached two-car garage, and priced at $44,995.

A FRONT ENTRY DOOR leads into a spacious sunken foyer which gives access to all areas of the home. To the left, at the front of the home, is a large living room, 18'7" x 13', with windows on two sides overlooking the front garden.

Two dining areas are special features of this custom home. One is located at the front, midway between the kitchen and the living room; the other is at the back of the home, next to the family room and with sliding glass doors leading to the rear garden. A guest powder room and a 6-foot x 10-foot storage room complete the ground level.

Upstairs, are a compartmentalized family bathroom, and the four bedrooms, the master bedroom (17' x 13'4") featuring a huge walk-in closet and dressing area.

Included in the price of the home is wall-to-wall carpeting and floor tile throughout. The extensive choice of floor coverings ranges from five brands of carpeting (each with full range of colors) to oak parquet floors, stoneware tiles, seamless linoleum and ceramic and vinyl asbestos floor tiles.

The kitchen includes a dishwasher, disposal, range hood, stainless-steel double-bowl sink with spray; and a choice of four different styles of kitchen cabinets.

THE BATHROOM features a ceramic-tiled tub area; cultured ocean shell or oval bowl design vanity top, with full-wall mirror above.

The list of optional custom features for Tarrington homes is extensive, with literally hundreds of choices, from a swimming pool to an outdoor gas barbecue; rough-sawn cedar paneling; wet bar; cabinets in the laundry area; special treatments for doors and windows; additional interior and exterior lighting fixtures; garage door openers; and a great variety of other items.

According to Leonard W. Besinger, Jr., president of Meritex, the homes have been designed specifically to appeal to growing families, most of whom are seeking their second, or even third, residence.

The recently-introduced Meritex interior design program also is included in the price of each home. This enables buyers to meet with a professional interior designer, on the Meritex staff, on three specified occasions to assist them with suggestions for the home furnishings and color coordination.

The service is aimed at assisting buyers with blending the furnishings from their previous home with features and color schemes available with the Tarrington homes.

The furnished models are open from 10 a.m. till 9 p.m. daily, including weekends. To reach Tarrington, take the East-West Tollway to the Naperville Road South exit. Turn right (west) onto Ogden Avenue (Rt. 34) and continue three miles to downtown Naperville. Turn left (south) onto Washington Street and continue four miles to 75th Street and turn right (west) to the models.

Carlson, Fairman get new Rich Port posts

Realtor Bert Carlson, sales manager of Rich Port, Realtor, Schaumburg office and Pat Fairman, sales manager of the firm's Mount Prospect office, have been appointed vice president for their respective office.

Carlson joined Rich Port, Realtor in March, 1971. Previous to this, he had 5½ years real estate experience specializing in the sale of residential and other type property. He's a G.R.I. graduate of the Realtors Institute of Illinois.

Fairman joined Rich Port, in July, 1971. Prior to this, he was for sixteen years vice president of Marketing and Sales for the Protectoseal Company.

This all-new show is being produced by American Exposition Corp., appointed as show managers by Orkin. According to Ronald P. Ranke, president of American Exposition, "this Do-It-Yourself Show has been scheduled at a time when 'home improvement month' has been proclaimed by mayors, in Chicagoland. Since this show will contain exhibits dealing with hobbies and crafts with an emphasis on home remodeling and gardening, features to help provide a cleaner environment, and programs developed to encourage civic beautification, we feel our timing is excellent."

Ranke explained that since this show once enjoyed great popularity, scores of manufacturers and merchants have signified an interest in participating in this event based upon the successes they have enjoyed in past shows. They had expressed a desire for this revival, and the Chicago show will be the first of a series planned for major markets throughout 1973 and into 1974.

Exhibits and demonstrations will be presented to hobbyists whose interests may include art, ceramics, rug weaving, knitting, sewing, model-making, music, photography, electronics, sports and painting — to name a few.

For the handy-man around the house, and the lady with the "green thumb," features and demonstrations will highlight wood-working, paneling, paint, power tools, tile, aluminum, carpeting, electrical work, plumbing, gardening, cement and stone work.

Frequent demonstrations will provide step-by-step instructions for the "how-to" enthusiast, regardless of the project in mind. There will also be contests for schools, a wide array of door prizes, and entertainment of all types.

The Do-It-Yourself Show affords an opportunity for exhibitors to meet prospects face-to-face, to make direct sales to a large audience, to measure product acceptability, to augment regular sales activities, to present live demonstrations, and to increase their share of the market at a modest cost.

Many unusual exhibitor services will also include a consultation staff to help them maximize their coverage in publicity and promotion, and to offer assistance in related fields through a full-time press office.

Additional information on the 1973 Do-It-Yourself Show may be obtained by writing Ronald P. Ranke, American Exposition Corporation, P. O. Box 66463, Chicago, Ill. 60666, or by phoning 312-782-2913.

Miller Builders, Inc. makes new appointments

Norman F. Meyerson, president of Miller Builders, Inc., Chicago area development and building firm which is a subsidiary of Miller Associated Industries, Inc., announced the promotions of two of its new executive appointments.

Joseph Dakis

Barry Mayer

Philip Gershon

Philip S. Gershon has been named an executive vice president and will be in charge of operations. In his new capacity, Gershon will oversee the divisions and departments of single-family, multi-family, land improvements and engineering, construction management, scheduling and Miller's earthmoving subsidiary, Embeco. Gershon will remain president of Ismil, the management company formed by Miller several years ago to manage both its multi-family residential and commercial properties.

Named vice president of Miller as head of construction management is Walter J. Cahn. He will direct and control construction operations for multi-family high rise, commercial and industrial projects. Joseph Dakis assumes the post of director of multi-family housing with duties that include planning, directing and managing the operation activities of this department.

Metro area housing permits up 52 pct.

"Permits for housing issued in the Chicago metropolitan area, during February of this year, were 52 per cent above February, 1972, thus adding supporting evidence for a continued favorable outlook for housing in 1973," said Roland J. Barstow, President of Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

"All housing, including single family and apartment units, rose from 2,432 to 3,732," he said.

The significant difference occurred in multi-family permits which climbed from 1,448 to 2,558, an increase of 77 per cent. Single family units rose 16 per cent going from 984 in February, 1972 to 1,144 in the same month this year.

Suburban towns posted a whopping increase in apartment activity (927 to 2,512), nearly tripling last year's activity.

However, large decreases were observed in multiples in the City of Chicago (232 to 8) and the unincorporated areas (269 to 8).

James Harris earns G. R. I. designation

James O. Harris, sales manager of Annen & Busse Realtors in Palatine, successfully completed his three year course at the Graduate Real Estate Institute held in Springfield, last month.

He has attained the title G.R.I. The course is sponsored by the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards.

He is a licensed real estate broker and a professional appraiser. He is a senior member of the American Society of Appraisers and has served the Chicago Chapter in several capacities. He has been sales manager for Annen & Busse in their Palatine location for the past seven months.

Appointed to the post of director of marketing is Barry Mayer, who will direct the activities of market analysis, product and marketing planning and implementation, and control of the advertising and public relations services.

The firm has more than doubled its building activities in the past two years, encompassing both residential, industrial and commercial development.

Gunsteens designated certified broker

Realtor Kenneth M. Gunsteens of Park Ridge has been designated a Certified Residential Broker (C.R.B.) of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers (NIREB). This professional designation is awarded to individuals who have completed a rigorous academic program and demonstrated their skill in the field of residential brokerage.

In announcing the designation award, NIREB president R. Stanley Dybvig, C.C.I.M., explained that "many years of diligent study and conscientious application are needed to become a Certified Residential Broker. Those seeking to buy, sell, rent or exchange residential real estate may rely fully on the designee's knowledge and ability."

Kenneth M. Gunsteens is affiliated with the firm of Bice, Realtors in Park Ridge, and Bice-Grand, Realtors, in Arlington Heights.

NIREB, with a membership of 23,000 brokers and sales associates throughout the United States, is the largest educational affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. It awards the C.R.B. and C.C.I.M. designations for which credits are earned through successful completion of educational courses sponsored by NIREB and state real estate associations, for college studies and degrees, for applied experience in residential or commercial-investment brokerage, and for elective offices in local, state and national real estate organizations.

Sold By Lu Krey

... this says it all!

Yes, another home both listed and sold by Starck. Sure, some of our listings are sold by other brokers through MAP Multiple Listing Service, Inc. BUT, we sell a whole bunch of our listings and we do it FAST!

How?

In any successful business the most valuable resource is people. We are very proud of all the salesmen, managers and office personnel in our organization. We select them carefully, train them well and keep retraining so that our clients and customers get total real estate service.

In addition, our advertising and merchandising is aggressive and combines both quantity and quality. Every home we list has its own merchandising campaign put into writing. You are kept informed of all details and progress every step of the way until the property is sold.

An important part of merchandising is establishing the proper selling price for your property. Using established and accurate appraisal techniques we prepare a Value Analysis on your property. This results in a fast sale at top market price for you.

We offer three exclusive extras that greatly assist us in selling your property:

1. Inter-City Relocation Service Inc. 650 nationwide Realtors constantly are referring their transferred clients to us. In 1972 this has resulted in over $2,000,000 in additional sales.
2. Palace Guard, Inc. In this age of consumerism buyers expect to purchase things and know that they will work properly or will be fixed so that they do. Palace Guard Service is only offered through us.
3. The Starck Home Guarantee Purchase Plan and Potere PET Equity Program permits us to sell a buyer your property and "take his home in trade" anywhere in the country.

Since 1960 Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors have sold thousands of homes in the great Northwest Suburbs. We have grown to five offices with over fifty associates.

We'd love to spotlight your home with our SOLD sign!

YOU WON'T CARE WHERE THE YELLOW WENT!

If you've noticed that the brave blue gas flame of your range has been acting a little yellow lately, then you've probably also noticed that cooking-time is taking longer than usual. Possibly the cooking itself isn't as tasty as it used to be.

First thing to do is try cleaning the burner itself.

(If that doesn't work, call your service man. Don't fool around).

Your flame should burn with an intense blue glow that's all blue, and which you can look right through to the sharply defined inner core. That means you can whistle-while-you-work, confident that dinner's going to be fine, and on time, after all!

A public service announcement from the AMERICAN GAS ASSOCIATION

WHEN COMPLETED Vacation Village Fox Lake will have 2,500 studio, one and two-bedroom condominiums. Center for many of the activities will be the Outrigger Pavilion with its game room, social hall, adjacent pool and sundeck. During the winter months skiing, tobogganing, ice fishing, ice skating and snowmobiling will highlight the agenda. Spring and fall will provide opportunities for fishing, hunting, hiking, exploring and horseback riding. Activities for the summer months include boating, sailing, swimming, sunbathing, water skiing, more fishing, golf and tennis.

TRYING TO SELL your house can be a problem, especially if the tenants are unpredictable. As reported by the owner of a Santa Cruz, Calif., home, a busload of local real estate sales personnel arrived at his home to take a tour. A young man clad only in a beard and long, flowing locks answered the door and conducted a room-by-room tour, extensively explaining all the home's features. "I guess everybody was a little shook up," said one of the salespeople. "I don't think anybody on the tour could tell you how many rooms are in the house."

DIRTY DISHES -- A SIGN OF GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

You can stack dirty dishes in your automatic dishwasher with a clear conscience. In fact you'll be practicing good conservation, ecology and economy -- so save the breakfast and lunch dishes and wash 'em all at one time with the dinner dishes.

You'll conserve both hot water and the natural gas needed to heat it and you will help our ecology by putting less detergent into our water supply. You'll save time and money, too -- so start stacking those dirty dishes today.

Realty investment trust industry will gain in '73

The real estate investment trust industry will gain strength during 1973 as many smaller trusts and those with poor management are weeded out, according to Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors of Boston.

"Management is the key to a good REIT, but there are not enough competent people available to fill all of the jobs," Holladay emphasizes.

"The older trusts that have already demonstrated good, solid management will be better performers this year."

REITs, Holladay adds, may have lost some of their former glamor for several reasons, including the too-rapid increase in the number of new trusts, and tight money market during the final days of Phase II.

"WE EXPECT an over-all industry growth of about 15 per cent this year, which is more reasonable than the 20-25 per cent predicted earlier by some economic pundits."

"A well-managed trust can be expected to produce a yield of about 8.5 per cent, with a 10 per cent annual appreciation of principal. While all REITs have been hard pressed to raise capital, those that are able to secure funds will demonstrate clearly visible growth," Holladay stresses.

The outlook for the rest of 1973: Continued increases in the real cost of money.

Area golf teams flash mid-season form in openers

Golf Editor

Area teams gave a strong indication that they plan to correct last season's situation that found none of them down in Champaign for the state meet.

St. Viator, Prospect and Conant all opened the 1973 season in encouraging fashion despite the wet and cold conditions that historically hamper early spring play. Rolling Meadows made its second appearance of the embryo campaign, but ran into St. Viator's awesome machine in an attempt to post its second straight decision.

LIONS POST 59TH STRAIGHT

St. Viator's virtually unstoppable golf machine picked up where it left off the last four years — putting past Rolling Meadows, 152-172 for its 59th consecutive dual-meet decision without defeat.

Lion head coach Ken Peck's fairway flyers debuted in spectacular fashion as four players eclipsed 40 strokes in a steady display over their home course at Rob Roy.

Tom McEnerney, Mickey Flittin, Kevin Hanigan and Larry Peltier all carded 39's for Viator while Mike Brawley's 40 and Ken Rech's 42 served as an important cushion.

The Mustangs, who opened a day earlier with a decision over Ridgewood, found their overall record leveled at 1-1 despite a trio of 42's by John Stahl, Tom Schramm and Todd Sander. Carl Schweikert contributed a 46 as did Tom Carlstrom while Steve Nicloff fought the drizzle and cold conditions for a 47.

Meadows evened the score on the frosh-soph level behind Larry Murphy's medalist 42 as the Mustangs surprised Viator, 173-191. Both the 172 varsity total and 173 frosh-soph standard are Rolling Meadows school records.

KNIGHTS IMPRESSIVE

Prospect didn't waste any time informing Mid-Suburban League teams that it has high hopes of repeating for the conference crown.

The Knights chipped away for a 167-177 verdict over Central Suburban League foe Maine West despite less than favorable conditions over Golden Acres' 3,375-yard, par 36 Yellow Course.

Craig Ridley and Rick Reed showed the way for Prospect with identical 40's while Ron Swanson's 43 and successive 44's by Craig Calkins and Rich Carlson provided ample support.

"Actually I thought we could have played a little lower," Prospect head coach George Berk said. "The conditions were pretty wet out there and I guess there was a brief shower, but I was hoping we could break into the 162-163 range."

Maine West, just 10 strokes off the winner's pace, found Jeff Potter sharing medalist honors with a solid 40. Glen Dalbke and Tom Grueter each chipped in with 45's, Paul Frost a 47 and Scott Kisten a 51.

The Knights' opening season triumph extended a streak of 16 straight decisions registered last season in an unbeaten overall display. Prospect's frosh-soph crew warmed up to challenging proportions, too, with a 180-204 victory over the Warriors. Knight Steve Spielmann led the assault with a 42.

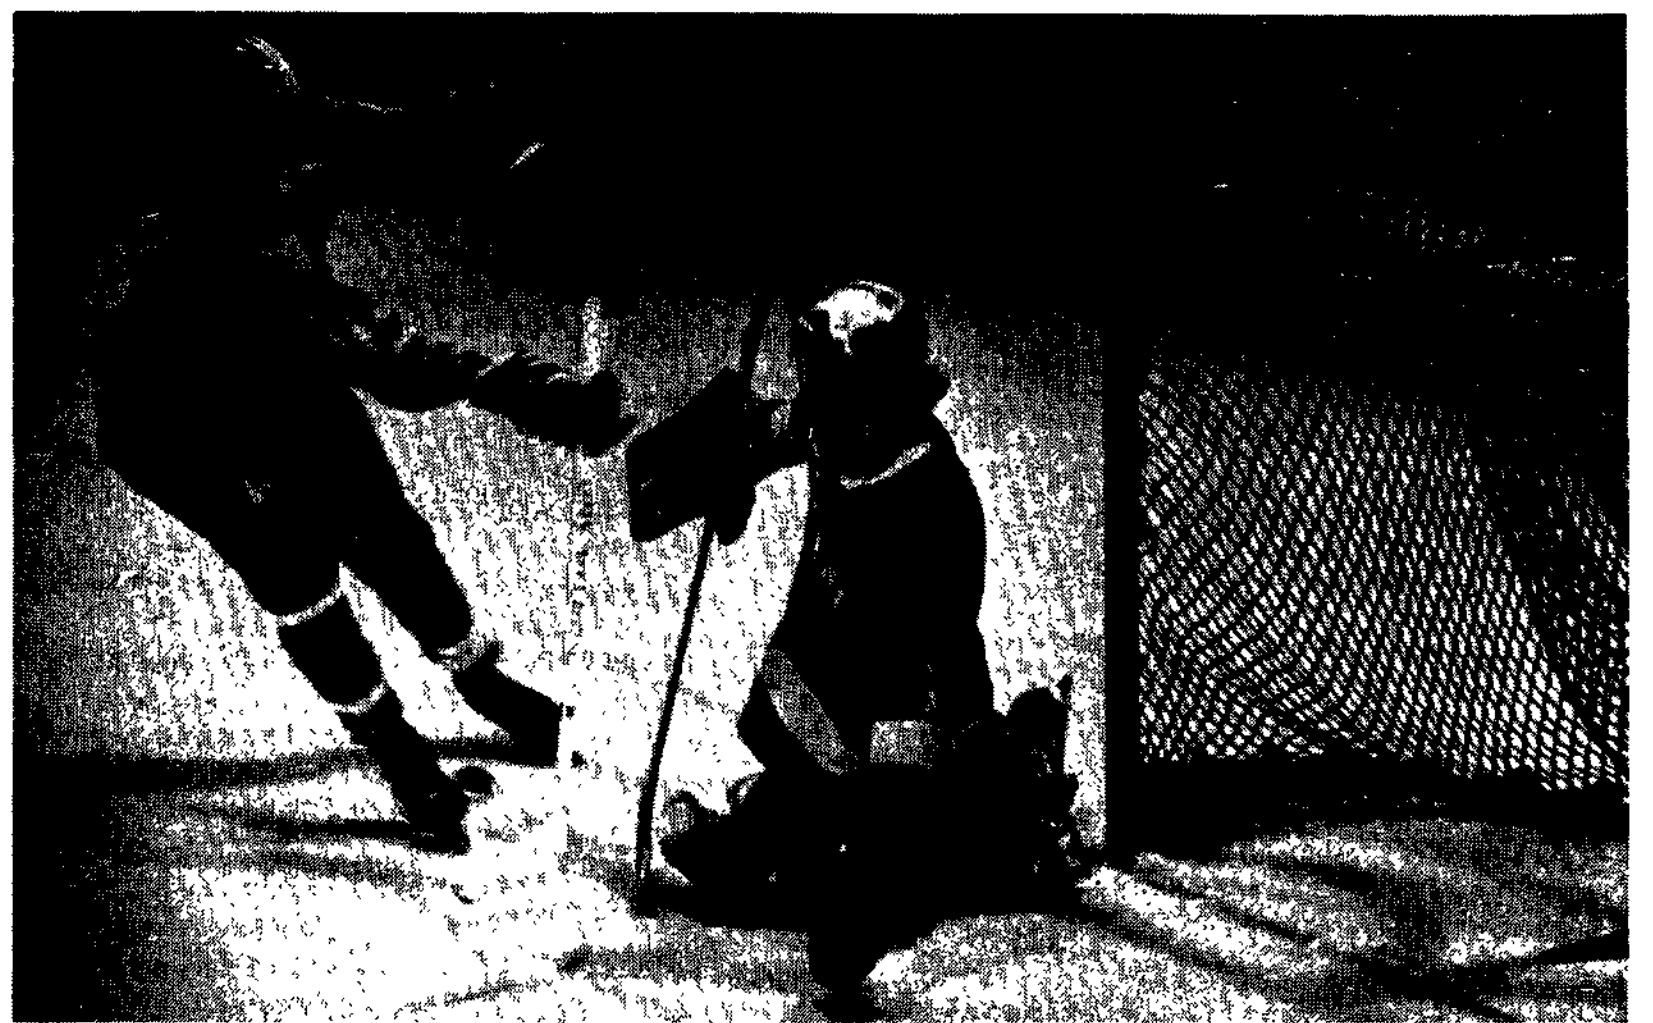

COUGARS SHARP, BUT LOSE

Conant fired a season-opening 163 over its Golden Acres' White Course, but the Cougars' strong showing didn't impress St. Edward of Elgin which slipped away with a 160-163 decision.

Junior Kevin Eakins paved the trail for Conant with a masterful 38. Dave Love rode home on a 41 while Dave Domek, Bob Whiting, Dave Profita and Keith Kellogg each carded 42's. Jim Gannon rounded out Conant's first outing with a 44.

"I'm really pleased with the way we shot today," Cougar coach Barry Carlson admitted. "That's the best opening score we've ever had here," the four-year pilot remembered. "The best we've ever finished is 9-6 and I think we have an excellent chance to surpass the mark because we still have room for improvement."

The Cougar frosh-soph linksmen were also on top of their game as they fired a sharp 179 to easily topple St. Edward's 202.

NO DICE. Rolling Meadows goalie Jack Conway made some dazzling saves Sunday in Metro High School League play at Arlington Ice Spectrum. But three New Trier East goals in the second period pushed them past the Mustangs, 4-3, in a semi-final playoff game. East will meet undefeated Lyons for the championship. (Photo by Larry Cameron)

He didn't go all the way

Joltin' Joe comes back — a little

by IRA BERKOW

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Despite Mrs. Robinson's tenuous lament, Joltin' Joe did not leave and go away (hey hey hey, hey hey hey). Joe DiMaggio returned home to San Francisco because he never really had much stomach for being an American folk hero.

DiMaggio developed an ulcer which can be traced back to his 56-game hitting streak in 1941 (the streak was voted in a poll of baseball stars and executives "the greatest individual achievement in the history of baseball"). The demands made upon him by well-wishers (his word) and business agents forced him to literally bolt his doors and windows.

It drove a shy man even further into himself. He promised himself that when he finished playing baseball he would stay as far away from pressure as possible.

So when he retired after the 1951 season, he slipped out of the public eye. Ever so slightly, however, he has been slipping back.

Recently he showed up in Bowery Savings bank promotions on New York television and in New York newspapers, grayer and bakier and his sad-eyed, long-nosed but distinguished Modigliani face only a little fleshier than when he was the velvet glove of the New York Yankees.

He is also being seen at more pro-am golf tournaments around the country and on rare occasions will attend one of the many banquets that he once always turned down.

(He still looks forward to Old-Timers' Day games where the applause for him is longer and louder than for anyone else and where, according to an admiring Reggie Jackson, he still strokes "frozen ropes.")

"It seems people are still interested in me," said DiMaggio recently, at a golf tournament here. "And some of my friends think that I can do some things in public and not hurt myself, if they're tasteful and I'm not too pressured."

He said this with characteristic understatement, but also with a soupcon of pride and wonderment that a 56-year-old grandfather of two (boys 11 and 9) is still remembered.

Of course, he remembers. Sometimes the memories are pleasantly recalled when he will be watching television and some film shorts of the Yankee Clipper will come on.

Sometimes, though, the memories are literally painful. At the golf tournament here, for example, he came down with a cold. "And I felt all my old baseball injuries come back," he said. His brim of his blue golf cap was pushed up in front and the eminent DiMaggio looked comfortably comical. (A San Franciscan who knows DiMaggio said not to get Joe started on his aches and pains.)

"It seems I had those injuries in every part of my body," he said. "My knee caps got it the worst. I can hardly walk." (Indeed, when he walked down steps he took them with two feet on each step.) "I've got pains in my legs back here and the throbbing from the tendons that I once pulled in my arms. And the ligaments in my shoulders are in shreds. I can't throw 15 feet overhand any more. I've got to throw like this." He made a girlish motion.

He also has quit smoking and he has drastically changed his diet. "I've cut out spaghetti and all those sauces," he said. "I used to eat that stuff a couple times a week."

His schedule for the last 20-plus years has been what he promised himself, one filled with little pressure. He never took any of the managerial offers because "my stomach didn't need it." And even now, when he isn't traveling, he says he is home in San Francisco "doing nothing." Nothing consists of living in the same house he has lived in since his first year in the big leagues, 1936, watching westerns and soap operas on television; he is not very particular of the quality. He reads little except for the sports sections of newspapers and the financial sections, to see how his stocks are doing.

He goes often for relaxing steam baths, and he will spend long hours in his brother's restaurant on the wharf, drinking tea. His ulcer discourages coffee and hard liquor.

DiMaggio blames his ulcer on himself. "I always kept everything inside of me," he said. His former teammate, Phil Rizzuto, has said, "Joe just never blew his top."

Pride in achievement, Joe has said, also caused him inner tension. "Ever since I began playing baseball, I tried too hard. I always wanted to get four hits a game. The first time I came up I'd be worrying about the fourth hit before I even got the first."

He is also terribly meticulous personally. "He keeps promises," said a friend. He remains aware of his physical image.

When it was close to tee-off time at the celebrity golf classic, and DiMaggio had not yet appeared, a young athlete asked, "Where's Joe D., combing his hair?"

Even in retirement DiMaggio was conscious of his athletic presence. At first he did not want people to see him play golf for fear his swing was not graceful enough.

On the surface, it would seem that DiMaggio, in his later years, would go fishing to relax, since fishing was the occupation of his father and his father's father.

In fact, in Ernest Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea," the old man at one point says, "I would like to take the great DiMaggio fishing."

"They say his father was a fisherman. Maybe he was as poor as we are and would understand."

In Al Silverman's unique biography of DiMaggio ("The Golden Year, 1941," published by Prentice-Hall), Joe says, "It used to make my pop sore when I told him the smell of the boat made me sick. I don't know whether his pride was hurt over the fact that I wasn't a dawn to dusk fisherman, like the rest of the family, or because he considered it a disgrace that a DiMaggio should admit to having a weak stomach."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

NO-PRESSURE schedule for Joe DiMaggio includes, these days, occasional pro-am appearances.

Northwest girls impress with indoor track victory

Northwest Suburban YMCA's girl track team showed its strength recently in a large Amateur Athletic Union indoor meet.

With 207 girls participating in four age groups at Maine South High School, the Des Plaines team racked up 149 points to easily win the contest. West Suburban YMCA finished second with 111½ points with Peoria taking third with 87.

Teams from as far away as Moline, Milwaukee and Belvidere were among the 10 entered.

Top local finishers by age groups were:

14 and over — Trudi Rebsamen with first in the 220-yard dash (26.0) and the 440-yard dash (58.7); Kathy La Porte with first in the 50-yard hurdles (7.3) and third in the 440-yard dash (61.9).

12 and 13 year olds — Liz Boesen with first in the 440-yard dash (61.7) and first in the 2/3rd mile relay (2:35); Renee

Gromke with first in the shot put (32 feet), first in the 50-yard hurdles (8.1) and first in the 2/3rd mile relay (2:35).

Other girls on the winning relay team were Debra Saban and Deann Gutowski.

10 and 11 year olds — Shelly Miller with first in the 880-yard run (2:51.1) and long jump (14½ feet); Margaret La Porte with first in the 440-yard dash (1:12.5) and the 2/3rd mile relay (3:05) and second in the 880-yard run (2:55.7); Lisa Estes with first in the 2/3rd mile relay (3:05) second in the 440-yard dash (1:13.4) and third in the 50-yard dash (7:15).

Other girls on the winning relay were Mary Le Claire and Debbie Coryell.

9 and under — Diane Schneider with first in the 220-yard dash (32.7), Susan Rebsamen with first in the 440-yard dash (1:19.2) and Diane Overland with first in the 880-yard run (3:15.9).

Stephens guides Saxons; opener slated Thursday

Schaumburg was still hoping yesterday to get its baseball season under way today as scheduled, at home against Dundee, but it was doubtful whether the game could be played.

"If there's no more rain," athletic director John Paul said, "we could get the game in. Our field was in good condition until the weekend."

Palatine hockey awards banquet

The 4th Annual Palatine Hockey Awards Banquet will be held on Sunday, April 15 at 3 p.m. at the Marriott Motor Hotel. The dinner will be prepared and served by the Marriott staff. Cost is $5 per person.

In addition to the distribution of team and individual awards, Marcel Pronovost, Coach of the Chicago Cougars and Reggie Fleming of the Cougars will be guest speakers.

Another important item on the agenda will be the election of officers for next year. The nominating committee has drawn up a slate which will be presented for approval. Other nominations for officers will be accepted at the Palatine Park District Office, 262 E. Palatine Rd. Nominations should be presented in writing by April 6.

The Saxons this spring will be guided by a new coach, Dick Stephens, who was freshman A baseball coach at Schaumburg last year and frosh A basketball coach this year. He replaces Roy Hascup who this year is coaching at Fremd.

The Saxons finished with a 6-4 Mid-Suburban League record last year and were in the thick of the South Division race until the final game. They finished one-half game behind winner Forest View.

After the Dundee game, no more contests are scheduled until the MSL opener against Wheeling April 16.

A more detailed preview of the season will appear in these pages after the opener is played.

Conant opens with victory

Despite less-than-ideal weather, the area's first outdoor track meet of the season was held at Conant Monday, with the Cougars edging Lake Park 65-61 and easily topping Niles East (26) in a triangular.

Coach Joe Mortimer's Conant squad picked up six firsts, two of them by Jeff Brandt in the hurdles. He took the 120-yard highs in :16.8 and the 180 lows in :21.8.

Rick Newman also had a fine afternoon with two seconds and a first. He won the long jump with 18-3 3/4 and was second in the high hurdles in :17.1 and lows in :22.6.

Also winning for Conant were Joel Anderson with 120-1 in the discus, Russ Windholz with 46-7 1/2 in the shot put and Doug Paape with 9-6 in the pole vault. Runners-up were Paape with 5-4 in the high jump, John Bond with 10:14 in the two-mile, Bob Everly with 2:09.5 in the 880, Dave Elderkin with 4:45.3 in the mile and Len Olson with :24.5 in the 220.

Lake Park also won the frosh-soph meet.

Evanston shades Pirate trackmen

Palatine came the closest it has come yet to beating perennially-strong Evanston in the opener of the outdoor track season for the Pirates, but a victory in the final event gave the Wildcats a 64-59 triumph in the rain.

Palatine had a 10-point lead following the mile run, when it took the top two places, but the score was tied going into the mile relay which was won by Evanston. The winners, who have won three straight state championships, also shaded Palatine recently in indoor track.

Three double winners accounted for all

At Rolling Meadows

Venus took team honors with a 784 high game and 2,190 series recently in the women's Thors Thunderbustlers league at Rolling Meadows-Fair Lanes Bowl.

Barb Porter used games of 183-189-193 for a 545 series, high among the bolers. Grete Miles had games of 291 and 178 during her 538 series.

Other high game-series scores were Janet Andrich 186-320, Lee Webster 176-500 and Donna Rudin 216-492. Additional high scores were Carol Moore 183, Peggy Jackson 182, Lois Graham 179, Eleanor Hanneman 178 and Carol Harrison 175.

Ms. Rudin converted the 6/7/9 split while Ms. Miles knocked down a 6/7.

six Palatine first places — Scott Williams, Jan Fitzgerald and Mike Murphy.

Williams followed up a fine mile showing in the Oak Park Relays to win that event in 4:30.6 and also took the two-mile run in a fine 9:44.1. Fitzgerald won both hurdles events with good times for the first outdoor meet — 15.6 in the 120-yard high and 20.9 in the 180 lows. Murphy was the high jump winner with 6-2 and pole vault winner with 9-0.

Dave Tehle and Bill O'Neill gave Palatine a clean sweep in the two-mile. Jim Grab was second in the discus and teammate Ken Kroll was third. Grab also placed third in the shot put. Dave Bailey was second in the low hurdles and third in the highs.

Chuck Bell set a Palatine freshmen record with a fine 2:01.7 for second place in the 880 and Tom Glenn was third with 2:02.0.

Larry Mennes accounted for plenty of points with seconds in both the 220-yard dash (23.9) and 440 (52.3) and third in the 100-yard dash (1:10.8). Tehle also had another second with 4:35.0 in the mile. Palatine's other place was a third by Mike McCostlin in the long jump with 19-1 1/4.

Evanston easily won the frosh-soph meet, 99-26.

Palatine and LaGrange will be at Maine West for a 10.00 meet Saturday morning.

Fremd linksmen open campaign

Fremd will be getting the links out of the links for the first time this season today when it travels to Glenbrook North for a non-conference golf match.

The Vikings will be seeking to improve upon their 7-8 overall record from last season and also stepping up on its 6-5 mark in the MSL.

Despite averaging a lofty 174.9 strokes per outing in 1972, the Vikings did reach their potential on several occasions, including the 160 they posted against Hershey and Crystal Lake and the 162 against Lake Park.

The Vikings, coached by Len Fioeca, call Palatine Hills Golf Course their home battle grounds. The course is located at Baldwin Road in Palatine.

60-and-over tourney at River Trails

Players from four states, including the two biggest names in Chicago tennis history, will gather Friday afternoon at the River Trails indoor courts south of Mount Prospect for the second annual Chicago District men's 60-and-over tournament.

One of the names is Lott. Many observers rate George Lott, star Davis Cupper of 40 years ago, tennis magazine writer and current DePaul University coach, the greatest doubles player of all time.

The other name is Riessen. Not Marty Riessen of the pro tour but his father, Clare, the Northwestern University coach who has been reaching the quarterfinals of national 60 tournaments. Riessen and Lott will be the doubles team to beat in the three-day River Trails competition.

Noted out-of-towners will include Ward Parker of St. Louis, one-time regional star whose sons Jim and Larry have held high national men's rankings recently; nationally ranked Ray Wiese of St. Louis and Nate Ganger of Ottawa, Ohio, and Charley Close of Tupelo, Miss., formerly of Arlington Heights, the No. 9 player in the South.

Dak Lathrop of Park Ridge, who won last year's doubles title with Pekin's Paul Dixon, will pair with Ganger this time. Another strong duo will be Bob Crook of Evanston and Al Winston of Wilmette. Erling Jensen of Ames, Iowa, is playing the Florida senior circuit and will not defend his singles crown.

Maine-Northfield set April 10 parents night

Maine-Northfield Little League will hold its annual parents night Tuesday, April 10 at 8 p.m. in Maine North High School.

Plans for the coming season that begins May 5 will be discussed and questions about the league will be answered. Parents of new boys are especially urged to be present.

The league also announced that classes for umpires will be held on April 13, 20 and 27 at Elm Park, Glenview. Practice games for umpire field training will be played on April 28 and 29.

Young men who have umpired in Maine-Northfield Little League in previous years are invited to attend the classes and to call Robert Glass at 966-6070 for further information and enrollment.

The Northwest Suburban YMCA boys gymnastics team participated in the Elche Invitational Meet and brought home the second-place team trophy.

In the 11 and under age group, Joe Ray captured a first on side horse, a second on high bar and a fourth in all-around. Daen Hellickson landed the runnerup spot on horse and a third on horizontal bar while Henry DeGroh helped make the horse event a clean sweep with a third-place medal. Doug Dawson, Ron Bartusiak and Mike Lucansky also contributed.

Versatile Dewey Deal exploded for a first on parallel bars, a second on both side horse and vaulting and a third on floor exercise and rings for the gold medal in the 12-14 all-around competition.

Karl Seitz nailed down a second on rings and Jeff Vanyek tied for third on side horse. Others participating in the 12-14 bracket included Jim Huck and Pat Lucansky.

GETTING A FINAL crack and making it over the 5-foot, 10-inch mark in the high jump is Prospect's Rich Van-denbossche in Friday's Wildcat Indoor Relays at Wheeling. This effort was good for sixth place but was just three inches below the winning leap.

Fishing trip to Canada scheduled for June 15-25

It's that time of the year again. It's time to think about fishing and the outdoor life.

If you're a boy who likes this type of life, and who will be in high school (or older) next year, read on.

Fishing, eating and sleeping will be the main activities as area boys, under the guidance of trip organizers Dick Mudge and Dave Theesfeld, visit Black Bear Lodge in Canada June 15 through June 25.

The entire cost of the trip is $150 per boy. The price includes the following:

1. Transportation to Black Bear Lodge and back. (2,000 miles round trip)
2. Lodging for nine days (including two nights enroute).
3. Flight into and out of Black Bear Lodge from Red Lake, Ontario.
4. Meals while at Black Bear Lodge.
5. Fishing License.

6. Boat, motor and fuel.
7. Transportation of fish home.
8. Accident and sickness insurance.

Black Bear Lodge is not a sport skill camp, and boys are free to spend their time as they wish.

Black Bear Lodge is located on Red Lake, approximately 50 miles northwest of the town of Red Lake, Ontario. Northern Pike, Walleye and Lake Trout are three species of fish in the lake.

Black Bear Lodge is owned and operated by Walt Rundle, a teacher at Fenton High School. He has spent 16 summers in the Red Lake area operating this type of camp.

Boys will be housed in log cabins, 8 to 12 boys to a cabin, and there is also a main lodge for eating and spending leisure time.

A typical day starts with sunrise between 5 and 6 a.m. Breakfast is at 8 a.m., lunch at 1 p.m. and dinner at 6 p.m. Shore lunches are provided for anyone desiring them.

The sun usually sets between 10 and 11 p.m., providing plenty of fishing time.

A car caravan, with an adult driver in each car, will take the boys to Red Lake, Ontario, and then the boys and baggage will transfer to planes for a trip to Black Bear Lodge.

Applications are being accepted now, and there will be a meeting and film on the camp on Tuesday evening, April 10, at eight o'clock at Forest View High School, room A224. All boys who might be interested in the camp are urged to attend this meeting.

If you have any questions on the fishing excursion, call Dick Mudge at 253-0604 or Dave Theesfeld at 259-0088 after 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday or contact your school representative.

Big soph meet to Fremd

The frosh-soph version of the Wildcat Indoor Relays at Wheeling was dominated by Fremd and Glenbrook North as they staged a two-team race to the wire. The Vikings finally prevailed by a single point even though Glenbrook North had one more first place (6-5) among the 13 events.

Elk Grove was well back in third place, Arlington fourth, Hersey fifth, then Palatine, Wheeling, Forest View, Prospect, Glenbrook South, Rolling Meadows and Deerfield.

The Vikings, who easily won the frosh-soph title in Mid-Suburban League track last year with a strong freshmen class, had a double winner in Dave Scott. He won the 880-yard run in 2:07.4 and the mile in 4:43.8.

Other Fremd winners were Mike Vasquez with 11-6 in the pole vault, John Sheputis with 5-10 in the high jump and the 12-lap relay team with 4:14.7.

The only other individuals to win events besides those from Glenbrook North were Forest View's Mike Mount with 46-9/16 in the shot put and Arlington's Craig Bernhardt with 20-1/4 in the long jump.

Prospect diamondmen debut against Maine West's nine

This was supposed to be the year that Prospect would benefit from a season of rebuilding in 1972. But instead of rebuilding, the Knights were too busy contending for South Division honors in the Mid-Suburban League.

So with a veteran lineup returning, Prospect embarks on a new schedule to-day at 4:30 when it visits Maine West in a non-conference clash.

The Knights, piloted by Larry Pohlman, were in an intense scramble for top honors in the league until the final week of the season when an untimely three-game losing skid doused their hopes for a pennant.

Prospect emerged with a 7-7 mark in the MSL with a balanced attack both on the mound and in the batter's box. The Knights will celebrate its home opener against Fenton, Thursday, April 12 before striking up its league campaign against Rolling Meadows, Monday, April 16.

Wildcats swing into golf

The club covers will come off of Wheeling's golf bags today when the Wildcats crack open a new season against visiting Maine West at 3 p.m.

Head coach Jack Berry, who watched his Wildcats dip into the 150's on three different occasions last season, would like nothing better than to wheel right to the top of the MSL standings.

The 'Cats almost realized that fate in 1972 when it posted a nifty 8-3 conference record and a 10-5 mark outside the league.

Noticeably missing from Wheeling's lineup this season will be super swinger Bob Winter, the league's medalist last year. Also lacking from this season's schedule is the Chevy Chase Golf Tournament, annually hosted by Wheeling.

Wheeling will begin the conference season against Conant Monday, April 9.

Girls softball league accepts registrations

The response of the girls' softball program started last year by Elk Grove Athletic Association in the Village has become so great that girls who have not sent in their registration forms should do so immediately.

Girls who participated last year will return to their same teams unless they are moving from one division to another: Ponytail 8 to 10, Juniors 11 to 13, and Seniors' traveling teams.

There will be two divisions in the Traveling League this year — B ages 13 to 16 and A 17 years old and under. Cut-off date for all ages is Aug. 1, 1973.

Registration fee for Ponytail and Juniors is $12.00, which includes field equipment, playing equipment, insurance, awards, and jersey and cap which the girls may keep at the end of the season. Registration fees for the traveling teams is $15, which includes all equipment, insurance, complete uniform (to be returned to EGVA at end of season), cap and socks (girls keep these), tournaments, awards, etc.

There will be clinics for mothers and daughters; coaches; umpires, etc. held in May and all registered girls will be informed of exact date and time. Tryouts will be held June 2 at Brantwood Park and all girls who are new and/or moving into another division will participate so that all teams will be as equal as possible at the beginning of the season.

The Elk Grove Athletic Association has been responsible in initiating the Northwest Suburban Girls' Softball League in which traveling teams play and which consists of Palatine, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Roselle, Hoffman Estates, and Elk Grove. There will also be a tournament that Elk Grove will host the weekend of Aug. 10 including the communities listed plus all others that are interested and would like to participate. Additional information for this tournament may be obtained from Mrs. Dee Johnson, 885-8865.

There has been a great deal of interest expressed for a women's softball team, ages 18 and over, and if the response is great, this also will become a reality. Please mail all registrations to EGVA, 960 Carswell Ave., Elk Grove Village, Ill. 60007. Additional registration forms may also be obtained at this address.

For further convenience for those who missed the two registration dates in March, there will be another date of Saturday, April 28, 11:00 to 5:00 p.m., at Elk Grove Bowl. At that time, names will be taken for those interested in the women's team.

The EGVA softball coaches and officers would like to insure all girls a place on a team; however, if registrations are delayed, this cannot be guaranteed and late registrations will have to be placed on a waiting list.

Pot: just a smokescreen?

Marijuana War deliberate mob ploy to divert action against real money-maker — heroin

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author is a veteran observer of organized crime and has written several books on the subject. His latest is "The SWISS Bank Connection.")

by LESLIE WALLER

NEW YORK — Recent private talks with government narcotics investigators tracing the business patterns of organized crime reveal a startling new slant on the strategy of drug traffickers.

What these experts have decided is this: The tumult and shouting over marijuana in past decades may well have been a deliberate mob ploy to divert strong action against its real money-making businesses — heroin and cocaine. This kind of decoy strategy is not unknown in wartime, government authorities point out, when it is common for antagonists to stage fake revolts, issue false rumors and launch military feints.

AND MAKE NO mistake, they say, the drug business is a war.

While it may be hard for government leaders and law officials to get used to the idea that we've been out-manuevered by strategists of the underworld, the facts are now beginning to grow clearer.

For years there has always been some mystery as to why the mob bothered with marijuana, which government studies now reveal to be non-addictive and in some ways milder in its effects than alcohol.

"Marijuana is a bulk low-cost product," one staff investigator told me recently. "To make real money it has to be shipped by the ton. Organized crime has rarely been interested in such low mark-up items."

"Their specialty," he explained, "is something you handle by the ounce, can adulterate ten-to-one, makes its user dependent for life. In short, something like heroin."

THE ECONOMICS are these. A kilo of No. 4 injectable heroin (2.2 pounds) sells for $1,500 in Vietnam and more than double in France or West Germany. Adulterated with milk sugar, quinine powder and other cheap fillers, the kilo then sells on American streets for about a half-million dollars.

A recent survey by the House Committee on Foreign Relations reports that the more than 600,000 U.S. addicts spend $7 billion a year on their habit. "The use of heroin," the survey states, "has reached crisis proportions."

Since addicts must steal goods worth up to five times the cost of the heroin they buy, the survey points out that addiction can cost the American public as much as $35 billion a year in stolen property.

BUT IT IS THE fantastic profit ratio of heroin that has always attracted organized criminals. Which is why marijuana has never seemed a prime possibility as a mob sales item.

"Yet it is," an investigator told me. "Wherever we find a sizable heroin operation we also find heavy shipments of marijuana being funneled into the traffic flow."

"In their perverse terms, it makes sense for the underworld to get everyone upset and confused by a flood of marijuana. Look at the results." He listed some as:

- Inducing in young people of middle-class families a disrespect for the law;
- Spreading the generation gap wider so that loyalty and trust are even harder to maintain;
- Creating a middle-class "counter-culture" whose myths hail drugs as the answer to all problems;
- Introducing a need for harder drugs once the mild effects of marijuana are perceived to be "not enough";
- Making drugs a stylish fad enjoyed by celebrities;

- Diverting law enforcement funds and effort to largely useless campaigns.

THE CHIEF EFFECT of unleashing the U.S. Marijuana War, investigators believe, has been to build a market of those willing to flout the law and then exploit the market with high-profit drugs. A similar market was exploited in the 1920-32 period when forbidden alcohol turned drinking Americans into criminals.

"But pot-dealing doesn't show a profit for the mob," one government authority explained to me. "I'm pretty sure organized crime about breaks even on it. Yet it's been a good battle strategy for the mob."

The theory also explains why, after unleashing a flood of marijuana, organized crime allowed amateurs and unaffiliated hoodlums to hitchhike onto the "grass" traffic.

NORMALLY an outsider muscling in on mob business is killed. But police have always been puzzled that high school and college students, for example, were allowed by the underworld to "freelance" marijuana.

"The more outside help the mob got," an investigator explained, "the better they liked it. The mob was able to cultivate a false image of hard drugs as solely a ghetto problem when, in fact, it cuts across every class and income group in the country."

It is the growing realization that parents, officials and police alike have been "had" by this mob strategy, together with recent medical re-evaluations of marijuana, that is behind the growing trend in various states to reduce or eliminate penalties for possession of the drug.

BUT, BECAUSE hard drugs are killers, in a way far more direct than alcohol, there is little expectation that heroin and similar narcotics will be legalized as alcohol was in 1932. This means organized crime will continue to profit immensely from its favorite business.

However, the dawning realization that marijuana was, no pun intended, a mob smokescreen all these years, should bring efforts to control hard drugs into clearer focus in the years ahead.

"It will be many years," one drug expert told me, "before we regain the battle-time lost by letting marijuana divert and dilute our efforts. But at least we can now pinpoint the enemy positions for the first time."

He's at opposite end of organized crime scale

by MARK SCHEINBAUM

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Fred Arthur says he knows what the mob is all about, and it's not what you saw in "The Godfather."

He's at the other and glamorous end of the scale from the high-living barons of organized crime. He says he might call his own book, "The Victim."

It has been 17 months since his last encounter with the mob, and Fred Arthur, 43, still spends most of his day in bed. He had only a small abrasion on his head when the four men finished with him, but inside his spleen was burst and his liver nearly torn loose. A doctor gave him 20 minutes to live.

ARTHUR KEEPS A little piece of wire in a test tube by his bed. Doctors had used wire to hold his spleen and liver together, but it didn't work. He found the piece of wire sticking out of his chest one day, and he had to have four more operations.

Arthur hopes to gain a little vengeance when he testifies at the coming trial on racketeering charges of the four men charged with beating him up in his Miami nightclub, long since closed, and four other alleged hoods.

He also hopes to help push for legislation which would give the victims of crime some of the protection he sees the criminals getting — free care in police hospital wards, clothing, food, an attorney, prison education to teach them a trade, and rehabilitation programs.

Arthur says he is staying alive and supporting his wife and four children on $58 a week in workmen's compensation, plus help from relatives. He lives in an expensive section of Miami Beach, but his home shows the tatters of neglect.

FRED ARTHUR came here from Brooklyn 20 years ago. He and his brother were bartenders and the sons of a vice squad policeman. They had seen plenty of punks, knew about the underworld, but, Fred says, "it never really sinks in."

Arthur went into the construction business, did well, drove a Cadillac convertible and when he had the chance to be a partner in renovating a nightclub that had gone out of business, he grabbed it because he had always had a vision of himself as a suave host to big-name people.

"He thought he was getting into something like a Hollywood movie," said his wife Helen, sitting on the edge of his bed, "then he met the creeps of the night."

The Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike Force in Miami says the trouble started over a cigaret machine, one left over from the old club. When Arthur and his brother, Sheldon, opened their supper club in Miami — "Oliver's" — they let the machine stay, but it was owned by one mob faction and a rival faction wanted the brothers to substitute its machine. Fred said he told them, "drop dead."

ACCORDING TO strike force investigators, the machines are lucrative because the mob uses them to dispense untaxed bootleg cigs.

Oliver's opened late in 1970 and quickly became an "in" spot for show people and celebrities, but also a hangout for racket figures. They ran up liquor and food tabs as high as $1,500 and left Fred to sign for them.

When they still refused to come around, according to the federal charges, Fred and his brother were badly beaten. Fred told them a second time, "drop dead."

In September, the men came again, late at night. The way Fred tells it, "one guy grabbed my hands while two others worked me over. The fourth guy I don't think stayed with them. When I went down, I saw they were demolishing the place — chairs, the bar, everything."

"My barmaid pulled a gun and fired two quick shots at them. I think it's the only reason they left."

IT WAS IN a hospital emergency room that a doctor X-rayed Fred and told him, "you've got 20 minutes, that's all."

Fred recovered, but is only back to part-time work as a building consultant. "Oliver's" never opened again.

Fred says now, "I should have gone to the FBI when that business over the cigaret machine started — you just mention the word 'feds' to these guys and they're shaking."

He aches when he reads about the success of "The Godfather" and "The Valachi Papers," now playing down the street from his house.

"You learn to live with pain, but not with the way the public is apathetic about the mob," says Arthur. "They think it's glamor when it's not. They support a society which gives food and shelter to the criminals but leaves the victims with nothing."

He says he will make it back — "I don't know how, but I will."

And what lesson he has learned? "The first time somebody even looks at me cockeyed, I go to the FBI."

'Wage Earner Plan' can help: bar group

Bankruptcy isn't only way out of debt

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, personal bankruptcies can be expected to increase in 1973 along with the record consumer debt, but in many cases the so-called Wage Earner Plan for paying off one's debts should be resorted to rather than straight bankruptcy.

The bar group described the Wage Earner Plan as a relatively little-known alternative to bankruptcy which is provided under Chapter XIII of the federal Bankruptcy Act. It said surveys show the plan should be utilized by at least one third of those persons who seek to absolve themselves of their debts through personal bankruptcy.

By utilizing the Wage Earner Plan, a person who derives the principal part of his income from wages, salary or commissions may set up a court-approved plan for the payment of his obligations over an extended period of time and on a pro-rata basis. The plan has the advantages of ultimate satisfaction of one's debts, avoids the stigma of bankruptcy and usually enables the debtor to maintain possession and increase equity in his property.

CREDITOR APPROVAL of the Wage Earner Plan is required but normally this is forthcoming since the plan offers a reasonable assurance of payment as opposed to writing off many debts completely in a straight bankruptcy proceeding.

Early consultation with an attorney is advisable, the ISBA said, so the client and attorney may examine the options, including the Wage Earner Plan and other forms of relief available under the Bankruptcy Act. However, most other alternatives to bankruptcy are more costly or set minimum income or liability limitations which are not imposed by Chapter XIII proceedings.

Here are the steps involved in the Wage Earner Plan:

- Petition. The client and his attorney decide on the sum which the former can reasonably expect to pay to his creditors and which might meet with their approval. A Chapter XIII petition, describing the petitioner's assets, liabilities and the state of his affairs, is filed in U.S. District Court. The attorney also may seek court orders to prevent secured creditors — those whose claims are secured by some property of the debtor — from repossessing merchandise or otherwise enforcing their claims and to restrain unsecured creditors from initiating or continuing lawsuits or other collection efforts.

- Filing Plan. In addition to the petition, the attorney will file with the court the proposed plan of payment indicating the number of secured and unsecured creditors, amounts of their claims, schedule of payments and duration of the program.

- Filing Claims. The attorney will notify all creditors of the proposed program and request them to complete and return proof-of-claim forms prior to the meeting of creditors and for filing with the court. Ordinarily, creditors must file their proofs of claims no later than six months after the first date set for the first meeting of creditors.

- Creditors' Meeting. At the first meeting of creditors, the attorney for the petitioner will advise the court as to whether he has obtained approval of the plan from creditors. Generally, secured creditors and a majority of unsecured creditors must agree if the plan is to be approved by the court. Also, the debtor must make an initial deposit of funds with the court.

- Payment. A court-appointed trustee, often a referee in bankruptcy, authorizes payment to creditors and otherwise administers the program. The debtor may not incur any new debts without permission of the court but as long as he lives up to the court-approved plan his creditors may not bring garnishment or wage-assignment proceedings against him or sue him for payment. If it should prove impossible for him to continue the plan, it may be converted into bankruptcy.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 21 years old, single and female. When I was 11 I had a disease the doctor called rheumatic fever. I would like to know, is it possible that this may be coming back because I'm experiencing shortness of breath and pain?

At night I just about sleep sitting up instead of lying down. Also, when I walk even a short distance I get short of breath and have some pain. This also happens when I get upset, nervous, excited, and scared. It's getting on my nerves because I like to walk and ride my bicycle. I started noticing this problem a week ago while riding a bike to town and back.

Is it possible for rheumatic fever to come back after 10 years and is this serious enough for me to see a doctor? It is not in my head and I'm so tired of this I could scream. Also, I'm scared to death.

Dear Reader — Yes, it's possible for rheumatic fever to recur. This is why the American Heart Assn. has long recommended that individuals who have had known episodes of rheumatic fever should be on prophylactic penicillin medicine at least until after they are mature adults.

It's also possible that if you did have rheumatic fever as a child that the old rheumatic process has gradually caused changes inside the heart valve that is characterized by shortness of breath. Basically what can happen is one of the valves (mitral valve) gradually becomes scarred and finally gets so small that it's difficult for blood to pass normally through the heart. This can lead to shortness of breath.

There is only one way that this condition can be properly diagnosed, however, and that is by careful medical examination. Incidentally, if that is the problem, modern surgical procedures can correct it. Sometimes there is a difference in opinion as to how soon surgery is required and of course you're a long way from that kind of discussion until it's actually determined what's causing your problem.

There are a number of other things that can cause shortness of breath besides heart disease. But, particularly in view of your past history, your story is significant enough that it's important for you to see a doctor for good evaluation.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What's the difference between cholesterol and fat? Does sugar hold fat in the blood like salt holds water? Is it necessary to cut out sugar along with animal fat to get rid of fat in the blood or arteries?

Dear Reader — Elevated cholesterol in the blood is usually an indication of an increased number of fat particles. The cholesterol is tied to the fat particles. The fatty particle, including cholesterol, then deposits in arteries to cause atherosclerosis.

One of the most common causes of increased levels of fat particles in the blood is eating too many calories. One group of patients with this problem was once classified as having "carbohydrate induced" high blood fats. Further studies have shown that they really have "calorie induced" high blood fats.

Since sugar is a rich source of calories, as are other sweets, it follows that in individuals with these problems sugar and sweets have to be limited in order to eliminate excess body fat, which in turn helps to control the level of cholesterol and fat in the bloodstream. To control the total intake of calories one should cut down on sugars, sweets and fats.

Washington Commentary

Aspirin producers still make 'misleading' claims

by MICHAEL J. CONLON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — On the surface at least, it appears aspirin producers still are making the same kinds of claims they always have on radio, television and in print, even though the government has accused them of false and misleading advertising.

In the initial splash of publicity March 12 when the Federal Trade Commission lodged its complaint, some consumers might have thought they had seen their last "works twice as fast as" or "better than plain aspirin" sales pitch. But any change along the lines the FTC would like to see is months — maybe even years — AWAY.

The complaint against the makers of Bufferin, Excedrin, Excedrin PM, Anacin, Arthritis Pain Formula, Bayer, Cope, Vanquish and Midol was actually almost a year old before the FTC made it formal.

IT WAS APRIL 19, 1972, when the agency first proposed the complaint, after an extensive investigation. The time between then and March 12 passed in an unsuccessful effort by the FTC to get the aspirin makers to agree to change their ads and to start running counter-commercials confessing the previous statements were in error.

The three drug companies involved, and their advertising agencies, have been ordered to appear on April 17, 18 and 19 before a FTC law judge who will hear their arguments. Within 90 days after the hearings end, that judge will issue an initial decision which the full five-member FTC can review if it desires. At some point next summer or fall, the FTC will issue its final order in the case.

But even then it may not be over. The aspirin makers, if they don't like the decision, can take the case to any U.S. Court of Appeals and — ultimately — to the Supreme Court.

The reason the FTC accomplishes anything at all is that most cases never get that far. What frequently happens is that the agency proposes a complaint and the offending business agrees to stop what it was doing, without admitting guilt, before the agency gets around to making the complaint formal.

IN THE ASPIRIN case the FTC basically is trying to halt claims for brands of aspirin products which it thinks do not really offer more than cheap, plain aspirin does. The case hardly involves an immediate health danger for consumers but even if it did, it might not be moving any faster.

And that situation illustrates a loophole in the FTC's procedures that it has been unsuccessfully trying to get Congress to change for a number of years. It would like the power to go to court to seek injunctions to halt harmful practices as soon as it uncovers them, instead of waiting months or years for final action.

That power, FTC Chairman Lewis A. Engman told Congress recently, would be a "milestone achievement" for the consumer.

Cases which would warrant immediate court action, Engman added, are few but highly significant.

"We are convinced," Engman said, "that the commission's lack of injunctive authority stands as a major defect in its enforcement machinery. . . . It is clearly contrary to the public interest to permit a challenged practice having a demonstrable potential for serious public harm to continue until the completion of normal proceedings."

Candidates' night slated at Harper

Harper College students and other residents of the college district meet the candidates for the Harper Board of Trustees at 11:30 a.m. Monday in the College Center lounge.

The five candidates, two of them incumbents, have been invited by the student activities office to participate. They will each give a 5-minute presentation, followed by a period of questions from the audience.

The candidates for the April 14 election are: Jessalyn Nicklas of Inverness, an incumbent and presently board chairman; William A. Clair of Buffalo Grove; Robert A. Bromley of Rolling Meadows; William A. Kelly of Arlington Heights, an incumbent, and Annalee Fjellberg of Hoffman Estates.

There are three vacancies open on the board. Joseph Morton of Arlington Heights is not seeking reelection.

The public is invited to attend.

'Love Story' series a surprise in fall lineup on NBC

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The movie "Love Story" was a box office smash and registered a tremendous rating when shown on ABC-TV this season, so now NBC-TV is using its title and theme music for a new anthology series in the fall.

The upcoming "Love Story" series, a weekly hour entry, is probably the biggest surprise in NBC-TV's new fall lineup for several reasons. One is that anthologies, which not too long ago were considered death in the ratings — because they lack running characters — continue to prosper as networks seek younger audiences that are less habit-prone. The second reason the "Love Story" series is a surprise is that romantic stories are considered a big ratings risk on television.

OVER AT ABC-TV, there is an amusing weekly hour called "Love, American Style," a collection of contemporary sketches in each program. But comedy is a hard-core video staple. And NBC-TV's "Love Story" promises modern dramatic tales of romance, as well as humorous ones.

NBC-TV's successful ratings this season with two other movies of contemporary-style romance — "Goodbye, Columbus" and "I Love My Wife" — may well have had an effect on the network's thinking.

Come from NBC-TV's new fall schedule are such series as "Laugh-In," The Bob-Dylan Variety Show, The Tuesday Movies, "Circle of Fear" suspense stories, "Search" secret agent tales and a periodic show called "Cool Million" also an agent-type program. Another periodic show, "Madigan" Richard Widmark as a police detective is, says a source, unlikely to return.

Also gone will be NBC-TV's regular Tuesday night public affairs hour, but the network says it will offer more prime time news specials than this season.

IN ADDITION to "Love Story," NBC-TV's new fall series, which will be supplemented by several more periodic shows, are:

• "Police Story." Hour anthology based on true stories, and created by the policeman-novelist Joseph Wambaugh, author of "The New Centurions" and "The Blue Knight."

• "Leta Luck." Half-hour comedy with Dom DeLuise as a bachelor who works as a clerk in the lost and found department of a New York City bus line, and, at home, supports his mother, sister and "unemployable" brother-in-law. Adapted from the British show "On The Buses."

• "The Magician." Hour with Bill Bixby as a professional magician who helps people in trouble by using the tricks of his trade.

• "NBC Follies." Variety hour with no regular host. Sammy Davis is expected to be a guest on a considerable number of the shows.

• "Chase." Hour about an undercover police unit. Produced by Jack Webb's company.

The Hollywood Scene
by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If you're a typical American televisioner you set the dial on CBS Saturday night and watch the most popular two-hour lineup on the tube: "All in the Family," "Bridget Loves Bernie," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "The Bob Newhart Show."

Without explanation to millions of viewers CBS unplugged "Bridget Loves Bernie" from the middle of the four half-hour situation comedies and replaced it with "M*A*S*H."

One member of the cast puts the blame on a group of rabbis who pressured the network to drop the show because of objections to the word and idea of intermarriage.

Plot of the show dealt with an Irish Catholic girl of millionaire parents who marries the Jewish son of a delicatessen proprietor.

As stunned as anybody over the cancellation is John Mitchell, president of Screen Gems. His organization produced the series.

AS OF THIS week "Bridget Loves Bernie" was No. 4 in the national Nielsen ratings. Even networks don't capriciously shoot down a successful series in the top 5.

"Sure we're puzzled," said Mitchell. "Statistically 'Bridget Loves Bernie' was the highest rated new show of the 1972-73 season. Of 22 new shows on the air it was tops with a 24.9 rating and a 40 per cent share of the audience in its time period over a 25-week ratings."

"The second closest show was 'Maude' followed by Newhart."

"Of all the CBS 23 weekly series — old and new — the first, of course, was 'All in the Family' with a rating of 33.5 and a 54 share. Second was 'Hawaii Five-O.'"

We were third, followed by 'Maude' and 'Gunsmoke,' he said.

"If you take all shows on all networks based on the ratings only 'Marcus Welby, M.D.' and 'Sanford and Son' in addition to the two above beat 'Bridget Loves Bernie,'" Mitchell said.

So only four shows in all of television were ahead of ours."

WHY, THEN, did it get the ax? Mitchell didn't hesitate. "In recent weeks the audience share began to slide. There was actually a share of audience gap opening up between the 'All in the Family' lead-in and 'Mary Tyler Moore' which followed us."

"CBS was concerned. The network didn't know if the gap would grow or whether, through show, it would climb back up there and be viable again."

Clearly, the decision to cancel the most popular new series on the network was made before the March 25 Nielsen ratings were released.

"CBS felt it had to protect its entire Saturday night line up," Mitchell said. "They believed if the show didn't improve in the ratings it could hurt Saturday night in 1973-74."

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

Stamps, like coins, are no longer the exclusive vehicle of government as a means of memorializing historic events. Private editions of commemorative medals and coins have been dominating the numismatic scene for centuries, and now private stamp issues are beginning to appear on the philatelic horizon. If the idea catches on as it should, stamp and coin collectors of this generation will have a whole new thing going for them.

The fact that privately issued coins or stamps may not be inscribed with an implied monetary value is really moot to the avid collector since he is primarily interested in the piece as a limited edition specimen rather than its exchange value. To him the chief attraction is the number involved in the total mintage.

TO QUALIFY as a collector's item, private issues should meet the following requirements: 1) Display a subject — person, place, thing or event — of historical significance; 2) be attractive and professionally presented; 3) have physical properties consistent with accepted standards in its given category, and 4) total production should not exceed the advertised limited edition. Which, by the way, should be determined at slightly less than the anticipated market.

I have the feeling the Holmes County Antique Festival Committee had this in mind when they elected to issue a very limited edition of the spinning wheel stamp at one dollar per sheet of 50 stamps. The entire publication is restricted to 5,000 serially numbered sheets which allows community supporters to retain a numbered plate-block of four stamps for their collection while using the remaining 46 as letterhead, envelope and package seals to plug the 1973 celebration.

To avoid moisture damage the stamp is printed on a dry gum stock in an antique brown and buff. As a continuing program, each succeeding annual issue will bear a new antique symbol and new format. But it is doubtful that the quantity will ever be increased in order to maintain a scarce attitude.

THE ANTIQUE FESTIVAL, one of 30 such events held in Ohio each year, gained national prominence through its county seat, Millersburg.

Local demand for these stamps is expected to absorb the entire issue, but I have been assured by George Irving, chairman of the Souvenir Stamp Committee that the stamp will be released April 10 and that all requests will be filled on a first come, first served basis in return for $1 plus 16 cents postage for mail orders.

Interested readers should address their requests to George Irving, Souvenir Stamps, P.O. Box 23, Millersburg, Ohio 44654.

Do-It-Yourself

It isn't likely you inspected the exterior of your house during the winter. Spring is not only a good time because of pleasant weather but also because a house needs inspecting when winter is over.

Take a look outside to see what winter did to your house and property. It probably did plenty. Figure out what should be repaired right away and what can be left until warmer weather.

Inspect masonry and concrete work. Cracks in foundation, walks and drives that were tiny last fall are probably bigger now. Wait for a warm day and patch these spots. Use ready-mix patches to which you add water, mixing only what you will need for a job. Clean out loose material and undercut the crack so that it is wider at the bottom than the top. Keep the patch moist.

TAKE A LOOK at the paint on the house. Full scale painting is best left for warmer weather but bad spots can be scraped and primed a few at a time.

Check the gutters and downspouts. Clean them. Heavy ice and snow from winter may have loosened them. Renail old hangers or add new hangers. Get the sag out of your gutters so they can cope with the spring rains. When it does rain, check for overflows. There may be debris at those points or low spots that prevent the water from flowing toward the downspout.

Check the caulking around door and window frames, between siding and foundation, in inside corners where walls meet. Wherever it is bad, scrape out the old and replace with new. Use a caulking gun and cartridges to make it easy.

Wind may have ripped off a shingle or two from the roof. If it's a steep roof, call in a professional. If you can reach it easily pullout or cut off the old nails, slide a new shingle in under the old sound ones and nail just under the edge of the one above. Touch up nail heads with roofing asphalt.

SLIGHT CRACKS can be taken care of with asphalt.

Clear the yard of broken branches. If large branches have been damaged or weakened and look as though they may break, have them tended to. Low ones you might reach yourself. For the high ones, call in a tree doctor.

Check for damaged or loose putty around windows. Scrape and replace.

When you get the storm windows down, clean and repair and repaint if needed. Put them away in good order. Before you get to the storms, check the screens and make certain they are ready to put up.

GET YOUR garden tools ready for use. Make certain hoses are mended and in good condition. Install new washers in the hose fittings, nozzles, sprinklers.

Get outdoor furniture painted and in shape ahead, before it is needed.

If snow kept blowing in under your overhead garage door during the winter, then rain will come in even more easily. Install a rubber weather strip across the bottom.

8-cent issue to commemorate first secular nurse

The Canada Post Office will release an 8-cent commemorative stamp on April 18 marking the 200th anniversary of the death of Jeanne Mance.

Jeanne Mance was the first secular nurse in North America and the founder of the first hospital, the Hotel-Dieu, in the Montreal settlement of Ville Marie.

With funds provided by Madame de Bullion to establish the hospital, Jeanne Mance traveled to New France in 1641 with Paul de Chomedey, sieur de Maisonneuve and founder of the city of Montreal. They arrived in 1642 and by autumn of that year the Hotel-Dieu was housed in its first small building.

Born Nov. 12, 1606 in Langres, France, Jeanne Mance died at the hospital she founded on June 18, 1673.

Raymond Bellemare of Montreal designed the horizontal stamp which will be printed in four color lithography by Ashton-Potter Ltd. of Toronto. Marginal inscriptions including the designer's name appear on the four corners of each pane of fifty stamps.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations of the Jeanne Mance stamp should send their requests to "FDC Jeanne Mance Stamp, Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0B5" enclosing the proper remittance which is the cost of the stamps to be affixed plus a five cent service charge for each cover. If the value of the stamps to be affixed is 16 cents or more, the service charge does not apply.

THE U.S. POSTAL SERVICE will issue a special cacheted envelope commemorating the 250th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Old North Church in Boston, April 15.

It was from the steeple of that historic church, actually Christ Church in Boston, that lanterns were hung signalling the start of Paul Revere's famous ride.

The cachet will be dedicated in ceremonies at the Old North Church on April Boston, MA 02109." Be sure to enclose the proper remittance and a self-addressed No. 10 (long) envelope for return of the cachet.

IN CONNECTION with the release of the new Harry S. Truman stamp, the Franklin D. Roosevelt Philatelic Society will issue a set of two cacheted first day covers.

The gold-and-black cachets will feature the 1944 election photos of FDR and his Vice President, Harry S. Truman.

The covers will be franked with the new Truman stamp as well as a Roosevelt stamp. They will be canceled on the first day of issue, May 8, 1973, at Independence, Mo.

The set is available for $1.00 from the FDR Philatelic Society, P.O. Box 1507, Clinton Corners, N.Y. 12514. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed, No. 10 (long) envelope for return of the covers.

Satellite medium for Alaskan outpost education seminar

by MARGUERITE DEL GIUDICE

Bethesda, Md. (UPI) — Every Monday at midnight, a gravelly voice sputters a welcome over a ham radio in Alaska, and at its command 20 outpost villages tune in to an unusual teaching seminar bounced off a satellite 22,300 miles above the equator.

A 15-week radio course titled "Teaching Techniques for Rural Alaska," the seminar was begun recently under auspices of the National Education Association (NEA), its affiliate in Alaska and the University of Alaska.

The "satellite seminar" is the brainchild of Dr. Harold E. Wigren, a staff member of NEA's Instruction and Professional Development (IPD) program.

"We are trying to help these teachers in Alaska sharpen their skills and increase their professional development even while they are snowbound in their villages," Wigren said.

THE ALASKAN villages or "earth stations" — stretching from Barter Island to Nome, just off the Soviet border, and inland to places like Fort Yukon, Anaktuvuk Pass and Arctic Village — rotate the seminar's presentation each week around the course theme, "How to Get Students to Take Responsibility for Their Own Learning."

Wigren and his colleague, Mrs. Frances Quinto, also with NEA's IPD program, "stand by" in Bethesda with one or two different resource persons each week.

In a modern office on the top floor of the National Library of Medicine in Bethesda, Wigren and Mrs. Quinto meet an hour or so before air time to discuss the evening's program with the resource persons for that particular session.

In a recent meeting titled "Children as Teachers," Wigren and Mrs. Quinto hosted Mrs. Carrie O. Staten, a Baltimore elementary school principal; and Joseph W. Taylor, a high school biology teacher and coordinator of cross-age teaching programs in Baltimore. Cross-age programs are when, for example, a sixth grade student teaches a first-grader.

At the stroke of midnight — 7:00 p.m. Alaska time — a voice bellowed "all clear," and the discussion started.

Interspersed with a few jumbled attempts at satellite radio jargon — Mrs. Staten kept forgetting to say "Over" when she finished speaking — the round-robin-like discussion continued for the 55-minute allotted broadcast time.

A TEACHER SAID his problem was the cross-cultural, rural setting in Alaska. He said that he had not been prepared for practical teaching on a junior high school level.

"I was student-trained for secondary-level teaching, and wasn't prepared to cope with a junior high setting," he said.

"Yes," another Alaska-side participant piped in, "I think at times we've all been in that situation."

The discussion began and individual participants contributed ideas about cross-age teaching as well as relating personal experiences.

"Share some of your experiences with us, will you please?" a voice asked Taylor.

"Well," Taylor replied, "I'm involved with a number of cross-age programs in Baltimore. The student response to cross-age teaching is greater at the elementary level, much greater... What we want to do is bring in all students — the low achiever and the academically successful student."

Wigren instructed his guests to be "very careful we don't act like we know all the answers. They're very sensitive about that."

Best time to help people is in time of life crisis

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital, known for its intensive programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

Many psychiatrists believe that the best time to help people is while they are going through a life crisis — not after the crisis has been resolved.

This crisis intervention can save a person from developing a resolution to his problem that may not only be detrimental to him while he solves it but during his future life as well.

Dr. Gerald Jacobson is the executive director of the Los Angeles Psychiatric Service which sponsors a walk-in crisis intervention clinic. This concept of help on demand is designed to provide therapeutic resolutions to emotional crises.

"Until World War II," explained Dr. Jacobson, "most psychiatric clinics were open for appointment only and only a certain type of patient could get in. We found that in many instances by the time there was an opening for him the crisis had been resolved and sometimes with poor consequences."

"PSYCHIATRISTS," Dr. Jacobson continued, "have historically looked at the long-term causes for emotional difficulties. That is they look to childhood experience and circumstances and they look for biological causes as well. They have then often just given nod to passing changes in one's life."

"In our clinic we deal specifically with the present problems one is facing and we set a time limit on our patients. We allow a maximum of six visits to work on the immediate problem that has upset the patient's life. We don't go into long term problems or childhood problems but we will do that later if necessary. Our main goal is to find out what has upset the apple cart and help straighten it out again."

According to Dr. Jacobson, a crisis occurs when a person's usual way of coping is not adequate to a given task. "When this occurs a period of disorganization ensues with a period of upset. A number of different and often unworkable solutions are tried and a new equilibrium is reached. This new equilibrium may or may not be in the best interest of the person or those around him — that is why it is so important to give immediate help."

Dr. Jacobson added that if a person is to receive help he has to want help. "If a woman calls and says her husband is upset, he drinks too much or beats her — we ask her to come in. We question her on why she allows him to beat her. We find out what she is doing to contribute to his problem. We can't make her husband come but we do try to get him in where necessary. In the interim we work with the person who seeks help."

Dr. Jacobson's clinic handles two to three thousand cases per year.

Dangers of hydroplaning

"April showers create dangerous conditions for automobile hydroplaning, a phenomenon as deadly as driving on glare ice," warns R. A. Hogan, Illinois regional manager of the Allstate Motor Club.

Automobile hydroplaning occurs on wet highways when pressure from the rolling tire causes a wedge of water to form where tires and highway pavement meet. The faster the vehicle travels the greater the pressure exerted by the water wedge, until only water supports the tire, and the vehicle actually skims on the surface of the water, much like a water skier or high-powered motorboat.

"When this happens, sudden braking, acceleration, or even a strong gust of wind can cause the auto to skid out of control," Hogan said.

Hogan cited research at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center which demonstrates that cars begin to hydroplane at 35 mph on water less than one-tenth of an inch deep, depending upon condition and tire pressure.

McLennan was designated "Volunteer of the Month." He remains on the board as a director.

At the annual meeting of the Bureau in 1972, a special award was given to the then retiring president, Rev. Leon Harling, Arlington Heights, and to the branch directors, all volunteers. Joan Muldoon, Imogene Cushing, Marilyn Marier, Ar-milda Gilbert, Ritz Zrimsek, Margaret Estey, Cindy Christiansen and Marilyn Hopper all of Arlington Heights. Others were Tammy Meade; Rolling Meadows, Isobel Burg, Palatine; Ethel Brodl, Des Plaines; Pat Kimball, Mount Prospect, and Pat Sutherland, Prospect Heights.

The bureau at the annual meeting reviewed the results of the Agency Forum presented in cooperation with Harper College on February 16 and the approval of a subsequent forum to be presented on May 4 at the Pioneer Park Fieldhouse in Arlington Heights. Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Old man Z, who used to play all the dummies in the auction bridge columns some 50 years ago, is back at the club again after a short illness.

He called for dummy's queen of hearts at trick one. East produced the king and Z remarked, "Match points or no match points, I played a hand like this for Milton Work back in 1928 or 27. Every card was wrong, but I still came out with 10 tricks and my game."

Then Z let East hold the trick. East returned a heart. Z took his ace, ruffed his last heart; drew trumps with two leads and led his nine of clubs.

West played low. Z called for the deuce from dummy. East won the trick with the jack, whereupon Z showed his hand and remarked, "I don't care what you have or what you lead. I am going to lose just one more trick."

Needless to say, Z was right. A heart return would give him a ruff and discard. A diamond return would be up to dummy's ace-queen and a club lead would allow him to discard one diamond, then and another later on if West happened to hold the ace.

This was magnificent rubber bridge technique and gave Z a top score this time because every card was wrong for those declarers who tried to make an overtrick with the hand by the simple play of rusing with dummy's king of clubs.

Social Security and You

Q.) My father, who gets a small monthly social security check, is still working. He told me it takes a year for him to get his benefit rate increased because of his new yearly earnings. Is this true. Isn't he losing some benefits?

A.) No. Even though there is a delay in refiguring your father's benefit rate, he gets all the increase due him at one time. The refiguring of the rate is usually done in the last 3 months of the year to take into consideration all social security earnings for the previous year, and any increase due is retroactive to January.

Q. In 1972, I didn't have enough medical bills under Medicare to file for payment. Now I have some bills, and my sister mentioned something about using my medical bills from October, November and December of last year to count toward the deductible for this year. Is she right?

A.) Yes. If you had medical expenses in the last three months of last year that could have counted toward your deductible for 1972, you can also use them to help meet this year's deductible. Be sure to send in all the bills for covered services you received in October, November, or December, 1972, with your bills for this year.

Training young people one aim of Wickes: manager

Bringing young people into the business as trainees is a regular program of the Wickes Furniture Co.

"We're cross-training them in several areas of work," says Richard Buchner, manager of the Wickes warehouse showroom at 351 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling. "They learn clerical work, how to handle customers, telephone solicitation, general housekeeping and inventory control."

"Some of the boys are working on the loading docks," he added, "and in general maintenance. It offers them a broad education in furniture retailing. Eventually we hope to hire some of the students in full-time jobs."

"Once a young person is hired full-time at Wickes, we'll pay for their college education in related fields, based on their grades. In this way, we can offer additional training to young people."

HIRING STUDENT trainees for part-time work benefits both the company and the students, according to Buchner. As the store is open during extended hours for customer convenience, the additional part-time help enables Wickes to meet the need for late afternoon and evening personnel for some job categories. The students also fill in for regular full-time workers during vacations.

The students are gaining valuable on-the-job experience which will be an advantage in merchandising or other fields, Buchner said. Learning how to deal with customer complaints and to work well with others, are assets in many fields, he said.

The Wickes store in Wheeling now has 16 students in its part-time job training program. They are students at the high school and college level. Ten of these students work on a regular basis, approximately 15 to 20 hours a week, in the evenings and on weekends.

Among the career opportunities in furniture merchandising is interior design, Buchner said. Students can work with other store personnel in arranging room settings on the showroom floor. As the furnishings are sold right off the floor, the design possibilities are numerous, he said.

MOST OF THE student workers at Wickes plan to go on to college. Buchner emphasized that well-trained personnel, ambitious personnel can move up to higher paying jobs after the company trains them in specialized work. Sales, buying and interior design and advertising are among the top paying positions in addition to store management.

Among the students now employed at the Wheeling store is Lisa Jackson, a Wheeling resident. She and her sister Nanci work part-time at the store in a variety of tasks. Lisa, a high school junior, works three afternoons a week as well as Saturday. She has worked in filing and auditing as well as dealing with customers' inquiries and sales personnel.

"I enjoy it quite a lot," said Lisa, who is interested in interior design as a career.

"I learned all about different types of furniture. I can't believe how lucky I am to get this type of job after school," she said. Lisa's work at Wickes will enable her to join a student training program in a related home economics field.

WHEREAS, said record owner and beneficiaries of said trust desire to add to an existing building to be located on Parcel 1 in such manner as to make compliance with the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Elk Grove Village relating to parking impossible due to the extent of the building coverage;

WHEREAS, to satisfy the parking requirements of the Village and to permit the building addition referred to above, the record owner has acquired Parcel 2, which it desires to be treated together with Parcel 1 as one parcel of property so as to comply with zoning and land use requirements of the Village;

4. Parcel 2 is to be used exclusively for parking in the manner provided and is not to be built upon with buildings or structures other than fencing.

Section 4: That for the purpose of instrumenting the Elk Grove Village zoning ordinance, the record owners have executed an Agreement and provision on a plat, copies of which are marked Exhibits B and C to this ordinance and filed with the Village Clerk and have been duly recorded with the Recorder of Deeds of Cook County, Illinois.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

THE SALVATION ARMY Community Counseling Center recently received a $200 from the Waycinden Park Woman's Club. The check was presented by Mrs. Dolores Hermansen, left, to Mrs. Margaret Lisinski, the Center's director. The money will be used to help maintain family counseling services the agency offers at its Des Plaines offices and at branch facilities in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Schaumburg.

Rainbow trout are stocked in lakes, streams

Rainbow trout have been stocked in several lakes and streams in the northern part of the state by the Illinois Department of Conservation.

"The trout were provided to our department for stocking by federal hatcheries to be released on a 'put and take' basis," said William Harth, superintendent of the Division of Fisheries. "They are provided on this basis because our state does not have streams suitable for trout to live the year around."

The streams that have been stocked are Apple River in Apple River State Park, Jo Daviess County; Pine Creek, White Pines State Park, Ogle County; Rock Creek, Kankakee River State Park, Kankakee County; and the north fork of Kent Creek, Pages Park, near Rockford.

The Belleau Wood and Axehead Lakes in Cook County Forest Preserves have also been stocked with rainbow trout and fishermen are now reporting catches.

The Coleta Public fishing area, a state managed facility in Whiteside County, has also been stocked with rainbow trout, but will not open to anglers until 6 a.m., April 21.

All areas stocked with trout by the department are open for public fishing.

Harth said that approximately 20,000 fish had been received for stocking this year.

The limits in these stocked areas are five trout per day, with no minimum time limit. In Lake Michigan waters which come under Illinois jurisdiction, there is a limit of five trout and/or salmon with a 10-inch minimum length limit.

IT'S NOT THE Avon Lady who's calling on John Woods of Arlington Heights. It's Mrs. Russell Gardner, a member of the League of Women Voters who is active in this year's League effort to gain community

'Tiny atom may guide jumbo jets to safe, soft landings

The tiny atom can help the mighty jumbo jet land in fog and rain and snow. The Federal Aviation Administration is trying to see if nuclear energy can guide airplanes down through weather that closes today's modern airports.

Landings in thick weather are limited by today's equipment. A standard instrument landing system becomes ineffective as an airplane nears the ground; conventional radio beams scatter and bounce off runways and buildings. If an airline pilot cannot see the runway by the time he reaches about 200 feet above ground — he must go around.

The FAA is developing a family of microwave systems to do away with low-altitude problems. They also are studying an alternate system to provide guidance during final moments of approach and landing.

IAN JONES and a team of scientists from Los Angeles are working on a Nuclear Instrument Landing Systems (NILS). NILS uses a radioisotope (cobalt 60) to beam signals for aircraft to home in on during blind landings.

The nuclear system was invented by R. A. Kaminsky, a colleague of Jones'. Kaminsky hastens to emphasize NILS is not the only solution to the problem, but is seen as "an independent monitor for the new microwave ILS."

"NILS can provide an independent check on the microwave system," Jones says. "Someday, if aviation officials want separate systems to guard against failures, NILS could provide it."

NILS uses four units: one on each side of the runway (downrange beacons) and two out on the final approach corridor (uprange beacons). The units tell a pilot when he is on glideslope, centerline, too high, too low, too far left or right.

WHAT ABOUT radiation hazards? "Captains and flight crews could make hundreds of landings and takeoffs a week," Kaminsky says, "before they'd begin to approach the dosage the Atomic Energy Commission considers safe for the public."

The cobalt 60 source, not much bigger than a flint for a cigarette-lighter, gives off less than 10 watts of heat. The same enclosures that fence off conventional ILS equipment would keep trespassers away.

The system soon will be taken to the FAA's national experiment center at Atlantic City, N.J., for more testing.

Social security 'equality' in '75

You generally hear about women lacking equality with men — but it's been the other way around in figuring retirement benefits under social security, according to Norman R. Thoresen, social security manager of 120 W. Eastman in Arlington Heights.

"For example," Thoresen said, "a woman of 65 who always earned the maximum amount that could be credited for social security would get about $269 a month if she retires now. But a man — same age and same earnings — would get only $259."

The new social security law will eliminate that difference over the next 3 years, he said.

Under present law, benefit amounts for both men and women are based on average earnings, but average earnings are figured up to age 62 for women and up to age 65 for men.

Under the new law, men who reach age 62 in 1973 will be able to drop an additional year of low earnings, men reaching 62 in 1974 will drop an additional 2 years, and men reaching 62 in 1975 will drop an additional 3 years.

Also, reduced benefits will now be provided for nondisabled widowers at age 60, as is now the case for widows.

"So in 1975, at least in this regard, men and women will enjoy equality," Mr. Thoresen concluded.

'Poor should come first'

I would like to answer some of these who stay at home and let someone help the poor about abortion.

No one likes abortion, but we know it is a better way than to bring someone in that we cannot give an equal chance at life.

If the unborn was to have a life that was right, there would be no abortion.

Please, please, before you make a life for someone else, work with the poor in the inner city. The same ones who fight birth control are the loudest about abortion, yet they run from the poor the fastest.

Set an income ceiling. Anyone who makes over a certain amount, no abortion.

John T. Hastings
Schaumburg

Thank you very much for printing Sharon Angeletti's letter on March 7. I also am getting fed up with the anti-abortion letters that you print by the dozens.

I'd like to ask these letter writers a few questions. Do you live in a nice house (no rats, roaches), do you have luxuries (hot water, one or two to a bed, a working toilet, working refrigerator, washing machine, car, furnace), do you have some education, do you read (not True Romances or movie magazines), does your husband wear a suit to work, do you take vacations, do you buy clothes (as opposed to getting them used from Goodwill, etc.), are you in your 20's, 30's or 40's, do you have a child that's ever had a long term mental or physical condition (requiring lots and lots of money and lots and lots of pain

John Birch Society 'is in the middle'

In your March 22 article on the Equal Rights Amendment, I was erroneously quoted as saying that the John Birch Society was against equal rights for women. This is in error. The John Birch Society, as always, agrees with the Declaration of Independence — we all are endowed by our Creator with certain inalienable rights. Rights come from God — privileges come from Government. Too often today, the terms rights and privileges are confused.

The author of the above article, Monica Wilch, in error referred to the John Birch Society as "far right." If total government is on the left side of the political spectrum and no government the right, as most people agree, then the John Birch Society which stands for our Constitutional Republic 100 per cent is in the middle — not at one end.

The author, in error, also referred to the John Birch Society as political. As most people know, the John Birch Society never supports any political candidates or in any other way gets involved in politics. Each member is encouraged to inform himself and then work for the party or candidates of his choice.

Citizen views Mount Prospect race

The political debate which was sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations and took place at River Trails Junior High School on March 5, was the first major bang-bang of April 17 Mount Prospect election campaign. It also was the first encounter of all candidates seeking to capture the seats in the Mount Prospect Village government not only between themselves, but also with a large segment of interested citizens who came to size up the candidates and listen what each of them had to offer for the village in general and to meet the needs of its residents in particular.

As expected, the skirmish between the three mayoral candidates — incumbent Robert Teichert, young Michael Minton and the senior gentleman Albert Mutsch — was tempered with a degree of hostility.

Minton shouted the loudest. Copying the demagoguery of ex-presidential candidate George McGovern, he attacked Teichert for what he has done and failed to do as mayor. Especially he condemned him for destroying "my boyhood playground" by allowing the Huntington Commons to be built there. His lamentations implied, to me anyway, he would rather see animals roaming and weeds growing there instead of people living as of now. He went as far as to slander Huntington Commons at Mount Prospect's Cabrini-Green with all the implications connected with it.

Mayor Teichert rebutted Minton's attacks with a set of facts in his usual cool, tactical and mature temper. All this leads one to ask a question, Why a man so ignorant about the operations of the village government would run for the office of a mayor? A glaring example of how much he is misinformed about the and heartache), do you volunteer for anything (grade school, P.T.A., hospitals, veterans hospitals, crippled children's or retarded homes, rest homes for elderly, Sunday school teaching, FISH, disturbed teenager agencies, orphanages, etc.), have you seen actual pictures of battered children (done to children by parents — like severe beatings, burnings, stompings, eye gougings, sexual assaults, etc.), are you signed up to become a foster parent (long term child care or the emergency short term), do you read the Bible (try reading all of James in the New Testament)?

I'd like to end by saying that I am for birth control, but it doesn't always work. I am for only adults having sexual relations, but that doesn't change the fact that many teen-agers are having sex without contraceptives. Therefore, I am for abortions for any female who wants one (whether she's 12 or 50 or any age).

One more question. Will you out there in the Northwest suburbs who are for abortions please write to the Herald? Those of us who think Betsy Brooker is living in an ivory tower need to write the newspapers.

Antoinette Seigia
Prospect Heights (age 29, two children ages 4 and 2, planned and loved, active in church and other)

In a recent letter you printed (Hypocrisy war's OK, but abortion isn't) the writer quotes the Bible, "Thou shalt not kill." It is always interesting and pathetic when such people, through the use of this verse, show that they know nothing about the teachings of the Bible.

This verse, properly translated, reads "Thou shalt not murder." Abortion is the taking of a human being's life for reasons other than those commanded in the Bible, and as such is murder.

The Bible pronounces the death penalty on murderers (Numbers 35:31) to be carried out by the civil government (Romans 13:4). The woman having an abortion, and the doctor performing it, are murderers and should be executed.

If a woman doesn't want a child, the solution is not to get pregnant. She has control over her body and has no right to murder a child so she can continue to have her fun.

The real hypocrisy is that the government outlaws capital punishment for murderers and legalizes abortion (murder).

John Battell
Wheeling

We were all at one time embryos.

Those of us who are against abortion do not hold the anti-abortion issue as a view but as a tenet; the tenet that human life is sacred, and no person or institution can destroy that sacredness.

Recently, the Supreme Court's decision legalized murder, the murder of innocent babies who have no defense against the ugly tool or vacuum that takes away their life. That decision, consequently, condoned the cohorts of the murder, the he said it without malice and prejudice, steering clear from Mormon blustering.

George Macdonald, a famous Scottish novelist, said nearly one hundred years ago: "When a man argues for victory and not for truth, he is sure of just one ally, that is the devil." It is my humble opinion, and I think that the majority of the listeners will agree with me, that during this debate Robert Teichert and Albert Mutsch argued for truth and Michael Minton for victory. For as Plato said, "There is nothing so delightful as the hearing or the speaking of truth."

'Both aid offices need funds'

Was very glad to read today's article on page 1 of the Rolling Meadows Herald stating the Rolling Meadows City Council was proposing a resolution to investigate the merits of the Northwest Opportunity Center. This should settle the issue once and for all. My schedule will not permit me to attend Tuesday's Council meeting but I surely hope someone will add an amendment to that resolution. In justice to all the taxpayers of Rolling Meadows this resolution should also include an investigation of the cases handled by our welfare office. Since the welfare office is asking $5,000 — $3,000 more than the Center — it should also show its accomplishments over the year.

I sincerely believe both these organizations will prove worthy of our money. Reading the articles in the Herald showed some of the services they render. One article stated that the Center gives food to needy children and pregnant pregnant woman and her doctor.

For too long now, I, a 25-year-old wife and the mother of two beautiful, healthy babies, have stood to the side saying that although I would never submit to an abortion, other women could do as they saw fit with their unborn babies. I thought it was their own business.

Then it dawned on me that, "No man (or woman) is an island." As a member of the family of mankind, I implore all women contemplating an abortion, please, please, don't murder my brothers and sisters. If you don't want that very special and unique entity that is living and growing inside you and asking your protection for only nine months, realize that there is somebody who wants to care for and love him or her for the rest of his or her life. Your gift of womanhood is your ability to nurture life. Many are denied that pleasure. Destroying life is not a solution.

Place for People's work 'still unfinished'

As a member for three years of the board of directors for the Place for People, I met the young people of our community, hundreds of them. I also met and heard of many adults who gave their time, efforts and money to help this teen center at the time when help was needed.

It was a noisy place, an active place, this Place for People. A free activity school was there, for it was there that the young people learned — learned what they didn't learn in a more structured atmosphere. They rapped, they poured out their thoughts, they played rock music, they sang — they lived as only "teens" live.

To be heard above the din one had almost to practice lip reading, but they were a polite lot who always said, "excuse, please," while one might almost be knocked down by the rush of them.

A new idea in youth freedom was there, and something fine in adult life could have been the outcome if more adults had believed in letting youth "live." The young people needed to "cool it" in some instances, and the adults should have "hung loose" at times.

To his heart by his stomach

Yes, there was noise and confusion, but the eyes were steady and serious. Reactions were nervous and high-strung, but the readiness and will were pointed in the right direction. We suppressed that

Three Schaumburg candidates boosted

April 17 is the Schaumburg village election and a very real choice is open to the citizens of Schaumburg this year. Three qualified, courageous women are opposing the $19,000 war chest of the Schaumburg United Party (SUP) with virtually no funds, but plenty of facts, figures, commonsense and a common desire to bring local government back to the people of Schaumburg. What are the issues these independent candidates are concerned about?

Flooding: Mayor Atcher, party chairman for SUP, says we have little flooding in Schaumburg and brags about it to our neighbors. But the Schaumburg homes that are victimized by the downpours are not bragging. And there is a movement afoot to turn our valuable park district land into detention ponds to hold flood waters. This land will be a mud flat when the water has drained off.

Schools: Mayor Atcher says our school district is asking too much money of Schaumburg developers — tell that to the parents who know that the district is fighting to keep class size below 30!

Airport expansion: Mayor Atcher says we need an airport and he doesn't care whether jets land there or not! Put the question on the ballot, mayor, and see who cares! And on the same subject, one wonders what is going through the mind of the chairman of the Schaumburg Airport Committee (a SUP candidate for trustee) when he salutes a United Airlines during a film entitled "Airports Mean Business?" A joke or just a little practice for the grand opening of Schaumburg International Airport?

Responsive government: Mayor Atcher says that it is a privilege to come before the village board to speak, but is it a privilege, or a right guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States of America? After respectfully presenting the Mayor with the names of 1,000 Schaumburg citizens who oppose the expansion of Schaumburg airport, he said it was a "privilege" to come before this board, and if it was abused, he would take away the "privilege!" The SUP candidates display the same oneness of purpose as the mayor — a bigger Schaumburg. This single-minded purpose is not representative of the interests of the citizens and therefore not responsive to them.

Community Services: As Schaumburg grows and its tax base broadens, why do our taxes continue to increase and services in the village diminish? Are we growing faster than the services can keep up? There is an urgent need for more snow removal equipment, electrical and plumbing inspectors, fire inspectors and an increase in personnel in other public service departments, and these needs will increase unless a slower paced growth plan is put into effect. Alternatives to growth are available to the village officials thru zoning, easements, condemnation, and outright purchase of land. These measures can reduce services such as street access, water sewage, waste disposal, police and fire protection and educational services, thereby reducing taxes.

The citizens of Schaumburg are not interested in high-rises, high density developments, hospitals built in flood plains and mini-jet airports. They are interested in maintaining a single-family home atmosphere, safe building codes, quality education for their children, un-will and readiness.

Many people in our community have put forth great effort to prevent that suppression and to keep alive that will and readiness. It is because of these people that this article is being written — to say "thank you, one and all" to those who supported Place for People, gave the support which meant so much to those who needed it.

I believe that we must first start with Reverend David Russell and Reverend Dean Niles, and many others at the First Congregational Church in Des Plaines. Dave started the ball rolling and others from the church joined in to help. Dave and Dean gave hundreds of hours of their time and I feel certain that they, also, were helped by the giving, and that the kids will not soon forget.

There were so many who went beyond the call of duty to support our young people, and it would be impossible to name them all. However, we must give a large vote of thanks to the churches, civic organizations, industries, utility companies, real estate people, Mr. Anonymous (whose name appeared now and then) and to the many, many other "just fine folks." If your name does not appear in this letter, please consider yourself one of those to receive thanks for helping.

Before I finish, I want to talk about one of our last meetings of the board of directors. At that time the adults and the youth representatives talked about closing the Center "with honor." All debts must be paid or cancelled and the place on Ellenwood Avenue cleaned and left as it was when it became the Place for People.

The final meeting of the board of directors was held March 7, at the First Methodist Church, and it was announced by Mr. Erwin Roschke, chairman of the board of directors, that we were almost free of all financial obligations.

We should like to extend, here, a special note of appreciation to Mr. Squire and Forest Hospital for their continual encouragement and for their generosity while every effort was being made to "keep afloat."

The Place for People is closed, now, but the need to communicate and help with the Des Plaines youth, remains. We have seen from this experience that the churches, civic groups, etc., were willing to help, but it will take lots of continual work by parents, professional counselors and the City fathers to fill the need. It is hoped that the Des Plaines Youth Commission, Mayor and parents, will come together and take the following action:

—Review the past activities of the Place for People and learn from their errors and successes.

—Identify with the current needs and desires of youth and parents.

—Provide the leadership ways and means of meeting those objectives.

—Finally, make it a positive and fun project for all concerned, youth oriented, and then everyone will learn, improve and enjoy!

After the tragic fire, I also strongly urge that we not waste money on an unnecessary cat catcher. Instead, let's put the money where it will honor the memory of John, Auggie and Dick and help prevent such a thing from ever happening again.

Would it be possible for firemen to be equipped with a walkie talkie? I think that would be a fine thing to have when you're in trouble and need help.

I know one thing. My boys are going to miss walking to Ben Franklin, their favorite store, and all of us will miss the three men who gave their lives that Friday.

They avoid toll

Dear Elliot W. Frank, Ill. Tollway Authority:

Recently while a victim of a flat tire north on I-94, just past the Elgin toll gate, I noticed a most irritating incident. Please let me explain.

I was traveling to Rockford on March 2 and just as I passed the Elgin toll gate I received a flat tire. On the opening of my trunk I discovered I had no spare tire. I then proceeded to the toll booth with the man in it and made a telephone call to a nearby gas station. I went back to my car, sat and waited for approximately 40 minutes. During that time I observed three people who "ran" toll booths, which is the reason this letter is being written.

She backs return of phosphate ban

I agree with your editorial protesting the U. S. District Court decision to end the phosphate ban in Chicago. The decision, which is a step backward in our efforts to clean up our environment, will also mean that more of the taxpayers' money will go for sewage treatment to remove phosphates.

Certainly I hope the ban will be reinstated. However, even if the lawmakers won't take this step to conserve our water and our money, the consumer can do it by choosing non-phosphorus detergents even when phosphorus ones are available.

Thank you for your frequent coverage of environmental concerns such as this.

Lauds Public Works

My wife and I would like your readers to know what unusual people there are working at the Arlington Heights Public Works Dept.

We have had to call them on three different occasions during the past year or so. It would be impossible to find a group of people who give better service and at the same time are so very pleasant and helpful.

We would especially like to mention Mrs. Peterson and Mr. Hoge. Another gentleman came out on a water pressure problem and gave us the same excellent, courteous service. Unfortunately, we do not know his name.

The whole department certainly deserves some recognition.

They avoid toll

I feel that this act of nonpayment of tolls is a major loss to both our tollway system and taxpayer. I think with the stoppage of toll booth runners, additional money could be available for maintenance of our tollways and possibly the reducing of some of our taxes.

The possible suggestions to consider are some type of gate or fence which would be raised or lowered when the fee is paid and/or the possibility of mounting a camera near the booth and when a toll is run it would take a photo of the license plate.

I would like to thank you for any consideration of my suggestions.

Using snake venom and space science...

Research probes the secrets of heart disease

NEW YORK — Scientists are stalking the most wanted killers in the United States.

They are heart and circulatory diseases, which affect more than 27 million Americans and kill more than a million a year.

About 670,000 die annually in this country from heart attacks, 350,000 before they ever reach the hospital. More than 200,000 die of stroke.

The work of hundreds of scientists is promising a healthier tomorrow for all of us — particularly those who suffer from heart and blood-vessel diseases.

Two Los Angeles scientists coax from deadly rattlesnake venom an elusive chemical that effectively prevents blood clots — clots which can trigger both heart attack and stroke.

—A Japanese scientist working in a Canadian hospital uses electronic equipment to spot certain types of stroke in a fraction of a second.

—Experiments with animals in Dallas indicate that the same principle that propels a rocket into space may soon be used to help ailing hearts recover.

—A new type of blood test, developed by a team of Philadelphia researchers, predicts a patient's chances of recovery following a heart attack.

—The artificial muscle a Brooklyn surgeon has developed may pave the way to a long-sought version of a mechanical heart.

THESE ARE but a few of the examples which demonstrate how money invested in heart research pays dividends in the battle against heart disease. Some $16 million will be provided in 1973 by the American Heart Assn.

Nearly 1,400 scientists aided by support from the AHA are working to break down barriers to a full understanding of cardiovascular diseases.

During the past two decades the AHA-supported research has been instrumental in developing improved methods for the prevention, diagnosis, medical and surgical treatment of heart disease.

"American Heart," says former AHA president Dr. Willis Hurst, "is dedicated to cardiovascular research and the capability of moving into promising areas quickly when funds aren't available from other sources."

Government research support, he says, can shift emphasis from year to year. Industrial research must relate to product and marketing trends. And while some private foundations support studies in heart and blood vessel diseases, their continuing contributions to the cardiovascular fields aren't automatically generated.

ACCORDING TO AHA president Dr. Paul N. Yu, chief cardiologist at the University of Rochester Medical Center, more than $195 million has been channeled into research since the first Heart Fund campaign in 1949. Each year more than half of all the money collected at the national level is earmarked for research. Local Heart Associations channel an average of 25 per cent of their funds into research.

"Unique research concepts, pioneered by AHA have been the Career Investigatorship program through which gifted scientists receive lifetime support to carry out independent studies. And our Established Investigators program gives priority funding to talented young investigators in their early years devoted to cardiovascular research," Dr. Yu says.

RESEARCH, basic and applied, takes a long time before results materialize. It takes money. And it takes faith to explore uncharted areas.

"The Heart Association's ability to identify and support young investigators is possible because we're a grassroots organization. Much of what we do starts at the local level. Everything we accomplish eventually benefits people in every locality," Dr. Hurst says.

The need for research is obvious. Many of the underlying causes and the processes by which disease develops are still shrouded in mystery. And in spite of advances, heart and blood vessel diseases remain the nation's biggest killer.

Consider some statistics:

—MORE THAN 27 million Americans are afflicted by heart and circulatory diseases.

—High blood pressure affects more than 21 million Americans. Countless thousands die from heart attack and stroke for which high blood pressure is a major contributing factor.

—More than 4 million suffer from coronary heart disease; and another 1.6 million from rheumatic heart disease.

What is the cost of these diseases? An estimated $19.5 billion will be lost this year in income and in payments for medical care. Some 52 million man-days of production are wasted. And there are hidden costs; losses in management skill and knowhow of thousands of workers, time and money in personnel training and development wasted if these individuals are sidelined by disability or death.

HEALTH CARE has been improving.

But not fast enough to keep pace with growing demand. The nation's burgeoning population has brought about changes in health care needs. The surge to the suburbs, overcrowding in the inner-cities and increased longevity, have had a similar impact. Additional burdens have been placed on existing treatment facilities by government health care programs. Research advances have added new techniques.

"We must," Dr. Hurst says, "maintain a balance in the conquest of cardiovascular diseases. The need for new knowledge, and the ability to pass that knowledge on and put it to work, is never-ending."

Blood clots may not cause heart attacks

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Heart attacks, known medically as myocardial infarcts, are not caused by coronary blood clots but by some other, still undetermined factor, according to a report by a group of Swedish heart specialists.

Doctors Lelf Erhardt, Torbjorn Lundman and Haakan Mellstedt, of Stockholm's Seraphime Hospital, said in a report that blood clots are formed after heart attacks, not before.

Dr. Erhardt said his group is now trying to trace the primary factor causing heart attacks.

"Arteriosclerosis is, of course, a main reason for heart attacks. But we still do not know exactly why the patients die," Erhardt said. Arteriosclerosis is a thickening of the artery walls caused by fat deposits.

Erhardt said he and his colleagues had been tracing blood clots by injecting radioactive fibrinogen, a protein substance, in the veins of heart patients.

"In one case we found that blood clots were still forming 47 hours after the patient suffered his infarct... We deduced that the formation of blood clots in the coronary veins is a secondary process in infarct cases," the report said.

Rijsttafel! an exotic buffet

Marinated Pork with Peanuts

- 1½ pounds lean boneless pork loin
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 3 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- ¼ cup peanut oil
- ½ cup coarsely chopped cocktail peanuts

Trim off excess fat from pork. Thinly slice pork and cut slices into ½-inch strips.

Combine flour, brown sugar, salt, pepper and soy sauce. Mix well. Stir in pork strips to thoroughly coat with sauce. Cover; chill for 1 hour.

Heat oil in a skillet. Add pork and stir frequently over moderate heat for about 8 minutes, or until pork is done. Stir in cocktail peanuts and cook about 1 minute longer. Makes 4 servings.

Banana Fritters

- 3 cups peanut oil
- ½ cup buttermilk biscuit mix
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 egg yolks
- 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- 6 green-tipped bananas, halved crosswise and lengthwise

Pour oil into a large frying pan. Heat to 375 degrees. Meanwhile, combine biscuit mix, sugar, cinnamon, milk and egg yolks in a mixing bowl. Beat with rotary beater until mixture is fairly smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Dip each banana piece into batter and place in hot oil. Fry until golden brown on both sides, about 15 seconds on each side. Drain on paper towels. If desired, sprinkle bananas with confectioners' sugar. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Beef Curry

- 2 tablespoons peanut oil
- 1 pound lean flank steak, thinly sliced on an angle across the grain
- ½ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 cup grated unpeeled green apple
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 can (10½-ounce) condensed beef broth
- 3 tablespoons water
- ½ cup dark seedless raisins
- 2 tablespoons curry powder
- 2 tsp. chutney
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- Flaked coconut

Heat oil in large skillet over moderate heat. Add sliced meat; brown on both sides. Remove and set aside.

Saute onion, garlic and apple in pan drippings just until soft, about 2 minutes. Add meat. Remove from heat. Mix in flour. Stir in beef broth, water, raisins, curry powder, chutney and salt. Heat and stir until mixture comes to a boil. Reduce heat to low; cover and cook about 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

To serve, spoon over hot cooked rice. Garnish with flaked coconut. If desired, serve additional flaked coconut, chopped peanuts, grated orange peel and chopped parsley as condiments. Makes 4 servings.

Rijsttafel is the Dutch word for rice table — a colorful meal with a central dish of rice accompanied by a variety of side dishes. It traditionally is served in such exotic places as Java, Curacao and Indonesia.

This Indonesian rice table is an exciting idea for a buffet supper. All foods can be prepared in advance and kept hot in chafing dishes. The various side dishes that accompany the rice will depend upon the number of guests to be served. A small rijsttafel serves about six people and consists of one meat dish or chicken dish, one fish, one vegetable, krupuk (shrimp wafers), a chutney, one kind of fritter, and one hot and one sweet sambal (relish). A very elaborate rijsttafel with 36 to 40 side dishes could serve at least 100 guests.

Cabbage salad with spicy tomato dressing and peanuts is a traditional favorite with Indonesians. This usually is followed by sate, a dish of skewered pork with peanut sauce. (In the old days when the East Indies were Dutch, skewers of sate were sold on streets the way hot dogs are sold in the United States.)

The rice served at a rijsttafel may be plain or flavored. Generally two kinds of rice are offered, such as coconut-flavored rice or fried rice. Guests first serve themselves to rice then sample each of the side dishes. Suggested desserts for a rijsttafel are fresh fruit, fruit salad or ice cream.

The portion of the rice table shown here includes Beef Curry, Indonesian Fried Shrimp, marinated Pork with Peanuts and Banana Fritters.

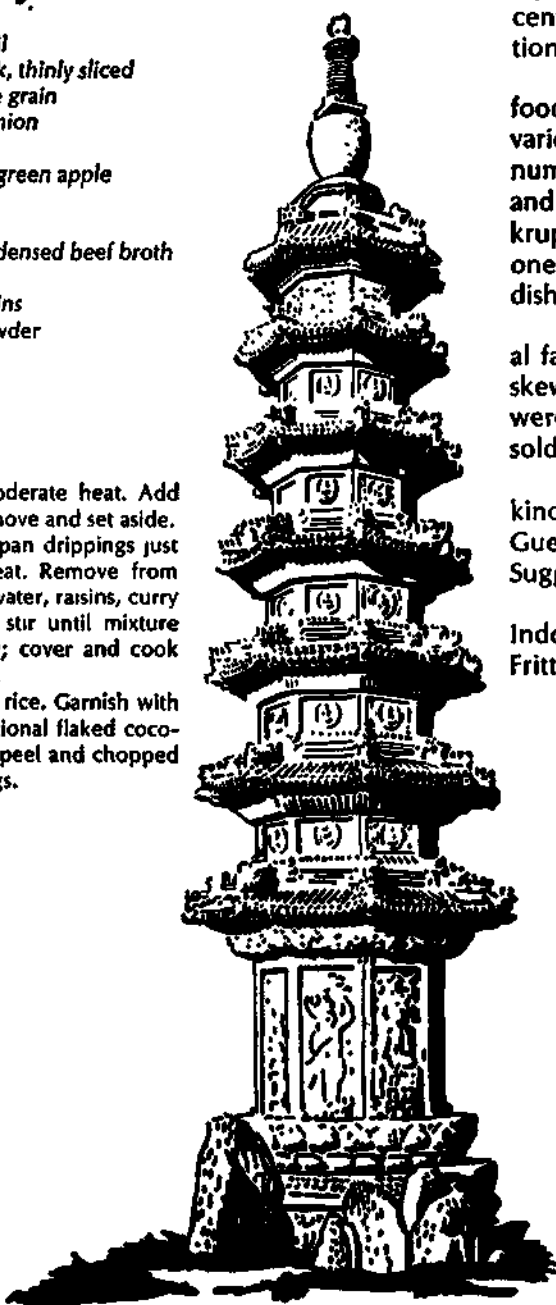

Indonesian Fried Shrimp

- 2½ pounds large uncooked shrimp
- 1 egg yolk
- ¾ cup water
- ½ cup unsifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon turmeric
- Peanut oil

Peel shrimp leaving tails on; devein.

Combine egg yolk and water; beat until frothy. Add flour, salt and turmeric; blend well.

Dip shrimp into batter and fry in deep hot (375 degrees) oil until golden brown, about 3 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Mrs. John Clark

She makes the best of cooking

by LOIS SEILER

"As long as I am stuck with cooking, I try to make the best of it," laughed Mrs. John Clark who prefers sewing.

The Des Plaines homemaker considers cooking a necessity but strives to make meals as interesting as possible.

Jane Clark finds it a bit restrictive to cook for two, so she likes to try new dishes for company. "That's when I become inspired," she said.

One of her favorite recipes for casual entertaining is Shrimp Etouffee, a dish featured at Brennan's, a famous New Orleans restaurant.

Onions, celery, garlic and herbs season the tomato sauce which forms the base for this dish. Worcestershire sauce and Tabasco add zest while the shrimp are the piece de resistance. Garnished with hard boiled eggs, the Shrimp Etouffee is served over rice.

"It is a simple supper for four, yet very effective," Jane remarked. She suggests a green salad and French bread as accompaniments. For dessert her husband, John who also likes to dabble in the culinary arts, might prepare one of his specialties — bananas au rum.

If Jane is serving a plain meat such as roast beef or ham, she likes to prepare a tasty casserole called Roadside Potatoes. It is easily made using packaged hash browns which are baked in butter and cream with a liberal sprinkling of Parmesan cheese.

"They are similar to scalloped potatoes, yet have a different flavor," Jane explained.

A recipe which this homemaker terms her "very favorite" is one she acquired from a friend for an elegant cheese cake. Made in a tube pan, it has a graham cracker or zwieback crust and a luscious lemon-flavored filling.

While this bakes, Jane beats a sour cream topping the entire time. This is poured over the top, and the cake is baked again for a short period. The topping retains its light and fluffy texture, giving the cake two distinct layers.

"It is easy to make as everything is beaten with the mixer," Jane said, "yet makes a very impressive and appealing dessert."

SHRIMP ETOUFFEE

- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 2 green onions, finely chopped
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 cup finely-chopped celery
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 1/2 cups water
- 1 10-ounce can tomato puree
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 4 drops Tabasco
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon crushed thyme
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 4 cups thawed, shelled shrimp
- 2 hard boiled eggs, quartered

In a large skillet or Dutch oven, saute onion, green onion, garlic and celery in butter until tender. Add flour and cook and stir until lightly browned. Add water, tomato puree, bay leaves, Worcestershire, Tabasco and seasonings. Simmer uncovered, stirring occasionally, 25 minutes. Add shrimp and continue cooking for 15 minutes.

Turn into a serving bowl and garnish with quartered hard boiled eggs. Serve over rice. Serves 4 generously.

ROADSIDE POTATOES

- 3 cups half and half
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 12-ounce packages frozen hash browned potatoes, thawed completely
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese, or more

Heat cream and butter until butter melts. Remove from heat and stir in salt.

Place thawed potatoes in a thin layer in an ungreased 11 by 15-inch baking dish. Pour cream mixture over potatoes. Sprinkle top generously with cheese.

Bake at 325 degrees for one hour. Serves 8.

(To serve 4, use half ingredients and bake in a 9-inch square pan for 45 minutes at 325 degrees.)

MRS. BERNSTEIN'S CHEESE CAKE

- 1 graham cracker or zwieback crust, made according to package directions

Filling:

- 3 8-ounce packages cream cheese
- 6 eggs
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Allow cream cheese to soften and cream well. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly with electric mixer. Add eggs one at a time, beating constantly. Add lemon juice and vanilla and mix well.

Line bottom and two inches up the sides of a spring form pan with graham cracker or zwieback crust. Pour filling into crust and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes.

Topping:

- 1 pint sour cream
- 1/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

In a large mixing bowl, beat the ingredients together with electric mixer the entire time the cake is baking. Pour fluffy sour cream mixture over baked cake. Sprinkle a few graham cracker crumbs on top. Return to oven and bake an additional 7 to 10 minutes.

Remove from oven and allow to cool thoroughly. Place in refrigerator to chill. When ready to serve, remove from refrigerator an hour before serving. Remove sides from pan.

Place cake (including bottom of pan) on a cake plate. Cut in wedges to serve. Serve 16 generously.

MRS. JOHN CLARK combines onion, celery, garlic and herbs with tomato sauce to form the base for Shrimp Etouffee. Basically a shrimp stew, it is more subtle in flavor than a gumbo or creole. Excellent for a supper party, the dish is garnished with hard cooked eggs and served over rice.

PROCTER & GAMBLE

CUT OUT CAREFULLY ALONG DOTTED LINE

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

Planning a party or brunch? You'll find Baked Chicken Wings Sesame an interesting and popular course. Normally 24 wings will serve 12 people but as tasty as they are, you may need more.

I like to clip off the wing tip to make them easier to handle and there's little meat on the tip at best, but use your own judgment.

First prepare a marinade and allow to stand overnight to blend the flavors fully. Make a paste of 1 tablespoon ground mustard and 1 cup soya sauce. Add 1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger, 1 heaping teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon Accent and 1 medium-sized onion peeled and grated.

At least 4 hours before baking, place the chicken wings, which have been washed and wiped dry, in the marinade and turn a few times. When ready to bake, drain wings and reserve marinade.

Place drained chicken wings on racks in casseroles as needed or broiler pans and place in a preheated 350 degree oven. Sprinkle generously with sesame seeds. Check tenderness of chicken and bake until well done. I like to baste with the marinade but this is optional.

Put baked wings in a chafing dish to keep hot until served. You can double the marinade for 48 wings. Shrimp may be prepared with the same marinade and procedure except they should be broiled about 5 minutes (a little longer if shrimp are very large). Brush shrimp with garlic butter while broiling and keep hot until served.

TO MAKE the garlic butter add to 1 cup melted butter 2 teaspoons finely minced fresh or dehydrated instant minced garlic. Whip until blended.

Equally good with shrimp or any fish is herbed butter which is made by adding to 1 cup melted butter, 1/4 cup minced parsley, 1 teaspoon tarragon leaves, 2 teaspoons powdered mustard, and 2 tablespoons finely minced fresh or freeze-dried shallots. Blend.

Herb butter is better used to brush on after shrimp or fish has been cooked. The sauce may burn if used as a baste during broiling.

Do you have a favorite chicken recipe or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Apricot Glazed Chicken

Fun with fruit

A salad as gay and colorful as an Easter basket can be made this way. Place large canned cling peach halves in finely shredded lettuce dressed with French dressing. Combine canned fruit cocktail with cut up marshmallows and fill the peach halves with the colorful mixture. Serve your favorite dressing separately.

Canned fruit cocktail heated just to boiling with a few crushed mint leaves and then chilled, makes a delicious sundae topping for ice cream.

Try this for a quick supper. Steamed rice, perfectly browned link sausages and curried peaches. Combine ½ cup peach syrup with 2 tablespoons butter and 1 teaspoon curry powder. Heat the slices in syrup and serve over the hot rice.

Many a woman who'd like to find new ways of preparing an everyday food — like chicken for instance — looks through the poultry section of a glamour cookbook and stares unbelievably at the long, long list of ingredients. So many bottles, cans and packages to open and replace on the supply shelf!

Much of the fuss can be eliminated by reaching for a few well chosen ingredients.

Team Worcestershire sauce with onion soup mix and apricot preserves and you have the richest kind of glaze for chicken as it bakes to an appetizing finish. (Incidentally, if you're out of apricot preserves, substitute plum, pineapple or cherry preserves or orange marmalade.) Apricot glazed chicken is especially good served with baked sweetpotatoes, winter squash or carrots and a delicate green vegetable such as green beans or asparagus.

Chicken Provencal is another simple dish with interesting flavor and you'll probably have most of the ingredients on hand. This top-of-the-stove chicken dish has a kind of Mediterranean flavor and is at its best served with some form of pasta or a nice meaty baked potato.

APRICOT GLAZED CHICKEN

- 2 (2½ to 3 pounds each) chickens, cut into serving-size pieces
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 envelope (2½ oz.) dehydrated onion soup mix
- ⅓ cup original Worcestershire sauce
- 1 jar (12 oz.) apricot preserves

Sprinkle chickens with salt; cover and refrigerate 1 hour or longer. Place chickens, skin side up, in one or two shallow roasting pans so that the pieces do not touch one another. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 45 minutes basting occasionally with pan juices. Mix onion soup mix with Worcestershire sauce. Remove chicken from oven and spread onion soup mixture on top of each piece. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer. Melt preserves and brush over chicken; bake until chicken is tender and nicely glazed, about 10 minutes longer. Yield: 6 to 8 portions.

CHICKEN PROVENCAL

- 3 tablespoons olive or salad oil
- 1 garlic clove, minced

Meaty chicken legs

More than 30 per cent of the meat on a chicken is on the legs, or drumsticks plus thighs. The breast with ribs makes up the second meatiest portion, at 23.9 per cent.

Uncooked chicken can be stored safely at average freezer temperature for a year.

Whole frozen chickens that weigh three pounds or less defrost in about 12 hours at refrigerator temperature. To thaw at room temperature, allow 2 to 3 hours per pound for whole chicken or 1½ to 2 hours per pound for smaller parts.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has developed two experimental citrus drinks made from whole fruit purees of oranges and grapefruit. Only the seeds and tough portions are removed before the fruit is ground and homogenized.

- 2½ to 3 pound chicken, cut into eighths
- 1 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 2 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon oregano leaves
- ½ cup sliced onions

In a large heavy saucepan or Dutch oven heat oil. Add garlic and saute for 2 minutes. Add chicken, a few pieces at a time, and brown on all sides. Return all chicken to pan. Add celery, tomato sauce, Worcestershire sauce, salt and oregano; stir well. Bring to boiling point; reduce heat; cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Add onion; cover and simmer for 5 minutes more or until chicken is fork tender. If desired, serve with grated Parmesan cheese. Yield: 4 portions.

Desserts with Girl Scout cookies

Girl Scouts from area troops are knocking at doors again this week; this time bearing cookies instead of order blanks. Delivery of cookies began Tuesday and will continue through March 10 for those who placed orders early last month.

This year's selection includes butter flavored vanilla, assorted sandwich, peanut butter round-up, cookie mints and fudge patties. Great for hand to mouth eating, the cookies can also be used in a variety of desserts.

Fudge Peppermint Pie begins with a crust of fudge patty cookies. A fluffy blend of whipped topping and marshmallow cream flavored with peppermint and tinted green fills the cookie crust. The dessert is frozen then garnished with whipped topping and chocolate pieces at serving time.

Marshmallows, peanut butter round-up cookies, chocolate bars and whipped cream are the ingredients for a rich but delicious Chocolate Round-Up Pie.

Butter flavored vanilla cookies provide the base for a frosting-like canape spread made of margarine, powdered sugar and a choice of fresh, frozen, or canned fruit.

An elegant but easy butterscotch cookie torte begins with fluffy white frosting mix. Cookie crumbs, butterscotch pieces, coconut and nuts are stirred into the frosting and the torte is ready for baking.

Girl Scout cookies are still available at various locations within the area. For a detailed listing readers may contact council cookie chairman Mrs. J. Mephram, 358-9258.

Proceeds from cookie sales are used to purchase land, build lodges and supply equipment for established Girl Scout camps.

CHOCOLATE ROUND-UP PIE

18 peanut butter round-ups,

ALL EYES ARE ON THE Fudge Peppermint Pie served by Tammy Brightwell, right, a member of Rolling Meadows Girl Scout Troop. Fudge patty cookies, sold by area Girl Scouts, are used for the crust and garnish. A

French toast with country accent

Country French Toast makes a hearty breakfast, with enough appetite appeal for the whole family. The finished dish looks as if it might have taken a long time to prepare, but by using frozen French toast, the whole recipe can be prepared in about fifteen minutes.

Begin by heating the French toast in the oven for about 8 minutes. Top the hot toast with cheese slices, apple rings and crisp bacon, then return it to the oven 'til the cheese melts.

Juice, coffee, milk, and of course, plenty of seconds on Country French Toast, and breakfast is complete.

COUNTRY FRENCH TOAST

6 bacon slices
2 small apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 9-oz. package frozen French toast
6 American cheese slices (approx. 4 inches square)

Cut bacon slices in half and pan-fry until crisp; drain on absorbent paper. Core apples and cut each into 3 rings; dip in lemon juice. Coat one side of each apple ring with brown sugar; refrigerate until ready to use. Heat French toast in preheated hot oven (400 degrees) about 8 minutes. Top each piece with a cheese slice, an apple ring, brown sugar side up, and 2 pieces of bacon. Return to preheated oven (400 degrees) 4 to 5 minutes or until cheese is melted. Makes 3 servings.

Shop like professional buyers

by JEANNE LESEM

(UPI) —A modern supermarket may have as many as nine different brands of pancake mix in 16 sizes with 23 prices. How do you find the best buy?

Mrs. Virginia Knauer, the president's consumer affairs adviser, thinks she's found an answer — shop like a professional who buys in quantity.

She outlined her views in a series of articles distributed to food editors. They're based on talks with food experts, officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, food editors, writers and housewives.

She recommends comparison shopping, using unit pricing if available, or figuring the prices per market unit yourself if the store hasn't posted them.

Mrs. Knauer said a study by a New York bank showed that a shopper who compared prices on 36 basic food items saved more than $11 over the shopper who bought the same items without first comparing prices.

Not everyone has time to comparison shop at two or more stores, but some volunteer organizations and consumer groups are starting to do so for their members, she added.

She warned against using unit pricing alone as a measure of economy. Some products with low unit prices are inferior in quality or quantity to higher-priced ones.

For instance, the cost per can of fruits and vegetables is not always a good guide to the cost per serving, because some packers use more water or syrup than others. Mrs. Knauer suggests buying several different brands of a product at one time to compare contents before establishing a buying pattern.

Questioning shoppers in supermarkets, Mrs. Knauer found one woman paying $1.35 per pound for presliced pizza in an aluminum pan when she could have bought an unsliced one without the pan for 75 cents to $1.04 per pound. She found another shopper who saved money by adding sausage to plain pizza instead of buying the ready-made sausage variety.

Some convenience foods are inexpensive time savers and some are not, she said. If a casserole calls for cream of mushroom soup, it's cheaper to open a 15 cent can than it is to spend time and money making the soup from scratch.

But premixed cinnamon sugar costs about five times as much as the home-made variety that can be made in a minute or two from less than three cents worth of bulk sugar and a few cents more of cinnamon.

Some convenience foods don't even save time, she said. One brand of boil-in-bag corn with butter sauce that sells for 53 cents a pound takes 11-15 minutes to cook. Plain frozen corn at less than 40 cents a pound cooks in 2-4 minutes, and a comparable sauce of butter, salt, starch, sugar, cheese and seasonings wouldn't take 15 minutes to prepare.

Her meat buying suggestions included:

CHOOSE ON a basis of cost per serving, not cost per pound.

"A relatively high-priced meat with little or no waste may be more economical per serving than a low-priced cut with a great deal of bone, gristle or fat."

Do some of your own meat cutting. A whole round steak bought as a special can be cut along its three natural sections to yield top round for broiling or roasting, bottom round for pot roast and eye of round for pan broiling. It's cheaper than paying three different prices for each cut bought separately.

Remember in buying a beef carcass that cutting loss can add up to 20 to 30 per cent or more. Carcass beef generally yields 25 per cent each of waste, ground beef and stew meat, steaks and roasts.

Poultry is one of the least expensive meats if it's bought whole. But boneless chicken breasts are high-ticket items and even cut-up chickens usually cost more than whole ones.

Mrs. Knauer also recommended buying seasonal specials among fruits and vegetables if you have time to process them for freezing and plenty of home freezer space for storage.

For canned and frozen produce, save money by choosing the style — whole, cut, sliced, diced or pieces — best suited to the way you plan to serve it. Fruit for topping or show calls for the best grades for appearance. But a less expensive cut style is just as good for puddings or other dessert mixtures.

Fruited pork chops are elegantly different

Traditional service for pork calls for a fruit garnish. The tang and color of fruit cocktail give a deliciously different touch while, conserving the traditional approach. Combined with mustard and wine vinegar the fruit forms a sweet-sour sauce that is simple to prepare but adds a truly lavish touch to the pork.

FRUITED PORK CHOPS

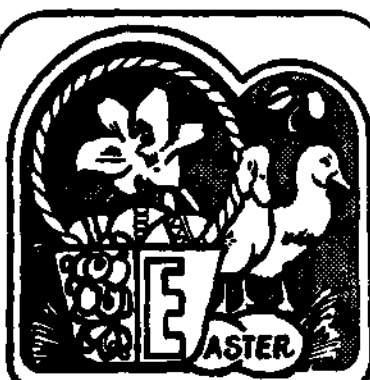

1 can (17 ounce) fruit cocktail
4 lean pork chops
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
1/8 teaspoon dried dill

½ cup reserved fruit cocktail syrup
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon cold water
Drain fruit cocktail, reserving ½ cup syrup. Rub hot skillet with a bit of fat trimming from pork chop. Brown chops slowly on both sides. Drain off fat. Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Combine mustard, vinegar, dill and reserved syrup; pour over chops. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes, until meat is tender. Combine cornstarch with cold water, and stir into liquid on meat. Cook, stirring until clear and thickened. Add fruit cocktail and heat 2 or 3 minutes longer. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

Participants of this week's red meat boycott are faced with serving nutritional, hopefully attractive, non-meat entrees.

Generous amounts of milk, eggs, fish, cheese and soybeans, all complete proteins, should be included in daily menus. These foods contain all eight essential amino acids making them nutritionally equivalent to meat.

Other so-called meat substitutes, such as dry beans, peas, rice and macaroni, only supply about 4 to 5 grams in protein per serving, compared with an average of 18 to 20 grams of protein per a serving of meat or fish. The addition of cheese, fish, or other complete protein foods increases the health-building value of the pastas, peas, beans and rice.

Tuna Fish Pie is one main dish suggestion that will add variety to meatless menus.

Prepare pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie and line pan with half. Roll out the rest of top crust.

Saute 1/2 cup chopped celery and 1 small onion, minced, in 2 tablespoons butter or shortening until soft and clear. Blend in 3 tablespoons flour. Add 2 cups milk and 1 chicken bouillon cube; cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Stir in 2 cans (7-ounces each) tuna, flaked, 1/2 cup diced cooked potatoes and 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped. Turn into unbaked pastry shell.

Cover with pastry; cut steam vents. Bake in 450-degree oven 10 minutes, then reduce heat to hot (400) degrees and bake 20 minutes more. Makes 6 servings.

Canned salmon can also be used in a number of ways for inexpensive nutritional dinner fare. The following salmon casserole can be served with stewed tomatoes, apple, celery and nut salad and fruit cobbler dessert.

Cook 1/2 cup carrots and 1/4 cup onion, chopped, in a small amount of salted water, drain. Break 1 can (1-pound) salmon into chunks and place in greased 2-quart casserole; add carrots, onion and 1 cup cooked macaroni. Stir in 1 can condensed cream of celery soup, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Melt 2 tablespoons butter and toss with 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Top casserole with buttered crumbs and 1/2 pound cheese, cut in strips.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Carol Fisler chosen Homemaker of tomorrow

"Keeping the channels of communication continually open to foster good and loving relationships among the family members" is what Carol Fisler believes the most important ability of a homemaker.

Carol, a senior at Fremd High School in Palatine, was recently named Illinois 1973 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. The announcement marks the second time in three years a member of the Peter D. Fisler family, 921 Mallard Drive, Palatine, has won the award.

Three years ago, when the family resided in Northridge, Calif., Carol's older sister, Lori, achieved both the California and national titles in the annual education program sponsored by General Mills.

According to General Mills, this is the first time in the 19-year history of the program that a family with a previous national winner has had another state winner.

As Illinois Homemaker of Tomorrow, Carol also remains eligible to further emulate her sister, now a student at Yale University, in the national competition.

CAROL WAS chosen from an original field of more than 26,000 seniors in 627 of the state's high schools and will receive a $1,500 college scholarship.

In addition to ranking first scholastically in her high school class, Carol is a member of the National Honor Society and has received several other academic honors.

Carol uses her leisure time reading, doing handicrafts, baking, hiking, bicycling and "spending time with my friends."

She plans a college major in psychology.

State-level judging in the 19th annual Betty Crocker Search for American Homemakers of Tomorrow centered on performance in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered last December.

Students named Betty Crocker Homemakers at area high schools include the following: Mary A. Campagnolo, Palatine High School; Jean B. Gould, Prospect High School; Cathy Aulert, Maine West; Jeanne Rodeth, Arlington High School; Cherie L. Koch, Forest View; Tena A. Turnbull, Hersey High School, and John Stahl, Rolling Meadows High School.

IN A FEW weeks Carol, along with the 50 Homemakers of Tomorrow representing each state and the District of Columbia, will participate in an educational tour of Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Climax of the tour will be the announcement of the 1973 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three national runnersup. The national winners will be selected on the basis of personal observation and interviews during the tour, plus state-level judging results.

John Stahl of Rolling Meadows has the honor of being one of the first male Betty Crocker Homemakers with this being the first year boys were eligible to participate.

John credits his achievement to a home economics course, Bachelor Survival. The men are taught laundry techniques, basic cooking, nutritional guidelines and how to iron and sew on buttons.

"I don't plan on getting married soon and these are things you have to know," said John. He plans to attend Northwestern University and study medicine.

Imaginative buffet or lunch dish

Food names in the British Isles leave plenty of room for one's imagination. For example, bubble and squeak, pigs' trotters or Toad-in-the-Hole. The latter makes a good breakfast or buffet dish since it is sausages baked in egg batter.

TOAD-IN-THE-HOLE (SAUSAGES BAKED IN BATTER)

1 cup all-purpose flour
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper
1 pound small, fresh pork sausages
To make the batter in a blender, combine the flour, eggs, milk, salt and a few grindings of pepper in the blender jar, and blend at high speed for 2 or 3 seconds. Turn off the machine, scrape down the sides of the jar, and blend again for 40 seconds. (To make the batter by hand, beat the eggs and salt with a whisk or a rotary or electric beater until frothy. Slowly add the flour, beating constantly. Then pour in milk in a thin stream and beat until the mixture is smooth and creamy.) Refrigerate batter for at least 1 hour. Preheat the oven to 400-degrees. Place sausages side by side in a heavy 10-to-12-inch skillet and place them once or twice with a fork. Sprinkle them with 2 tablespoons of water, cover the pan tightly, and cook over low heat for 3 minutes. Then remove the cover, increase the heat to moderate and continue to cook, turning the sausages frequently with tongs or a spatula, until water has completely evaporated and sausages have begun to brown in their own fat. Arrange sausages in a single layer in a baking tin or dish about 8x10 inches and 2 inches deep and moisten them with 2 tablespoons of their drippings. Keep them at least an inch apart. Then pour batter over them and bake in the middle of the oven for 30 minutes, or until the pudding has risen over the top of the pan and is crisp and brown. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

From Clare Boothe Luce

A clarion call for women's equality

(Editor's Note: Journalist, playwright, author, politician, diplomat, congresswoman, mother. Clare Boothe Luce has been all these things in a remarkable career that has made her one of America's best known women. Add to the list, champion of Women's Liberation. In fact she was a feminist and fighter for sex equality long before the term "Women's Lib" was heard. Here, she states woman's case as only she could. The article is an excerpt from The Encyclopaedia Britannica 1973 Yearbook, distributed by UPI by special permission of the publishers.)

by CLARE BOOTHE LUCE
Written for the Encyclopaedia
Britannica

After a lifetime of casting about in the depths of female psychology, Sigmund Freud made this anguished entry in his diary: "What do women want; my God what DO they want?"

The feminist answer is: "By God, they want Freedom!" They want to be free, as men are free, to fulfill their own potentials and to seek their own identities. They want political, economic and social equality with men. And this equality, the feminists contend, is being denied them by overt and covert masculine coercion.

The feminists would seem to have their work cut out. Male supremacy is the most obvious and massive fact of our society.

All our social institutions that exercise power, generate wealth, create the law, from the minds and guide the actions and opinions of society are male dominated.

IN ALL OUR great institutions, whether public or private, there are not a hundred women who occupy high policy-making positions. The sporadic appearance of women is so-called top-level appointive political jobs is still largely female tokenism.

Of America's 80 million adult women, only 30 million are gainfully employed. Although women 20 and over now account for one-third of the labor force, the vast majority are working in menial, sex-typed, or dead-end jobs. Women are the "domestics" of the Male Establishment.

The only institution in which women appear in equal numbers with men is our institution of monogamous marriage (80 per cent of all adult women are or have been married). Legally, marriage is the most male-dominated institution of all. It is the only institution in which women are expected to work without receiving any stipulated wages and with no fixed working hours.

It's a man's world, no two ways about it.

THE SECOND obvious fact about our society is that, married or unmarried, this is the way most women seem to like it. The married, however, like it better. Given a pollster's choice between the unpaid and increasingly insecure job of "married woman" and any of the other jobs that the Male Establishment offers, women opt overwhelmingly for the job of homemaker. Hands down they prefer the gratifications of motherhood, the privileges of wifehood and the status conferred by society on the title Mrs. to the condition of the unmarried woman working in a man's world.

The temptation is to leave the feminist question right there. It's a free society, and its female citizens have the right to pursue life, liberty and happiness in any way they choose.

If they prefer the feminine gratifications and privileges of marriage to the rights enjoyed by men, if they don't feel themselves to be an oppressed class, well, whose business is it but theirs?

Nevertheless, the widespread indifference of women to their own unequal status in a so-called free society calls for some rational explanation.

WHY, WOMEN'S Liberationists ask, if woman was indeed born to be submissive, did man find it necessary to use brute force to put — and keep — her down?

A very good question, really. Freud in his struggle to answer it came up with a melancholy solution: Woman is, by nature, masochistic; man is, by nature, sadistic. She enjoys physical suffering; he enjoys inflicting it. Altogether, a dim view of both natures. After centuries of physical violence, man finally hit upon the use of the carrot, as well as the stick, as the way to reconcile woman to her condition of servitude. He denied her all her rights but gave her certain privileges. Using the techniques that today are known as Pavlovianism and brainwashing, he finally domesticated her.

What man now calls woman's natural feminine mentality is the unnatural slave mentality he forced on her, just as he forced it on the blacks.

In the end, man dropped the shackles from woman's body only because he had succeeded in fastening them on her mind.

BUT HE IS STILL taking no chances. Uppity wives are divorced and replaced by more submissive — and usually younger — ones. Uppity female employees, who insist on equal wages for equal work or who organize to protect discrimination, are eased out or fired. Only submissive employees are permitted to survive in the male chauvinist world. Pretty employees who are willing to submit to the casting couch (which, according to Women's Liberationists, is now standard office equipment) are given small privileges, small pay raises and sometimes small promotions. Uppity professional women are ridiculed.

Today, woman's traditional housewife's and child-rearing roles are in a rapid state of occupational decline.

Jeanne Binstock, a sociologist at the University of Massachusetts, points out that "mother care," which was once an 18-hour-a-day chore, has now been reduced to a four-hour service.

Diaper services, convenience foods, wash-and-wear clothing, new children's medicines have saved Mom hours of child care and concern. An amazing battery of automated household equipment and precooked or convenience foods has reduced the housewife's role to a point where more than half of what she does today is gratuitous make-work. The married woman has long since ceased to be a producer of goods. She has become, par excellence, a consumer.

With a life expectancy of 73½ years, a 20-year-old woman with two children can count on about 20 years free from necessary child care and housework.

THE QUESTION that the Male Establishment must now answer is: What does man now expect women to do with this free time that his technology has given her, and what status is he willing to confer on her for doing whatever it is that he thinks she should be doing?

Man has insisted on making all the crucial decisions for woman. He is now faced with making the most crucial decision he has ever been asked to make about her — and himself. Her future happiness, and his, and the welfare of society depend on his answer. How does he see the "role of woman" in today's world, which is NOT yesterday's world?

Man is leaving woman emotionally, physically and economically underemployed. The result of this cruel and appallingly stupid failure in man's relations with woman is that women are having what psychologists call identity crisis all over the lot. They don't know who they are or what they are. They don't know what they are good for anymore. They don't know where they are really needed, or what society expects of them now. They don't know how to behave.

And they are in the process of making a painful discovery: the only world that ever was really "woman's world" (the world where she was dominant) was the nursery. The nursery was the only place where she was ever really needed — where she was (when the cradle was full) irreplaceable. The only place where SHE was superior and was looked up to, not looked down on.

THE AWARENESS, conscious or unconscious of women that their traditionally full-time roles of wife and mother are in a state of decline, and that no other roles are open to them that promise them the same gratifications, is the root of most of the restlessness, discontent and psychological hang-ups they are experiencing. They are literally being driven crazy, not because they don't know what to do with their "free time" but because they think that men don't really give a hoot WHAT they do with it, providing what they do doesn't cost men too much money or otherwise inconvenience or distract them.

The time has come when men must care — if not for woman's sake — for man's.

When women, especially working women, begin to recover from the shock of realizing that the Women's Liberationists are right after all, and that men do view them as primarily sex objects, they will make the old suffragettes look like Girl Scouts on a picnic.

No woman wants to be a WIFS

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — An alarming number of women each year are becoming WIFS. "Widows in Financial Straits," explained W. Scane Bowler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp.

"As if it were not enough to have lost a husband and have to face up to the solitary emptiness of widowhood, now come the tortures of becoming enmeshed in the tangled web of their late spouses' financial affairs," he added.

Bowler knows his subject, for the national financial services organization he heads up has as its principal subsidiaries Western Reserve Life Assurance Company and the Boston-based management company for the Pioneer group of mutual funds.

How can a wife prepare herself so that this does not happen to her? What is needed?

"A SURVIVOR'S kit — a basic set of dos and don'ts for the many women who may someday have to join the ranks of widows but certainly don't want to join the WIFS," Bowler advised.

Early Learning Centers taking fall enrollment

The six Early Learning Centers in the northwest suburbs are now accepting enrollments for both nursery school and full-day programs for the 1973-74 school year.

The centers are located in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg. Their programs are designed for 3, 4 and 5-year-olds and include day care as well as pre-school learning. Children who will be 3 by Dec. 1 are eligible to enroll.

Arvid Olson, schools administrator, explained that the purpose of Early Learning Centers is to provide an environment where children may grow and develop at their own speed. They are guided toward an open and creative attitude toward learning and problem solving, he said, and each child is made to feel his own worth and importance as an individual.

Information about the centers and their programs may be obtained by calling 258-7335.

The centers are licensed by the state of Illinois and are supervised by the Department of Child and Family Services.

The kit may look something like this:

It is mandatory that you know if your husband has an up-to-date will. And make certain you know where it is. Not being able to lay your hands on it can really foul up things.

Own a duplicate key to your husband's safe-deposit box if he has one. Know its contents and, better still, get photostats of the contents. Keep lists of all insurance policies, deeds, mutual fund shares, stocks and income tax returns.

Take an active interest in your husband's business. If there are portions you don't understand inquire about them.

Know who your spouse's professional advisers are — lawyers, accountants, insurance agents, etc.

GET TO KNOW your husband's trusted business associates and the people he looks to for guidance.

Read everything you sign. Naivete has caused many a woman to become a WIFS.

Know the person or bank your husband has chosen as executor and trustee to carry out his will. Discuss these choices with him. They should be people who know and understand you and your life style.

Be well aware of your husband's financial liabilities. Don't let yourself in for the traumatic experience of finding out he is heavily in debt — something you never suspected.

Have a reasonable amount of ready cash quickly available to meet immediate needs. A joint savings and/or checking account can certainly help avoid embarrassing demands.

Here's how to announce an engagement in Herald

Paddock Suburban Living department is often called by those seeking information on submitting announcements for publication. We print the following for the reader's information and help.

The announcement of an engagement is always made by the parents of the engaged girl, who may either fill out an engagement form at our office or submit their own information along with a wallet sized picture of the bride-to-be.

If a wallet sized photograph is not available, a larger one can be used.

Bring or mail picture and copy to the Herald office in Arlington Heights or Parents not using one of our forms may either write or type the information. If the announcement is submitted in hand-writing we ask that all names be printed to avoid errors. We also request that a phone number accompany the signature at the bottom of the announcement.

A glossy picture is preferable although a dull finish is acceptable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors depending on contrast and depth of color.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. Usually they will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

A reminder to brides

The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet — have the photographer make a selection and send it immediately to the Herald office. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

If wedding bells will soon be ringing in your family, we want to hear them, too. There is no charge for publishing this news.

The Consumer

by Monica Wich

Ralph Nader came to Northwestern University in Evanston this week to lend his support to the Illinois Public Interest Research Group.

PIRG is part of a vision. It's a building block in the reconstruction of a new culture which this fiercely idealistic young lawyer believes is essential.

"We have exhausted the promise of materialism," he told his student audience, who hung intently on every word. The gangly Nader with the unfashionably short hair and occasional shy smile, now over 30, still generates enthusiasm in a youth more sophisticated and more cynical than their counterparts of the mid-'60s.

"We in the United States, who comprise only six per cent of the world's population, consume over 40 per cent of its resources," he was saying to them. And the promise of materialism, having reached this zenith, is now spawning problems of global proportions — global economics, global pollution, global population, etc.

AND IN our own country, the promise of materialism has spawned "corporate crime" that is much more serious than problems that must be dealt with, and which cannot be dealt with by society as presently constituted, Nader believes.

First, "our system of ethics is not being updated to evaluate corporations or the government... Nobody talks about these things (corporate and government fraud) as robbery."

On this point, perhaps Nader is being too modest. Because of the leadership that he and other "crusaders" have offered, many people are indeed beginning to look upon the exploits of General Motors and ITT and the Committee to Re-Elect the President as criminal acts. But accountability in these echelons is still lacking, as is an effective system of penalties.

Accountability, of course, might be forced if such wrong-doing were regularly and inevitably revealed. And the best way to do that, Nader proposes, is to develop a "full-time citizen effort."

THIS IS his vision — a society in which "the most important role is not the institutional one, but the full-time citizen."

Already, he notes, citizens have been most effective in digging out information on government and commercial enterprises, particularly at the local community level. But in our society, he says, there is insufficient support for this kind of work.

"Our concept of work is becoming self-destructive." One goes to the office each day, does what is expected of him, and comes home — too tired or too intimidated by institutional connections to take an effective role in the community.

"The silent majority has resigned from democracy. The values democracy is supposed to promote must be recognized by the whole spectrum of society. But they can't be if citizens delegate — and thus abdicate — responsibility."

The core of this new citizen society, as planned by Nader, is the PIRG organizations. In Massachusetts, the PIRG challenged a utility rate hike and saved consumers some $3 million. PIRGs have also been established in New Jersey, New York and Oregon.

PIRGs THUS far have been a student thing. This, Nader explained, is because "students enjoy a peculiarly independent role. They will never again have such an opportunity for elective thinking, or be in a position to decide how to use their time."

But the obvious application for suburbia — and one which Nader indirectly touched upon — is that non-working housewives comprise a vast, untapped resource similar to the nation's student body.

Although housewives have the responsibilities of attending to families and homes, they nevertheless have large blocks of leisure time which they can structure themselves, just like students.

Indeed, leisure time is increasing for all Americans, but economists, sociologists and psychologists alike fear people are not coping well with it.

OBSERVES NADER, "Think of all the hours spent sitting glazily in front of the TV, watching 23 hours of sports or soap operas a week, or chatting endlessly on the phone."

A northwest suburban wife attested recently to this reporter that boredom is the malaise of housewives here: they invent meaningless activities to fill time.

But whether we think we have the time or not, there is a citizen job to be done. And perhaps Nader's vision would even give us self-satisfaction on the side.

Nader summons silent majority to his cause crime in the streets" — the raison d'être of Nader's chosen life-work. Just for the record, he quoted some statistics on the annual "take" of common thieves compared with that of corporate fraud, and noted the human consequences of pollution of air, water and food, as well as poisoning occurring through ingestion of other substances, like lead paint.

For instance, 25 per cent of every consumer dollar is lost to fraud, he says. And on the environmental scene, he charges that companies "refuse to put 10 per cent of their profits into pollution control, threatening to shut down and move to another community where their garbage is appreciated." Here he notes the dismay of Chicago industrial executives when their pollution is thrown back at them by the "Fox."

But just in case anyone feels that after some seven years of consumerism and environmentalism, these situations are coming into control, Nader tosses out a prospect guaranteed to permanently disturb such complacency.

"There are risks," he says, "which haven't yet matured into disasters and thus are given a very low priority of concern." In other words, the vigil can never be suspended. Especially if we are interested in avoiding catastrophes instead of trying to close the barn door after the horse is out.

AND HERE is where the new culture comes in. There are two fundamental

For A Happy Life

It's Fun in April To:

1. Cook a dish that was one of your favorites during your childhood days.
2. Fix little annoyances — windows that rattle, door knobs that are loose, hinges that squeak.
3. Blow up a dozen colorful balloons and let the youngsters have fun on a breezy day.
4. Plant bibb lettuce and other crops that favor cool weather.
5. Begin a new spruce-up campaign in the areas in which your family and household look tacky.
6. Decide which of the grocery items you just purchased you could really have done without.
7. Invite a neighbor who is working in her yard over for a cup of tea.
8. Note this definition by Ambrose Bierce and see if you agree: "A bore is a man who talks when you wish him to listen."

Fremd graduates wed Feb. 25

Fremd High School graduates Kathleen Kelley and Arthur Miller were married Feb. 25 in a double ring, candlelight service held at 3:30 in St. Theresa Catholic Church, Palatine.

Kathleen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kelley Jr., 306 S. Elm Road, Barrington, and Arthur is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller, 17 S. Elm St., Palatine.

Maid of honor was Pamela Vana, a college roommate of the bride from Carpentersville. Bridesmaids were Karen Kelley and Ginger Miller, sisters of the bride, and Nancy Hall, Palatine. Kim Miller, Cary, 5-year-old niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Daniel Dalton, Buffalo Grove, was best man and ushers were the couple's brothers, Ted Kelley and Ken Miller, and Bernard Dalton, Palatine.

Among the 200 guests at the reception at Villa Olivia Country Club were the bride's grandmother and her great-grandmother.

The bride studied at Western Illinois University, Macomb, and the groom is a graduate of Washburn Trade School, Chicago. He is with Planned Plumbing in Barrington.

Following a two-week honeymoon in Arizona and Colorado the newlyweds are making their home in the Interlude Apartments in Hoffman Estates.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I spilled some casein glue on a polyester suit skirt and it was laundered before I realized the stain was there. And while wondering what to do about it, my son spilled some on his Dacron Boy Scout uniform and I have no idea how to proceed. Can you help?—Sonia Richardson.

If yours is a good suit, don't fool around with it on your own. Take it to the cleaner and tell him what the stain is. With your son's scout suit, you can try any of the suggested remedies sent in over the years. All these are presoaks — the laundering comes later.

One mother soaked a garment in an enzyme-active product solution overnight and a chemist rubbed in the strong concentrated laundry detergent. Both reported no stains after the laundering phase. The cleaning books just say to soak 30 minutes or longer, then work in the soap or detergent and launder.

Dear Dorothy: Following the advice of a friend, I have far less trouble shampooing my little one by changing the routine a bit. I dampen her hair before adding the shampoo and always use thick shampoo, as it is less likely to run.

We also bring in the kitchen timer — making a game of it to see if we can beat the timer. I also bought her a toy sprinkling can to rinse her hair. It's much less of a chore now and she even seems to like it. —Mrs. Harold Prince.

Dear Dorothy: Noticed the various ways readers use to sweeten raw onions and thought you would like our way. We put lemon juice on the sliced onion, stack the slices in a bowl and let the batch remain for a couple of hours. The sweetest onions are grown in Spain, followed by those grown in Washington. For those who like onions, they really are delicious. —S.O.

Pants to fit and flatter you

by JOANNE SCHREIBER

Now that pants are such a basic part of everyday fashion, we're sewing pants more than dresses. And we're having fitting problems, too, because pants simply aren't fitted in the same way as dresses.

Luckily for the spring sewing schedule, we have some expert help. Else (pronounced in the German manner with the accent on the second "e") Tyroler has written a book called "Sewing Pants For Women," and has a whole sewing basket of tricks to make us look far better in pants than nature ever intended.

"Pants only seem difficult," says Else, "because it is impossible to alter them once they are cut. If they are cut right in the first place, then they are easy."

Else points out that most commercial patterns and even most clothing manufacturers use a curved back seam which has a lot of bias to it. Else recommends a much straighter seam, with the curve at a different angle. "The back center seam is your sitting room," she explains. "It should be cut, not on the bias, but like a contour chair. Then you have both fit and comfort."

Else says that pants should fit snugly at the waistline — or just below the natural waistline for jeans. They should have two inches or less hip ease, just a half to one inch crotch ease, and about two inches ease in the thigh. For straight slacks, a flattering hem width is about equal to the calf measurement. Pants should be wrinkle-free in front. In back, they should neither ripple below the waistline, nor cup tightly beneath the seat, nor droop. They should hang straight from the fullest part of the seat.

To alter a commercial pattern for good fit, first take your own measurements, compare them with corresponding pattern piece measurements, including ease allowance, and alter the pattern to reflect your figure. These are the critical measurements: waist, hip, knee, calf; side length waist to knee and waist to heel. Take crotch length by sitting on a hard chair, and measuring from the waist to the chair seat along the side seam.

Remember that you can add as much as two inches to a hip or waist measure just by adding a quarter inch on each of the four side seams on the pattern.

It's the back raise that makes the final difference in good back fit. If there is extra fullness at the center back seam and tapering to the side seam. Increase the back rise, and give yourself more room in the seat, by expanding the back seam.

Pants should be cut just slightly shorter in front, to touch the top of the shoe. In back, they should touch the top of the shoe's heel.

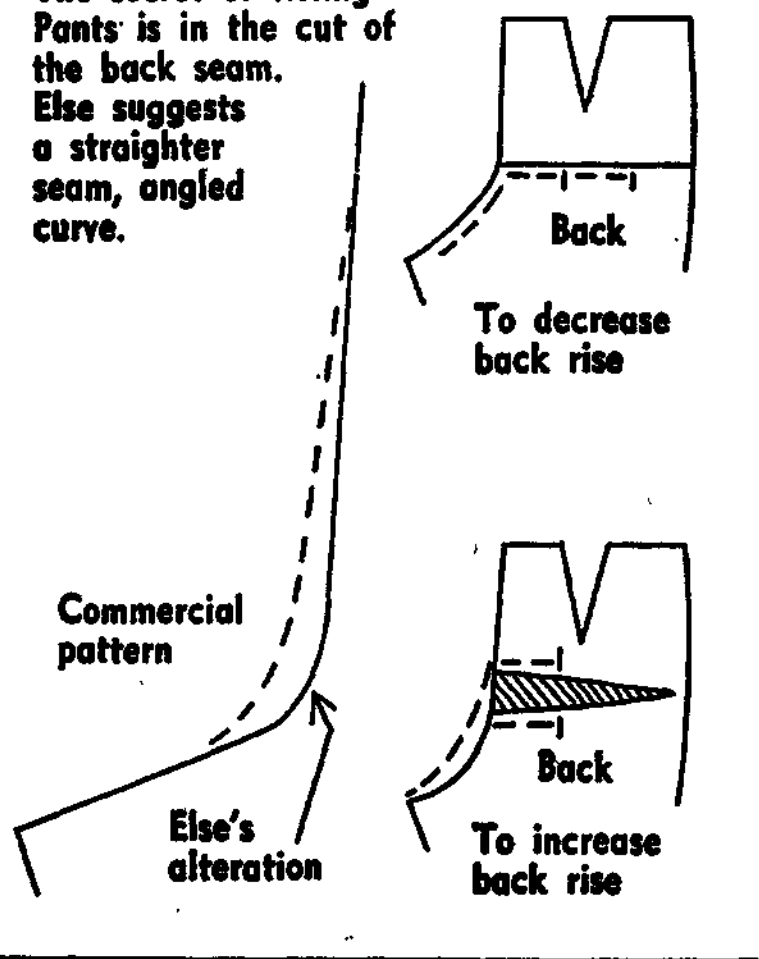

Else was born in Nuremberg, Germany, "practically with a needle in my mouth." She had years of European training before marrying an American and moving to California in 1960. Now, she conducts classes in fitting and construction, writes books, and helps women everywhere look fashionable in pants.

"If pants are cut right and are neat," says Else, "they should be part of every woman's wardrobe, no matter what her figure may be."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The secret of fitting Pants is in the cut of the back seam. Else suggests a straighter seam, angled curve.

SNUG AT THE WAIST, smooth in the hem — this is how your pants can look if you follow Else's sewing tips.

Waste water

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many average homeowners may be needlessly wasting a large amount of water every day, according to the American Water Works Association.

Water waste, says the association, is caused by not turning off faucets fully, or by small leaks in faulty valves and faucets. A pinhole opening 1/32nd inch in diameter will cause 170 gallons of water to be wasted in 24 hours with a water pressure of 40 pounds. A 1/16th inch leak in a home can mean a great amount of water being lost.

The Water Association is a nonprofit, scientific and educational organization that speaks for the 30,000 community water suppliers in North America who provide daily water to 200 million persons.

Planned Parenthood to hear actor Heston

Actor Charlton Heston will be guest speaker at the 28th annual meeting of Chicago area Planned Parenthood Association next Wednesday at the Palmer House.

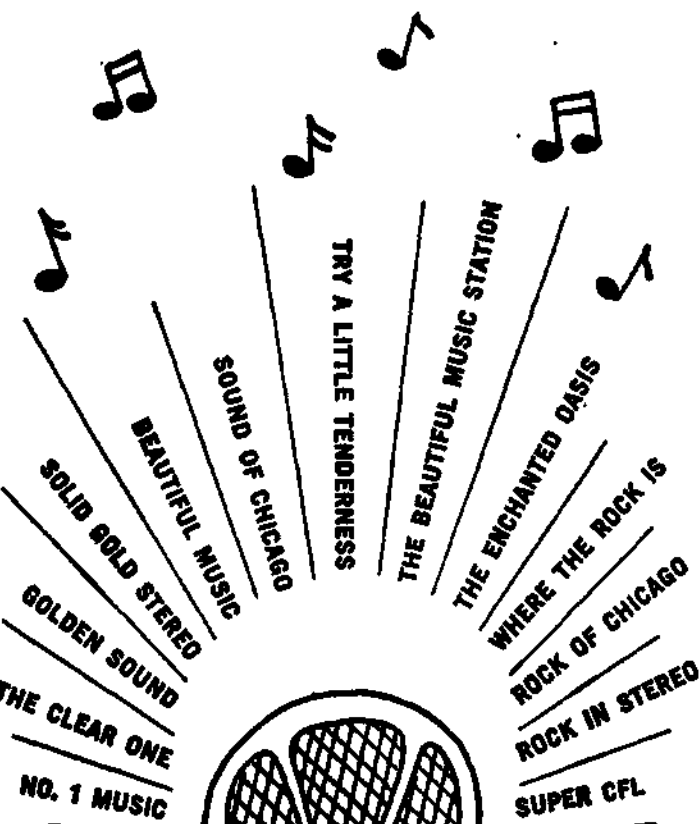

Persons interested in attending may call Karen Gerrard, 726-5134, for reservations. Cost is $10 per person.

About kissing

CHICAGO (UPI) — Question in an issue of Today's Health, publication of the American Medical Association, went like this: "I recently heard that every time one is kissed it takes three minutes off his life. Could there be anything to this tale?"

Answer: "This is an old wives' tale probably coming from the folk medicine of a puritanical past. With reasonable precautions against contact with a person having a communicable disease, there should be no harm to health from kissing. In fact, kissing as a method of showing affection under appropriate circumstances might even help improve mental health and add to, rather than decrease, life expectancy."

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Did you hear that Mrs. George Wallace, the governor's wife, is planting a garden this year to beat the high cost of food?

Who can afford not to grow their own this year?

So here are more goodies from the catalogs to give you a pre-season head-start: Many of the seed companies offer special collections, and if you're not too fussy, you can get enough variety to keep you in vegetables all year long — especially if you can, freeze, pickle, dry or preserve.

Henry Field's Seed Co. (Shenandoah, Iowa 51601) offers a selection of sweet corn, beans, peas, beets, lettuce, carrot, radish, muskmelon, tomato, spinach, cucumber and watermelon, for $1.95. You can hardly get a place at the checker's counter for that.

FIELD'S also has gooseberries, currants, elderberries, boysenberries and black and red raspberries.

The Burpee catalog (Philadelphia, Pa.) suggests different shapes and sizes of carrots to suit your purpose. Burpee's Oxheart and Short 'n Sweet (squat carrots) are especially suited for shallow or heavy soil. Nantes Half Long is a popular freezing carrot for people who like to "squirrel" it away. Little Fingers are young baby carrots; Royal Chantenay has good holding qualities; Gold Pak is good for canning.

Burpee also has loose-leaved red top lettuce, my favorite, by the name of "Ruby."

When I received the Stokes catalog, I thought I'd need a quick course at Berlitz, because it was written in French. (Stokes' main office is in St. Catherine's, Ontario.) Luckily, they sent out the English translation too. Stokes — write to them at Box 548, Buffalo, N.Y. 14240 — has a lovely catalog, drooling-good color reproductions and lots of helpful hints. And besides that they sell sauerkraut cabbage (Ballhead), also short-stemmed cabbage (Houston Evergreen) for much land planting.

CUCUMBER LEMON, foot-long cucumbers, horseradish and even a snath are available from DeGiorgi Co., Council Bluffs, Iowa 51501.

George Ball Nursery, West Chicago, carries "Gro-Silks," a wooden stake with pre-planted seed and fertilizer. Just jab it in the ground.

Wild flowers, ferns, bog plants, native woodland orchids are available from Gardens of the Blue Ridge, Ashford, McDowell County, N.C. 28603.

The House Plant Corner, Box 810, Oxford, Md., 21654, has a mite spotlight (to see the bugs up close when they attack), peat pellets (I really enjoy watching them balloon), earthworm casting soil and many other offbeat items.

Olds Seed Co., 722 Williams St., Madison, Wis., has numerous varieties of corn including popcorn, rainbow corn and even a corn cutter.

Expected to be ready by 1976

200-bed hospital planned for construction in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the expertise to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area."

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president.

The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

Hospital won't help much: chiefs

Yesterday's announcement of a proposed hospital in Glenview brought surprising comments from fire officials in both Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. In both cases they said they don't think the new facility will make much difference in their emergency operations.

"This is the first I've heard about it. I don't think it will affect us in any way at all," said Fire Chief Bernie Koepfen.

The Wheeling Fire Department currently relies on Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for a majority of its emergency runs. Chief Koepfen added, however, that the new hospital is needed in the area.

"We find we so often get notification from the hospitals that they're full and there are no more beds available. And it's only going to get worse," he explained.

KOEPFEN also said his department would look into the facilities the hospital will offer, adding he had no comment on whether his department would look to using the hospital for regular runs.

In Buffalo Grove, fire department Lt.

Robert Krause gave that department an even slimmer chance of using the facilities for emergency calls. "Our system (paramedic) is hooked into Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. I can't see any reason why we'd switch at this time," said Krause.

He added that it is really too early to tell if a switch would be made and said Fire Chief Wayne Winter, who was out of town on business yesterday, could be able to comment better on the situation.

Also commenting on the new facility yesterday was Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong. He said, "I'm glad to see that there's a new hospital closer to Buffalo Grove. Northwest Community and the other area hospitals are a little inconvenient for the village."

In Wheeling, Village Mgr. George Passolt said, "I'm sure we'd like to have one (hospital) in the village." However, he said the Glenview-Evanston facility will benefit the village. "The more hospitals we have in the area the better," Passolt explained.

staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but, he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists, Evanston Hospital officials said, and, therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

The possibility also exists, officials said, Evanston Hospital would build other satellite hospitals in the suburbs as the needs grow.

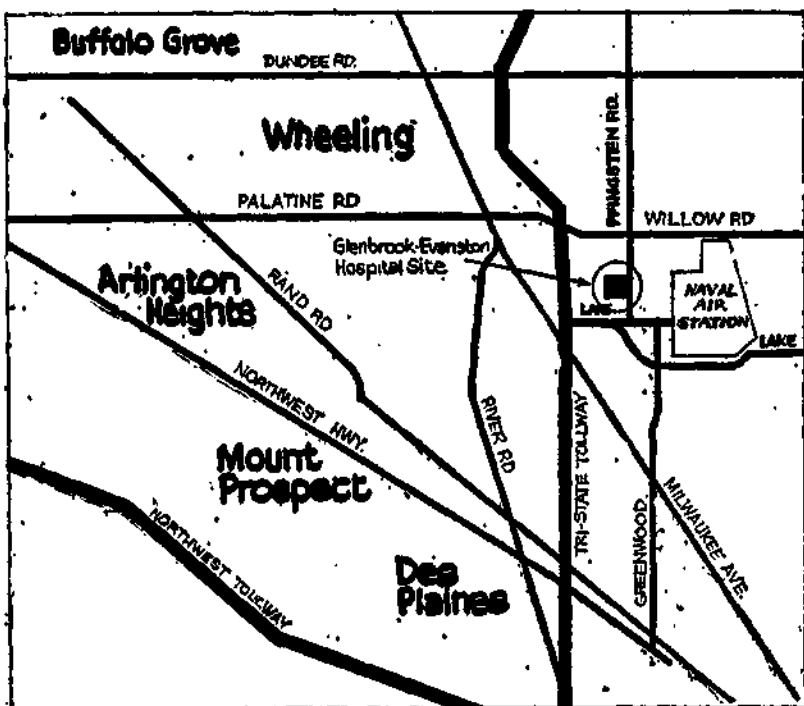

The new hospital plans are part of an overall program by Evanston Hospital to provide better services for its patients.

Also announced yesterday were plans for a $28 million expansion of the Evanston facility, including a five-story addition to the present structure. The program is expected to be completed by 1978.

Evanston Hospital is a 510-bed facility which served nearly 20,000 persons last year. It is designated as a Trauma Center in the Illinois Regional program. The hospital is also noted for its expertise in the care and treatment of newborn infants.

'73-'74 teacher contract final OK slated

by JILL BETTNER

The proposed School Dist. 21 1973-74 teacher contract today goes to the Wheeling Faculty Council executive committee for final approval.

The school board will probably review the contract next Thursday at its regularly scheduled meeting, according to Dist. 21 Assistant Supt. John Barger.

Barger said yesterday the two negotiating teams representing the WFC and the Dist. 21 school board reached tentative agreement on the contract Monday during their fifth bargaining session. The meetings, which began in January, have been closed to the public. Last year's sessions were open.

ALTHOUGH HE would not discuss the contents of the contract package, Barger did disclose that it is a multi-year agreement.

"I don't anticipate any problems in getting the contract approved by the WFC or the school board," Barger said. "I think it's fair to both parties."

Margo Richter, chairman of the WFC negotiating team, did not comment on the agreement.

Barger said this is the first year the bargaining teams have negotiated a multi-year contract as comprehensive as the proposed 1973-74 agreement. He said in the past, the teams negotiated only on annual teacher salary.

Other items included in this year's bargaining are:

- The 1973-74 school calendar.
- Extra duty salary for teachers.
- Basic salary for teachers.
- Insurance coverage for teachers.
- Contract duration.

School officials are starting work now

New zoning petition OKd for senior citizen housing

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The Des Plaines Zoning Board of Appeals granted an amended petition for senior citizen housing zoning at Ashland Avenue and Lee Street Tuesday.

The unanimous decision, after an hour-long public hearing in city hall, approved Cook County Housing Authority's request for rezoning from R-2 single-family to R-5 multiple-family.

The board voted to require a minimum of 50 parking spaces on the 1.2-acre site. CCHA plans showed 43 spaces for the 129-unit building.

Approval, subject to review by the city council, was granted after amending the zoning to a special housing use for senior citizens only. The board feared that land use, parking and floor space density variations, required by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, would set a legal precedent allowing other private developers to seek similar easements.

"Would you say that this meeting tonight was a formality?" board chairman Fred K. Howe asked. "We're happy to have the opportunity to present this plan," Victor Walchirk, CCHA director, said.

CCHA GENERAL counsel Von A. Carlisle told the board and about 20 residents that a 1970 contract with the Des Plaines city council for construction and management of the building calls for "municipal cooperation in such ways as necessary for development" and granting of "reasonable and necessary zoning variations."

Board members questioned proposed parking because building codes here would require at least one space per unit. "Our experience in five similar Cook County projects found that a 33 per cent ratio is more than adequate," Walchirk said. "In Skokie, if there are 35 permanent autos in the lot, it would be a lot. These ratios are pretty much prescribed by the federal government" which will fund the $2.5 million project.

CCHA officials revealed, for the first time, details of interior construction plans. Walchirk predicted bidding by June and completion in summer 1974.

ONE-BEDROOM apartments will be either 474 or 447 square feet with at least three closets and a dinette area. The floor area ratio will be 1.69, although the city code requires 2.5.

"These units are specifically designed for the elderly," architect James Lowenberg of Chicago said. Bathrooms will include safety railings; doorway widths will allow wheelchair use; doorways will swing out, instead of in; one of the building's two elevators will be "a modified hospital type."

Plans include two outdoor patios, a library, a crafts room and a lounge area. No cafeteria or main dining area is planned.

An estimated 400 Des Plaines residents have applied for apartments in the building. The city originally requested a 250-unit project, but HUD approved funding for 125.

AGE, INCOME AND assets will be three criteria for residency, Walchirk said. Financial ceilings recently have changed to allow persons or couples 62 years or older with incomes of $4,900 a year (single persons) or $5,300 (couples).

Fixed assets limit will be $15,000, he said.

The city council has approved a resolution giving local residents occupancy preference. Estimated rent will be $50 a month.

The board decided three other cases after public hearings:

- Granted rezoning from R-2 single-family to M-1 manufacturing at 1297 Redeker Rd. The property was automatically classified residential when annexed Feb. 5. The property, owned by Des Plaines Investment Co. was zoned for manufacturing by Cook County. Ald. Charles Bolek's (3rd) Jeco Industries rents the building.

- Denied a front yard variation from 25 to 15 feet at 831-835-849-851 Pearson Street and 1482 Thacker St. The area is zoned multi-family and owned by Westbank Corp. The petition was denied because of planned street widening for downtown superblock construction.

- Granted R-4 zoning with no increase in density at 905 W. Dempster, land that both Des Plaines and Mount Prospect have annexed. Kenroy Inc. of Skokie proposed a 190-unit apartment complex on the alleged 8.89-acre site. Zoning board members said the site is only 8.349 acres in denying the density hike. Des Plaines zoning with a special 20 per cent bonus, would allow only 165 units on an 8.89-acre area.

DES PLAINE'S proposed senior citizen housing project has received zoning approval from the city's zoning board of appeals. The Cook County Housing Authority showed a nine-story, 129-unit architect's drawing of the proposed project at Ashland Avenue and Lee Street at Tuesday's public hearing. The zoning decision will be reviewed by the city council.

Charges fire violations, payroll padding

Kosmen rips into Mayor Behrel, Wolf

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Mayoral candidates Herbert Behrel and David Wolf became allies Tuesday night under the onslaught of verbiage delivered by their opponent Burton Kosmen.

Kosmen, an outspoken critic of the present city administration, concentrated most of his faultfinding on Behrel during the candidates' night sponsored by Plainfield School PTA, 1850 Plainfield.

"You and I are being cheated — safety wise and financially wise," Kosmen told the audience of 75.

He intimated fire violations are overlooked in businesses and buildings either because the owners and businessmen are "cronies of the present administration" or "involved in the redevelopment Tomorrow Corp."

Kosmen also contended "payroll padding extends to public employees of the city who are working on private property installing sewer lines." Without naming names he charged a high-ranking police official is "playing errand boy in the local circuit court."

Behrel, the city's four-term incumbent, sat silently through the barrage, his face reddened in anger.

"I'VE LEARNED a lot tonight. I've already found out I'm a cheat and a thief. I didn't like that very much. I can only conclude that the man is uninformed," he said tersely.

Kosmen shot back accusations linking city government officials, two newspapers and businessmen ("80 per cent live outside the city") with downtown redevelopment.

"Let me make one thing eminently clear," said Behrel, "There is no connection between the redevelopment Tomorrow Corp. and the City of Des Plaines."

Wolf sat solemnly, hands folded on the table, during the exchange of abuses. He joined with the mayor in shaking his head when Kosmen brought the name

"Wolf" into the conversation.

Wolf did nothing when he could have saved the old North School, Kosmen said. Wolf knows about things but doesn't act, he added after pointing out that he and Wolf had played basketball together as boys.

When offered an opportunity for rebuttal, Wolf chose to ignore the comments. Eventually, Behrel, too, dropped any reference to Kosmen, choosing to exchange whispered asides with Wolf.

A NUMBER of minor skirmishes marked the evening as candidates for city treasurer and 5th Ward alderman debated.

Incumbent Irving Rateike talked non-stop during his allotted five-minutes, defending the heavy workload carried by the city treasurer. His part-time post will become full-time May 1. He expected an attack from challenger Thomas Mahon — and he got it.

Mahon slowly spelled out how duties of the treasurer could be eliminated, returning it to a part-time position. As in other public appearances, he promised to accept only $6,000 pay if elected and pointed to elected treasurers' salaries in nearby communities of $3,500, $1,200, $900 and $600.

After pledging other changes, Mahon left the audience with "Let's keep the treasurer's job in perspective."

Two of the three 5th Ward aldermanic candidates began their portion of the debate politely and surprised the audience with occasional jabs.

Patrick O'Donnell, 2275 Webster Ln., sent a telegram saying he was unable to attend due to business reasons.

Irene Birchfield and Rafael Del Campo told how they would represent their ward to the best of their abilities.

Mrs. Birchfield, 2045 Spruce, said she had consulted with Ald. Arthur Erbach (5th) on several issues, including sending out a joint newsletter to keep ward residents involved and informed. She said she had been endorsed by Ald. Lois Czabakowski (5th), who is not seeking reelection, Erbach and City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach.

Del Campo, 2149 Westview Dr., departed from an explanation of his platform to reply to Mrs. Birchfield's statements. He hit her endorsements, saying in his 13-years of living in the ward he had never seen Mrs. Czabakowski and was running to give the 5th ward active representation.

"We need two votes from the 5th Ward — not one vote," said Del Campo, referring to a possible Birchfield-Erbach coalition.

Mrs. Birchfield retorted, "I don't agree with Ald. Erbach about everything."

She spoke of the fear residents lived in, of locked doors and big dogs. Del Campo replied he didn't feel residents of the 5th Ward lived in fear at all.

Township fight to go on, vows losing candidate

Despite her overwhelming defeat in the Elk Grove Township election, Julie Sass, independent auditor candidate, will continue to work for the abolition of township government.

Mrs. Sass said she plans to form an "educational group" that would explain to residents the benefits of eliminating the township. A petition then would be circulated calling for the abolition of the township to be put to a referendum.

The four independents, all of whom were defeated, had campaigned on a platform calling for the abolition of the township.

PAUL RETTBERG, another independent auditor candidate, also saw some victory amid the over-all defeat.

"Where we concentrated our work and where we had people out, we won," he said.

The Republicans charged throughout the election the independents were "fronts" for the Democratic party. Mrs. Sass said many people believed the charge, but said she was not seriously disappointed by losing.

"Being a Democrat in Elk Grove Township means not saying you're sorry when you lose by two to one," she said.

Richard Hall, elected supervisor on the Republican slate in an unopposed race, said, "The results were pretty much what we had planned and expected."

IN THE election, only the four auditor seats and the township highway commissioner post were contested. The Republicans ran incumbent Bernard Lee, Wayne Huft, Walter Bartley and Larry Hintze for auditors and incumbent Alfred Steil for highway commissioner.

THREE INDEPENDENT candidates, Rettberg, Steve Maddock and Mrs. Sass, ran for auditor. Larry Pahl ran for highway commissioner.

The Republicans ran a full slate of candidates and were unopposed for the supervisor, clerk, assessor and collector posts.

Rettberg said the independents concentrated their efforts within Elk Grove Village. Within the 17 village precincts, he election 73 4th Ward council candidates

Robert Hinde: 'Des Plaines River must be improved'

Ald. Robert Hinde is assured of retaining his seat on the city council. The 4th Ward alderman is running unopposed for a two-year term.

Redistricting of the city's wards has brought two new precincts into the fourth and Hinde is spending much of his campaign time getting acquainted with these voters.

Hinde resigned from the council 2½ years ago because of "increased business commitments." A year later Mayor Herbert Behrel appointed him to fill the 4th Ward vacancy left by the death of Ald. Morgan O'Brien.

Claiming more than 15 years of civic involvement, Hinde said, "If I have made a reputation it's been in answering phone calls. I get three to five calls a day from all over the city and I always get back to the people with some kind of answer. I'm involved with city council matters about three evenings a week plus two hours a day I'm able to follow through on people's problems because I have my business here. I work between customers."

HINDE, 381 Oxford Rd., feels one of his most important accomplishments as alderman was bringing about the improvements on Weller Creek. By going door-to-door, he convinced more than 60 residents to sell easements along the creek bed to the city for $1. Since the city has made the improvements the serious flooding problems in the area have been eliminated.

Ald. Robert Hinde

This is the third in a series of candidate interviews for the Des Plaines city elections. Today's stories feature the three candidates seeking election in the 4th Ward. Interviews with the 5th and 7th Ward candidates will appear tomorrow.

Stories by Dorothy Oliver

"I'm flood conscious," said Hinde. "I've been speaking to the mayor and the other aldermen, saying that as we are improving the creeks in town we should be improving the bucket we're dumping them into — the Des Plaines River. Soon we're going to have a big problem unless the river is improved."

He said retention basins are a must but should be built away from homes so residents aren't faced with an odor problem when sewer water is pumped out of them. A miniature tunnel system would be an alternative flood control program but it depends on the amount of money it would cost, he said.

We are getting "locked in on flooding," he said and the proposed Metropolitan Sanitary District sewerage treatment plant may help the situation. Hinde wants to discuss the pros and cons of the MSD plant with residents — especially those in his two new precincts which were formerly in the 8th Ward.

HINDE also is concerned with traffic safety and is working to lower residential street speed limits from 30 m.p.h. to 25. He is also helping to create a 16-mile bicycle path in the city.

In his 7½ years on the council, Hinde has succeeded in persuading the city to purchase its own equipment and hire men to do tree-trimming. "I hope to see us do it all eventually. It will be more economical," he said.

Hinde is a partner in Town and Country Carpeting Inc., located in Des Plaines since 1949. He has been a resident of the city for 22 years.

On other issues:

CITY GOVERNMENT: "Right now I favor a full-time mayor. When the engine is running well it is not the time to tinker with the carburetor. It would be practical to have an in-depth study made on this rather than the political hassle we went through a few months ago. The study should be made by a commission appointed by the council instead of our having to spend $100,000 for it. I think we'd be better off with eight full-time aldermen, but the cost of this system would have to be weighed against the money the city would save."

Daniel Kisslinger: ready to 'blossom'

Ald. Daniel Kisslinger said he is now ready "to blossom into a full-fledged alderman." The 4th Ward incumbent was appointed to his post 1½ years ago when Ald. Robert Hinde resigned from the council.

"It does take time to catch on to what city government is all about," said Kisslinger, 131 E. Fremont St.

Kisslinger, 46, said he suffers from an identity problem. "I've never been elected; many people don't know me. But I feel I've been accessible to the voters. My home and business phone numbers are listed in the city directory and I have no objection to people calling me at work."

The incumbent, a mechanical engineer and vice president of specifications for Hattis Associates Inc., an architectural engineering firm, said his technical background fits well into city government.

"I attend every committee meeting pertinent to the proposed city hall. I saved the city between $30,000 to $50,000 with the stroke of the pen by suggesting to the committee that they eliminate a decorative frill that had no function," he said.

KISSLINGER said he also has voiced

working on changes in the building code that relate to construction, and is in the process of getting all utility service lines hidden from sight.

With the redistricting of two 8th Ward precincts into the 4th, flooding has become a major ward problem, said Kisslinger. "The people from those new precincts are demanding immediate solutions, but unfortunately there aren't any," he said.

Flooding is related to the proposed Metropolitan Sanitary District sewage treatment plant, he said. "Right now too much storm water is going through MSD lines. We have to separate the combined lines that are prevalent in the older parts of town. It would be lovely if the MSD plant would just move away. But we've been fighting this thing five or six years and I think we should stop fighting it by the end of this year. If we don't get some sort of a MSD plant in the area soon the flooding will be so bad the people who are against it will be in sewer water up to here."

KISSLINGER'S ward is plagued with traffic tieups due to railroad crossings and trains "Thacker Street is hit hard. Trains sit there 15 minutes, an hour, two (Continued on page 6)"

Students' achievement tests scores 'on the decline'

by FRED GACA

Achievement test scores of Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 students have been dropping since 1968, according to Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent of curriculum.

Stevenson presented the five-year test record of the sixth and seventh grade students to the school board Monday. He said the drop "was not drastic, but indicates things can be better."

Although only sixth and seventh grade

Kidnap suspect to get defender

A public defender will be appointed to represent Roy Stover, 24, charged with kidnapping and sexually assaulting a 16-year-old girl after the armed robbery of a Des Plaines grocery store, March 20.

Stover, 702 Haven St., Arlington Heights, appeared yesterday in Niles Branch of Cook County Circuit Court before Judge George Zimmerman.

said Pahl took 735 votes to Steil's 612.

Under the election rules, the auditor posts were won by the four top vote-getters — the Republican candidates.

WITHIN Elk Grove Village, however, Rettberg said he and Mrs. Sass had the two highest vote totals with 841 and 725 votes respectively. Following them were Lee, 723 votes; Hintze, 702 votes; Maddock, 691 votes; Hult, 632 votes; and Bartley, 596 votes.

Rettberg said he would run again for some public office, but he has not decided what office or when he would run.

The following totals were reported after yesterday's official canvass of all 62 township precincts: supervisor, Richard Hall, 3,471 votes; clerk, George Busse, 3,330; assessor, Charles Hodlmair, 3,443; collector, Arnold Sharringhausen, 3,497;

statistics were available, Stevenson said, "There is no reason not to believe the trends exist in other grades."

The scores reported were from the "Iowa Achievement Tests" which are given annually to all Dist. 59 students in mid-school year. Scores are designed to measure a degree of proficiency in various skills such as reading comprehension, punctuation, spelling and problem solving. For example, an "average score" for a child in the third month had not been appointed for Stover, Judge Zimmerman ruled that one be appointed.

Stover is also charged with the Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store and faces charges of armed robbery and violence in a March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect.

He is scheduled to appear Tuesday with counsel in Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

of the sixth grade would be 6.3. A child in the second month of seventh grade would have an "average" score of 7.2.

ACCORDING TO Stevenson, in the five-year period from 1968 to 1973, the average overall score for sixth graders in Dist. 59 has gone from 6.8 to 6.5. The seventh graders have dropped from 7.9 to 7.6 in the same time period.

Stevenson said he has not completed the analysis of the other grades, but he said he expected the same declining trend.

Stevenson said the district has not yet determined why scores have declined. He gave the board six possible reasons for the decline and said the administration was trying to determine which reasons may be affecting test results.

THE SIX possible reasons Stevenson gave were:

- IQ scores have also declined in the district. He said IQ tests are a good predictor of achievement test results. (The IQ tests are a different test from the achievement tests).
- There has been a lack of emphasis on curriculum in the district. The last program guide for the staff was issued in the 1968-69 school year, according to Stevenson.
- Individual instructional development has been emphasized without other changes in school environment, such as a reduction in class sizes.
- Emphasis has been placed on materials and organization rather than on "the teacher providing the teaching."

- There have been changes in the educational philosophy of the district toward making school a more enjoyable experience for children, allowing them more free time. This may have resulted in a "de-emphasis on hard core scholastic" areas.
- The mechanics of test administration may need to be improved. The district's turnover rate in teachers may also disrupt the continuity of the educational program.

STEVENSON stressed that the different factors are only possible causes for the declining scores. He said the district was investigating all of them as potential problems.

The district has already begun to improve different study areas, according to Stevenson.

He said that at schools where emphasis on reading was increased and more consultant service was made available, there has been a marked improvement in reading scores.

Stevenson also gave the board a report on the district's personnel evaluation procedures. He said the evaluation was designed to "improve, not rank individuals."

Teachers are evaluated by the principal and assistant principals at each school. The central administration in turn evaluates the principals.

Declines support to Zettek and Lindahl

Richard McGreenera exits race for village president

The Elk Grove Village presidential race narrowed from three to two contenders yesterday when Richard McGreenera announced that he was withdrawing. He said new business responsibilities made it impossible for him to devote the necessary time for the office.

However, McGreenera, 46, currently serving as village clerk, declined to give his support to either incumbent Charles Zettek or Robert "Bud" Lindahl, saying his supporters should vote their consciences. "I have asked all my supporters to study, evaluate and judiciously cast their ballots for the candidates they feel will best do the job for our town," he said.

McGreenera, 670 Versailles Circle, said his philosophy for public office has always been "that if you cannot afford the time, don't ask the voters to support you." He said his workload as a technical marketing specialist for Fisher-Calo Chemical & Solvents Corp. has increased considerably because of a change in administrative duties. He said this change will mean extensive travel for one or two years.

IN A STATEMENT, McGreenera volunteered to continue to use his knowledge of zoning, planning, public works and municipal government to serve the village.

McGreenera expressed thanks to "all the individuals, groups and associations that have encouraged and supported my candidacy." He added, "They (supporters) understand my position."

McGreenera asked each candidate running for village office to place the total village at the top of his priorities and to

Richard McGreenera

Opponents uncertain of pullout effects

Neither incumbent Charles Zettek nor his opponent Robert "Bud" Lindahl could predict yesterday exactly how the withdrawal of Richard McGreenera from the Elk Grove Village presidential race would affect their chances for the office.

Lindahl, of 690 Versailles Circle, has stated in the past that he felt McGreenera's candidacy helped his chances because McGreenera and Zettek drew their strength from the same circles. Yesterday Lindahl said, "McGreenera's withdrawal might hurt me to a certain extent, but I still think I will win."

Lindahl called McGreenera "a pretty square-shooter" and said he appreciated McGreenera not taking sides in the election and telling his supporters to vote their consciences.

"I'm genuinely surprised," Zettek said in reaction to McGreenera's announcement. He said he will not be changing any campaign plans, and his only concern was reaching the voters and relating the accomplishments of the present administration.

"I don't intend to reduce my efforts one bit to reach the residents," Zettek said.

remember that each neighborhood is an integral part of the total village. He asked the candidates to put aside petty personal differences and work together for better government.

When he announced his candidacy in January, McGreenera said the administration was slowly getting away from the people it was responsible to, and should be more attentive to the residents' problems, such as flooding.

McGREENERA SERVED as a village trustee before being elected to his present office of clerk in 1971. He also has served on the village zoning board of appeals, board of health and plan commission.

With less than two weeks left before the April 17 village election, McGreenera's name will still appear on the ballot even though he has withdrawn from the race. James Gibson, former trustee candidate, also will be listed on the ballot even though he has pulled out of the race for a two-year trustee term.

Doug Skonie meets his POW

'Happiness is your own MIA bracelet'

by FRED GACA

"Happiness is wearing your own MIA bracelet." This is what Navy officer Leo Thorsness told Doug Skonie, 10, of 251 Brookhaven Dr., when the two met last week in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Thorsness was listed as MIA (missing in action) during the six years he was a prisoner in Hanoi. Doug had been wearing the bracelet with Thorsness' name since the beginning of the year.

The meeting between the two was arranged by Hugh Hill of Channel 7 Eyewitness News.

Doug saw Thorsness arriving home on Thursday's newscast. He called up Channel 7, told Hill he wore Thorsness' bracelet and wanted to know if he could send it to Thorsness.

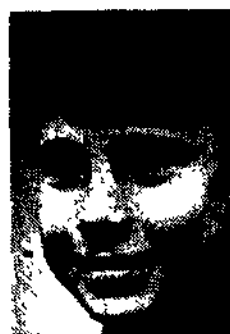

FRIDAY NIGHT, Doug's home was a popular place to be.

"The phone kept ringing and the door-knocker kept ringing," said Doug.

All Doug's friends saw him on the 6 p.m. newscast and wanted to come over to watch him again on the 10 p.m. show.

"There was so much excitement he slept until after 10 the next day," said Mrs. Skonie.

Doug's short television career earned him some kidding from his friends when he went to school Monday. Some of them called out, "hey, movie star" and one buddy asked, "Would you like me to escort you to your room?"

Another boy asked Doug for his autograph. "I gave it to him," said Doug.

DOUG SAID IT was "funny" to watch himself on television. "It looked like a mirror that could walk and I didn't sound like myself."

Doug said he had watched many of the news shows about the Vietnam War and the return of the POW's.

"I wouldn't want to go to war. I'd be afraid I'd get killed or captured or something."

Hill called back later Thursday night and said arrangements had been made for Doug to fly to Sioux Falls to present the bracelet in person. Doug and his mother, Mrs. Donald Skonie, left the next day, accompanied by Hill and a camera crew who filmed the meeting.

The meeting with Thorsness was brief — about 40 minutes and then Doug and his mother were back on the plane for Chicago.

Doug said, "He told me 1,000 to 2,000 other people had his bracelet, but mine was the only one he was accepting. I would represent all the others that had his bracelet."

BEFORE HE LEFT, Doug called his teacher at Clearmont school, Miss Joanne Abate, and told her why he would not be in school Friday. Anthony Mostardo, principal at Clearmont, made an announcement to the whole school and told everyone to watch for Doug on television.

While he was wearing Thorsness' bracelet, Doug said he would think of him often. "If I ever went to a prison camp, I would want someone to think of me."

Back action on tax breaks

Elk Grove Village trustees advocated action Tuesday on the state and local levels to combat the granting of big property tax breaks on selected pieces of land in Cook County.

The action was the result of disclosures by the Better Government Association (BGA) revealing that the tax assessment was lowered 80 per cent for 93 acres in the Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village. The tax breaks have been linked to Chicago Ald. Thomas Keane, his brother George, and other business and political figures. Until last year, George Keane headed the county board of appeals.

The trustees proposed that a bill be passed by the Illinois General Assembly requiring all tax assessment appeals to be publicized before cuts are made by the Cook County Board of Appeals.

ON THE LOCAL level, the trustees discussed changing the village procedures for annexation and rezoning to require property owners to submit documentation on tax assessments of the property being discussed.

The village trustees also told the village attorney to draw up a resolution stating their views on publicity for tax assessment cases so municipalities would be aware when parcels in their taxing districts are asking for adjustments.

Village Mgr. Charles Willis was asked to arrange a meeting with officials from school districts and neighboring municipalities and their elected state representatives to discuss legislation to change tax assessment procedures.

THE MUNICIPALITIES are losing if they are not collecting the full value of the local taxes, Village Atty. Edward Hofert said. He said the village has a definite interest in the manner in which assessments were made, and it should work with the school districts on the situation.

Hofert said the village could require property owners asking for annexation or rezoning to submit the property index number for the land and the last assessed valuation. "If the land is rezoned, the village could use the property number to make the county assessor aware of the change and request that the change be taken into consideration for assessment as soon as possible," Hofert said.

The attorney said municipalities were not always informed when properties within their limits were asking for lower tax assessments. He suggested that the towns and school districts support a simultaneous lobby in Springfield to change the tax procedures.

VILLAGE PRES. Charles Zettek said the matter deserved top priority in the village and promised action would be taken to correct the problem.

The BGA study also revealed tax assessments were lowered for 171 acres in the Centex-Schaumburg Industrial Park and for the Hyatt Regency O'Hare hotel site in Rosemont.

Officials in the U. S. Attorney's office and the Internal Revenue Service said an investigation into the BGA's charges was now under way but gave no details of their probe. The BGA also said that although Illinois law requires the board of appeals to state why assessments are cut, no reasons for the board's action could be found.

Unit school district vote seen tonight

A vote on the possible recommendation to form a unit school district is expected at tonight's meeting of the Citizens' Reorganization Study Committee.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., at Dempster Junior High School, 429 Dempster St., Mount Prospect.

The members are expected to vote on recommending the formation of some type of unit school district or not to the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school board.

Des Plaines will get plant: Zettek

Elk Grove Village has been assured by the Metropolitan Sanitary District a sewage treatment plant will be built at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Avenue in Des Plaines. Therefore, the village is not concerned with any new efforts by Des Plaines to block construction, Elk Grove Village Pres. Charles Zettek said yesterday.

His comments were in reaction to a new plan by Des Plaines to upgrade the city's waste water treatment plant building code, which would increase the cost of the proposed plant.

Des Plaines Ald. Alan Abrams hinted stiff restriction could increase cost of the multi-million dollar proposal "so they wouldn't want to build here."

Preparing for possible loss of the city's eighth-year effort to stop the plant because of zoning, the Des Plaines City Council authorized a $5,000 report to study strengthening of the treatment plant building code.

THE DES PLAINES case to block the proposed 100 million gallon plant is before the Illinois Appellate Court. Des Plaines lost its first case in 1971 before the Illinois Supreme Court and then filed a new case, contending that new municipal home rule powers supercede MSD jurisdiction. Circuit Court Judge Samuel Epstein dismissed the case last fall.

"This by no means indicates that we're giving up our court case," Abrams, chairman of the city code and judiciary committee, said. "The committee is concerned should MSD prevail in the courts."

As far as the code changes are concerned, Abrams said, "We would demand of the district nothing excessive — simply that they build that plant according to the highest state of the art to protect the people in the area."

The contract Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel was authorized to sign calls for recommendations on "current design standards to insure a safe and environmentally acceptable facility . . . construction and operating criteria to be incorporated in the code . . . recommendations on construction and operating permits . . . guidelines on proper maintenance."

The report must be completed in 60 days.

"AREN'T WE THROWING in the sponge by setting up standards for a plant we don't want?" Ald. Ewald Swanson said.

"There's an element of strategy here," City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi said. "We should appraise the district of our requirements. The cost could be a factor in making them move."

"Building codes can be applied to other governmental bodies operating within its boundaries," DiLeonardi said. The exception is schools, which are regulated in construction only by state standards.

"The issue is well settled in Illinois," the attorney said. "Even the Supreme Court in our first go-around — and Judge Epstein — said they must operate according to our codes and not be a nuisance."

In February the Elk Grove Village trustees hinted that a lawsuit might be filed by the village if the proposed sewage treatment plant was delayed by Des Plaines.

Yesterday Zettek said there was no need for a lawsuit because MSD has made a definite commitment to build the plant on the site in Des Plaines. "The Northwest suburbs need another sewage treatment plant, and we're doing all we can to encourage its being built at the earliest possible date," he said.

Community Services $13,000 plea tabled

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Community Services walked away from the Hoffman Estates Village Board meeting without receiving the donation it sought Monday. But it did not go empty-handed.

The board refused to act on a request by Jordan Rosen, executive director of the agency, for a $13,000 contribution for 1973-74. It did, however, agree to remember Rosen's plea when preparing final drafts of the village budget for the fiscal year starting May 1.

Rosen said $13,000 was the village's fair share of costs of treating patients for the coming year, using a formula developed by the agency by which municipalities would be charged only for its resident patients. The agency provides mental health services for residents of Elk Grove and Schaumburg Townships.

The cost per interview hour with each patient is $25, said Rosen. The formula is broken down into $10 reimbursement from the state, $5 from the township, $5 from the client and $5 from the home municipality of the client.

THE AGENCY averages 50 Hoffman Estates clients per week over the course of the year, Rosen said. He noted Schaumburg Township already had approved a $25,000 contribution.

Trustee Edward Hennessy objected to what he termed village involvement in the "mental health business." Since the state designated the two townships as a planning area, local financing should be handled only by the townships, and the village should not be asked to contribute, he said.

Hennessy also noted the village extends into other townships, and residents of those sections of the village outside of Schaumburg Township contribute tax money to the fund from which any donation would be taken. They would not be able to avail themselves of the agency's service, he said.

He noted the village receives requests from several agencies each year similar to the one from community services, and they often base their figures on the number of persons they serve. "How many do we fund and where do we draw the line?" he asked.

Three Lively Junior High School students received awards at the district science fair recently at Wheeling High School.

Seventh grader Quin Heath received a first place award for a project on mealworms. Eighth grader Alan Baltis received a second place award for a project on chess. Michele Poirier, seventh grader, won a third place award for a project on natural dyes.

"We're talking about some very disturbed people," Rosen said, adding that some are former state hospital patients and others show suicidal tendencies.

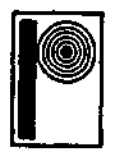

MAYOR Frederick Downey pointed out other villages in the two townships have not committed themselves to donations. When the village agreed to contribute to the Northwest Opportunity Center, it was with the understanding all other municipalities would also donate. But Hoffman Estates and Arlington Heights were the only ones that actually did so, he said. The same situation could develop with Rosen's request, he said.

In another audience request, Mrs. Steve Bothacker, 187 Jamison Ln., urged the board to amend its ordinances to require owners of swimming pools to erect chain link fences around their property. The pools constitute attractive nuisances to children, and are a danger to youngsters who will be drawn to them and could drown, she said.

Mrs. Rothacker compared the village's ordinances with those of surrounding communities, and said Hoffman Estates has the fewest controls, demanding only a restrictive cover or a fence. Downey referred the matter to the board's judiciary committee for consideration at its Thursday night meeting, and invited Mrs. Rothacker to attend.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer noted the village health officer is preparing a rough draft ordinance on pools, and it may contain the fence requirement.

Loser vows township fight

Despite her overwhelming defeat in the Elk Grove Township election, Julie Sass, independent auditor candidate, will continue to work for the abolition of township government.

Mrs. Sass said she plans to form an "educational group" that would explain to residents the benefits of eliminating the township. A petition then would be circulated calling for the abolition of the township to be put to a referendum.

The four independents, all of whom were defeated, had campaigned on a platform calling for the abolition of the township.

PAUL RETTBERG, another independent auditor candidate, also saw some victory amid the over-all defeat.

"Where we concentrated our work and where we had people out, we won," he said.

The Republicans charged throughout the election the independents were "fronts" for the Democratic party. Mrs. Sass said many people believed the charge, but said she was not seriously disappointed by losing.

"Being a Democrat in Elk Grove Township means not saying you're sorry when you lose by two to one," she said.

Richard Hall, elected supervisor on the Republican slate in an unopposed race, said, "The results were pretty much what we had planned and expected."

IN THE election, only the four auditor seats and the township highway commissioner post were contested. The Republicans ran incumbent Bernard Lee, Wayne Hult, Walter Bartley and Larry Hintze for auditors and incumbent Alfred Steil for highway commissioner.

THREE INDEPENDENT candidates, Rettberg, Steve Maddock and Mrs. Sass, ran for auditor. Larry Pahl ran for highway commissioner.

The Republicans ran a full slate of candidates and were unopposed for the supervisor, clerk, assessor and collector posts.

Rettberg said the independents concentrated their efforts within Elk Grove Village. Within the 17 village precincts, he said Pahl took 735 votes to Steil's 612.

Under the election rules, the auditor posts were won by the four top vote-getters — the Republican candidates.

WITHIN Elk Grove Village, however, Rettberg said he and Mrs. Sass had the two highest vote totals with 841 and 725 votes respectively. Following them were Lee, 723 votes; Hintze, 702 votes; Maddock, 691 votes; Hult, 632 votes; and Bartley, 596 votes.

Rettberg said he would run again for some public office, but he has not decided what office or when he would run.

The following totals were reported after yesterday's official canvass of all 62 township precincts: supervisor, Richard Hall, 3,471 votes; clerk, George Busse, 3,530; assessor, Charles Hodlmair, 3,443; collector, Arnold Sharringhausen, 3,497; highway commissioner, Alfred Steil, 2,755; Larry Pahl, 1,314; auditor, Bernard Lee, 2,948; Larry Hintze, 2,874; Wayne Hult, 2,807; Walter Bartley, 2,727; Paul Rettberg, 1,445; Julie Sass, 1,336; and Steve Maddock, 1,311.

Figures on total votes cast were not available yesterday.

Campaign over, melody lingers

Although the campaign is over, the melody lingers on.

The Republicans and the Elk Grove Independent Township candidates traded charges after the Republicans had taken all contested offices by a vote of about 2 to 1.

In a prepared statement issued after the election, Richard Hall, elected supervisor on the Republican slate, said, "This election proved once again we have a very intelligent and sophisticated electorate in Elk Grove Township. (Larry) Pahl, (Paul) Rettberg and (Steve) Maddock ran a negative campaign consisting of many false and slanderous statements and accusations. As we anticipated, the people of our township recognized these malicious personal attacks for what they were and voted accordingly."

Pahl was the independent candidate for township highway commissioner and Rettberg and Maddock were candidates for auditor.

Hall did have praise for Julie Sass, the third independent candidate for auditor. He said she "refused to have her name associated with the literature and press statements of the other three candidates. Her hard but clean campaigning was to her personal credit."

Rettberg and Maddock said the Republicans circulated literature, especially in the Des Plaines area, which took their statements and press interviews out of context and contained false statements.

Mrs. Sass said the literature called the independents "unemployed radicals" who were intent on destroying all forms of government, starting with the township.

Poster contest winners told by police unit

The Elk Grove Village Fraternal Order of Police announced yesterday the names of 14 winners in its poster contest to promote the village blood donor program.

Nanci Vanderweel, blood committee chairwoman, said the winning posters will be displayed through April 14 in the lobby of the police department at the municipal building, 901 Wellington Ave. She said the 300 other entries would be displayed in the fire departments and at various locations around the village.

Mrs. Vanderweel said she was pleased with the number of entries and appreciated the efforts of all the children who participated.

The winners in the second and third grade division were: Roxanne Monegato, Matt Sronkoski, Jim Coggriff and Maura Carroll, all of Queen of the Rosary Catholic School, and Steve Pohlman, Salt Creek School.

Fourth and fifth grade winners were Judy Dombrowski, Pam Gulliksen and Laura Heffern, of Ridge School, and Maureen Krah and Lynn Sronkoski, of Queen of the Rosary Catholic School.

Junior high school winners were Deborah Flowers and Kathy Kenna, of Grove Junior High School, and Tammy Rucinski and Kelly Huebner, of Queen of the Rosary Catholic School.

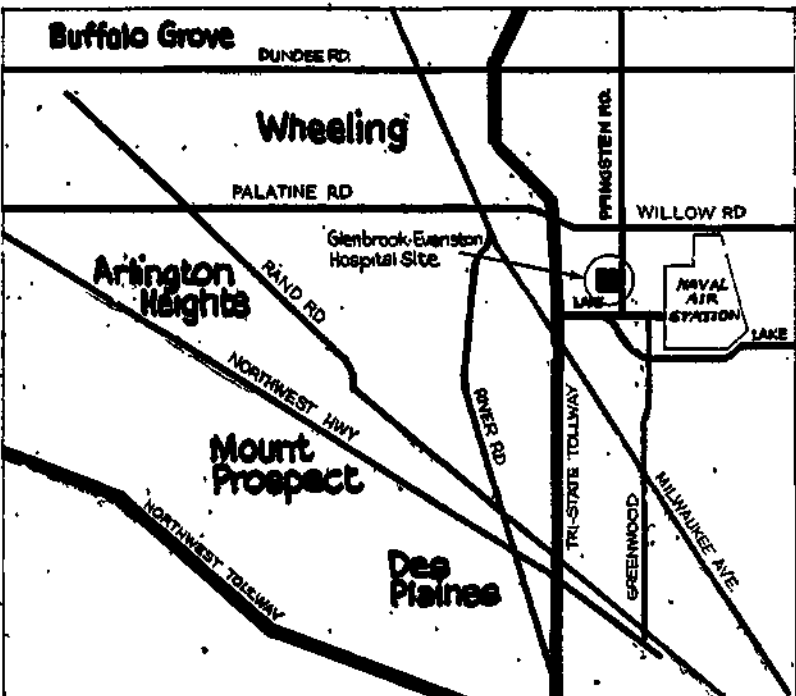

THE WINNERS received certificates from Jake's Pizzeria, 66 E. Devon Ave., and Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlor, 1021 Grove Mall.

Judging the contest were Karen Worth, poster contest chairwoman; Forman Onderdonk, Darlene Greaves and Patrolmen Ray Rose and Ken Krzywicki.

The Elk Grove Village blood donor program currently needs at least 90 pledges for its April 14 drawing date, Mrs. Vanderweel said. The drawing will be all day at the headquarters fire station 101 Bleekerfield Rd., and appointments may be made by telephoning the village hall at 439-3900.

Persons who plan to donate blood should not eat dairy products or fatty foods four hours before hand, should not consume alcohol 12 hours before hand or take medication 72 hours prior to the donation.

Mrs. Vanderweel said nine units of blood have been supplied free to village residents since the program began in January. She said any resident needing blood should contact the village hall.

Laubenstein wins reelection in Schaumburg Township

A 145-vote lead assured reelection for Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein Tuesday night, who with others on the nine-person GOP slate swept all positions.

In the contest that saw incumbent Laubenstein and challenger Charles "Dick" English vying for the supervisor's post, the lead jumped from candidate to candidate throughout the evening.

The final total showed Laubenstein with 1,348 votes and English with 1,203. All totals are unofficial.

GOP candidates Walter Wing, John Jensen, Dan Stowe and Brian Carey won election to the township board of trustees. Totals for the four new trustees are Wing, 1,543; Jensen, 1,655; Stowe, 1,599 and Carey, 1,742.

INDEPENDENTS Frank Domenico and Tim O'Brien who sought election as trustees received 1,420 and 939 votes respectively.

Highway Comr. Ralph Wilkening, also a Republican, was re-elected with 1,420 votes. His challenger, Independent Francis Dunn, received 939.

Totals in uncontested positions showed Mrs. Kathleen Wojcik with 2,001 votes as clerk; Scott MacEachron, assessor, 1,543; Edward Hennessy, collector, 2,000.

Laubenstein, jubilant as his victory was assured, said "in every sense this was a team victory as has been this GOP slate's efforts through its office."

Laubenstein, nervous as precinct totals bounced the lead from him to English, said he was personally grateful for the township vote. He said he worked hard.

"I believe that a big part of the challenge was the fact that my name was on top of the ballot."

Laubenstein, an 11-year resident, lives at 125 S. Westover Ln., Schaumburg.

Mrs. Wojcik has been town clerk for five years and supervised establishment of the current offices. She and her family live on Chopin Court in Schaumburg.

STOWE, a trustee for four years, resides at 6893 Highland St., Hanover Park.

He is a member of the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth and chairs a committee seeking ways to assist the elderly of the township.

Expected to be ready by 1976

200-bed hospital planned for construction in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the expertise to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area."

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president.

The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

The Evanston Hospital professional staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but, he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists, Evanston Hospital officials said, and, therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

The possibility also exists, officials said, Evanston Hospital would build other satellite hospitals in the suburbs as the needs grow.

The new hospital plans are part of an overall program by Evanston Hospital to provide better services for its patients.

Also announced yesterday were plans for a $28 million expansion of the Evanston facility, including a five-story addition to the present structure. The program is expected to be completed by 1976.

Evanston Hospital is a 510-bed facility which served nearly 20,000 persons last year. It is designated as a Trauma Center in the Illinois Regional program. The hospital is also noted for its expertise in the care and treatment of newborn infants.

Women Voters planning next township move

Representatives of the Palatine League of Women Voters will be huddling with their attorney next week to decide their next step in the court battle to get a referendum abolishing township government.

Attorney Richard Troy said yesterday he would meet with the women April 12, when they will discuss whether or not to file a new suit charging that the rights of some 2,000 voters were denied by township officials in September. An earlier lawsuit stalled in court on a preliminary motion before the November election, and an appeal was put down later.

The actual question of the legality of abolishing township government when no other government has been pinpointed to take over its duties has never been settled in court.

The biggest single issue in Tuesday's election, to hold a referendum for Palatine Township voters to support or abolish ish township government, was in effect defeated when Democrats who supported such a vote were beaten by a three to one margin at the polls Tuesday.

ANN SCOLLAY, chief township observer and the wife of unsuccessful Democratic supervisor candidate Jack Scollay, said yesterday she was stepping aside as the Palatine observer.

The league felt that a potential clash of personalities and politics could hamper the league's effectiveness in their township investigation, so a new observer will join Alice DeViney at township meetings as league observer.

Mrs. Scollay said she will shift to studying developing state legislation that affects townships. As for the election results, she reasoned that the two-party race helped get a great deal of information on townships out to the voters.

"In view of what has happened, we will not make a resolution (requesting a referendum) at the town meeting," Mrs. Scollay said. The annual town meeting is scheduled for Tuesday.

LEAGUE observers are taking a wait-and-see attitude now, as the township officials make decisions on use of revenue sharing funds, programs for a township day care center, senior citizens program and The Bridge.

Scollay, who lost the supervisor race to incumbent Howard Olsen by a vote of 4,184 to 1,702, said yesterday that he has no intention of pursuing other township offices in future races.

"I certainly will continue to keep up with the township's activities," Scollay said. He termed the election loss "a very depressing experience," and admitted that he believed the race would be closer.

A referendum on the abolition question in Niles Township Tuesday upheld township government for that area. In November, Northfield Township voters went the same route in a similar referendum.

ELK GROVE Township, independent auditor candidate Julie Sass said she will continue to work for abolition of township government despite an overwhelming defeat in the election Tuesday.

The four independents, all of whom were defeated, had campaigned on a platform calling for the abolishment of the township.

To determine success of student goal attainment

School 'opinionnaires' distributed

Opinionnaires will be distributed in Palatine-Rolling Meadows School Dist. 15 this week in an effort to determine the district's success in the attainment of student goals.

The opinionnaire contains 15 statements of what the district intends for students to attain as a result of their experiences in Dist. 15. The student goals were formulated by the administration and staff as part of a program improvement plan mandated by Illinois Supt. of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis.

On a nine point scale the responder is asked to evaluate how well the district is accomplishing its goals. The evaluation scale has three additional ratings: too much attention, questionable jurisdiction and cannot evaluate.

The opinionnaires are being mailed to parents with children in Dist. 15 and are being handed out to the Dist. 15 staff and to seniors attending high schools within the boundaries of Dist. 15. There will also be a sampling of the opinions of parents with preschool children who will be attending Dist. 15 schools.

"We want to see how well people think we are doing," said Lorita Langley, director of pupil personnel services. "This may just be the starting point if people feel we are doing a bad job."

The opinionnaires are due back on April 13. Mrs. Langley and members of the program improvement plan steering committee hope the responses will make it easier to develop systems goals, statements of what the district intends to do in order to achieve the student goals. The development of system goals is the next step in the total development of a program improvement plan. Parents, former students and staff will be asked to evaluate the system goals also. This opinionnaire is expected to be sent out in May.

Big changes in store for park district

Major changes apparently are in store for the Palatine Rural Park District.

Three write-in candidates managed to gain control of the park board in Tuesday's election and are vowing to secure park lands for people in the unincorporated areas.

Write-in victors are Eugene Dorsch, also the president of the English Valley Association; Thomas J. Patten, 1143 N. Old Bridge Rd. in Heatherlea; and John D. Pinter, 156 W. Old Bridge Rd., Heatherlea.

Three incumbents, whose names appeared on the ballot, were old guard board members who supported the park district as a vehicle allowing them to stay out of taxing park districts. Ludwig Kopach, George J. Pannhausen and Charles Chapin lost the election by 2 to 1 margins.

"THE RURAL park district hasn't done anything for years. We hope to make the park district viable instead of just a paper organization," Dorsch said yesterday.

The Palatine Rural Park District encompasses all unincorporated areas in Palatine Township not part of another park district system. Incumbents still on the park board are chairman Verne Donner and Edwin Bartz.

Representatives of English Valley, Pepper Tree and Heatherlea subdivisions have approached the Palatine Park District in recent years asking those commissioners to annex the subdivisions to the park district. The board's general policy has been to annex only those areas brought into the village, director Fred P. Hall said. But that policy could change with the new board members on the rural park district.

Recently, representatives of the three areas asked rural park officials to purchase some open space in their subdivisions for park land. The officials reportedly agreed to look into the request, but wanted more details about what the homeowners really wanted, Kelly said recently.

The new rural commissioners say they want to develop park land for all unincorporated residents, not just those in subdivisions. There apparently are no discussions at the moment of the areas becoming incorporated with Palatine.

As far as coordinating with the Palatine Park District, Dorsch said he and his two running mates are taking it easy initially, until they get a firm grasp of the rural park district's situation.

VOTE TOTALS for the election were: Dorsch, 154; Patten, 152; Kopach, 71 and Pannhausen, 70, for two terms of six years each. A partial term of two years went to Pinter with 151, over Chapin with 75. A total of 247 ballots were cast in the election.

Palatine Park District officials reacted with surprise and pleasure yesterday to news of the election results.

"I think it's great. Every park district should be active and provide recreational services for its people," said Palatine park board president Paul Jensen.

The Palatine Rural Park District was formed 23 years ago as a tax protection district. Its tax levies have been minimal, usually just enough to pay for the

Expected to be ready by 1976

200-bed hospital planned for construction in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Des Plaines area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the experience to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Des Plaines area.

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Des Plaines area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president.

The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

The Evanston Hospital professional staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists. Evanston Hospital officials said, and, therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

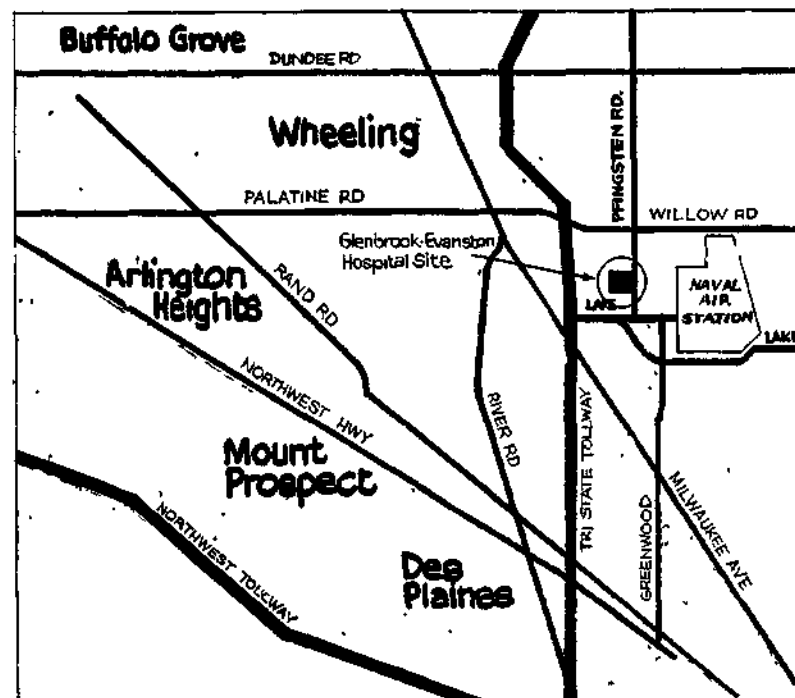

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

The possibility also exists, officials said, Evanston Hospital would build other satellite hospitals in the suburbs as the needs grow.

The new hospital plans are part of an overall program by Evanston Hospital to provide better services for its patients.

Also announced yesterday were plans for a $28 million expansion of the Evanston facility, including a five-story addition to the present structure. The program is expected to be completed by 1976.

Evanston Hospital is a 510-bed facility which served nearly 20,000 persons last year. It is designated as a Trauma Center in the Illinois Regional program. The hospital is also noted for its expertise in the care and treatment of newborn infants.

SERVING THE Wheeling-Des Plaines area as well as other Northwest suburban communities by 1976 will be a 200-bed hospital located in unincorporated Cook County near Glenview. The facility will be built by Evanston Hospital and cost $12 million.

Big changes in store for park district district's attorney, Francis Kelly, and to hold elections, according to board secretary Harold Bergman.

Any purchases of park land would naturally increase the tax levy for residents of the rural park district. The current levy is only about one mil per $100 equalized assessed evaluation, for a total budget of $1,000.

WHEN IT WAS formed, the rural park district included Inverness, Rolling Meadows and other recently incorporated areas now with their own park districts. As the region developed, land was disannexed from the rural district and annexed to the active park district, but not without occasional difficulty.

Write-in candidates also defeated incumbents in the last election in 1969. But the issues were different, when the winners were Jack Scollay and Patrick Gilligan, both residents of then-unincorporated subdivisions: Banbury Lane and Pebble Creek. Residents of those areas were having difficulty getting the disannexation go-ahead from the rural park district, which would allow them to join the Palatine Park District. Shortly after Scollay and Gilligan were elected, the board agreed to the disannexation and the two men were ineligible for the offices when their subdivisions joined the Palatine Park District.

Before the rural park board agreed to process the disannexation papers, homeowners petitioned the courts to dissolve the rural park district, claiming it was not living up to Illinois statutory requirements. That petition was dismissed when commissioners agreed to the disannexation.

For the contest, which was held at Sandburg School, the band performed "Groovin' Easy," "Yesterday's Blues" and "All About the Blues."

Merger of zoning, planning boards urged

The chairman of the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals has proposed the board merge with the Palatine Plan Commission to better conduct public hearings on zoning matters.

David H. Kuh, chairman of the board, said in a letter to the village president and trustees.

He said in an interview the suggestion was a consensus of zoning board members. An alternative suggestion, he said, is for the zoning board to hold many of the public hearings now being assigned to the plan commission.

PLAN COMMISSION chairman, Thomas A. Moody Jr., rejected both alternatives. He said the title of the zoning board of appeals is "very good. They should be concerned with just those things," and not involved in "major precedent-setting things. I think the plan commission should handle those."

Currently, petitions by homeowners for minor zoning variations are referred by the village board to the zoning board for recommendations. The plan commission is assigned petitions relating to rezoning whole lots or tracts of land, or granting special use permits.

Both groups are scheduled to meet twice monthly, but the plan commission, often bogged down with petitions, sometimes schedules special meetings to keep up. Meanwhile, the zoning board often cancels regularly scheduled meetings because of lack of business.

KUH, CHAIRMAN of the zoning board for eight years, indicated he had suggested merging the bodies a few years ago, but the proposal was not accepted.

Though Kuh also is a precinct captain for the Village Independent Party, he said the timing of the latest suggestions was in no way connected with the local political campaign.

The two candidates for Palatine village president each endorsed one of the Kuh recommendations.

Clayton W. Brown, Village Independent Party candidate, said the first suggestion in particular — to merge the zoning board and plan commission — "very definitely has merit to it."

Wendell E. Jones, Republican Party candidate, favored the second alternative — the zoning board is holding some of the public hearings now held by the plan commission. "The plan commission should plan," he said, "and the zoning commission should hear plans relating to zoning."

Office-sports complex gets preliminary OK

Preliminary approval was granted last night by the Rolling Meadows Plan Commission for a multi-million dollar office-sports complex to be built in the city.

The approval was given to Gould Inc., a manufacturer of electronic instruments and systems. Tentative plans for the project were unveiled last night by representatives of the Holabird and Root architectural firm, engineers for the project.

The plans show the layout of a sports complex and several office buildings planned for a 39-acre site between Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Included are plans for a centrally located 10-story office tower, four four-story office buildings, a major sports complex, a retention pond, a reflecting pool and a four-level parking garage.

PLANS ALSO CALL for a restaurant, bank and meeting room concourse to be located in the office tower. A hotel facility which was originally included in the site plans has been eliminated.

Roy Solisburg, an architect for the project, said the sports facility will include six handball and squash courts, eight outdoor tennis courts, exercise areas, an ice rink, locker room facilities, and an outdoor Olympic size swimming pool.

The sports facility will be "semi-public" according to Solisburg. He said the complex could be operated on a club membership basis but added that exact administration of the complex has not been determined.

While construction of the entire project is expected to take five years Solisburg said the first phase of development, a research and development building for Gould, could be completed as early as mid-October of this year.

The sports complex, the main office tower and the parking garage would be built in the second phase of development while the remaining smaller office buildings would be constructed in the third phase, he said.

THE 39-ACRE SITE will house the international headquarters of Gould, Inc., according to Jack Jackson, a Gould representative.

He said the firm's accounting and billing departments would be located on the site but he added that projections have not been made as to the sales tax revenue to be generated for the city.

The firm's current annual sales volume is about $600 million, he said.

To determine success of student goal attainment

School 'opinionnaires' distributed

Opinionnaires will be distributed in Palatine-Rolling Meadows School Dist. 15 this week in an effort to determine the district's success in the attainment of student goals.

The opinionnaire contains 15 statements of what the district intends for students to attain as a result of their experiences in Dist. 15. The student goals were formulated by the administration and staff as part of a program improvement plan mandated by Illinois Supt. of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis.

On a nine point scale the responder is asked to evaluate how well the district is accomplishing its goals. The evaluation scale has three additional ratings: too much attention, questionable jurisdiction and cannot evaluate.

The opinionnaires are being mailed to parents with children in Dist. 15 and are being handed out to the Dist. 15 staff and to seniors attending high schools within the boundaries of Dist. 15. There will also be a sampling of the opinions of parents with preschool children who will be attending Dist. 15 schools.

"We want to see how well people think we are doing," said Lorita Langley, director of pupil personnel services. "This may just be the starting point if people feel we are doing a bad job."

The opinionnaires are due back on April 13. Mrs. Langley and members of the program improvement plan steering committee hope the responses will make it easier to develop systems goals, statements of what the district intends to do in order to achieve the student goals. The development of system goals is the next step in the total development of a program improvement plan. Parents, former students and staff will be asked to evaluate the system goals also. This opinionnaire is expected to be sent out in May.

LWV plots new move on townships

Representatives of the Palatine League of Women Voters will be huddling with their attorney next week to decide their next step in the court battle to get a referendum abolishing township government.

Attorney Richard Troy said yesterday he would meet with the women April 12, when they will discuss whether or not to file a new suit charging that the rights of some 2,000 voters were denied by township officials in September. An earlier lawsuit stalled in court on a preliminary motion before the November election, and an appeal was put down later.

The actual question of the legality of abolishing township government when no other government has been pinpointed to take over its duties has never been settled in court.

The biggest single issue in Tuesday's election, to hold a referendum for Palatine Township voters to support or abolish township government, was in effect defeated when Democrats who supported such a vote were beaten by a three to one margin at the polls Tuesday.

ANN SCOLLAY, chief township observer and the wife of unsuccessful Democratic supervisor candidate Jack Scollay, said yesterday she was stepping aside as the Palatine observer.

The league felt that a potential clash of personalities and politics could hamper the league's effectiveness in their township investigation, so a new observer will join Alice DeViney at township meetings as league observer.

Mrs. Scollay said she will shift to studying developing state legislation that affects townships. As for the election results, she reasoned that the two-party race helped get a great deal of information on townships out to the voters.

"In view of what has happened, we will not make a resolution (requesting a referendum) at the town meeting," Mrs. Scollay said. The annual town meeting is scheduled for Tuesday.

LEAGUE observers are taking a wait-and-see attitude now, as the township officials make decisions on use of revenue sharing funds, programs for a township day care center, senior citizens program and The Bridge.

Scollay, who lost the supervisor race to incumbent Howard Olsen by a vote of 4,184 to 1,702, said yesterday that he has no intention of pursuing other township offices in future races.

"I certainly will continue to keep up with the township's activities," Scollay said. He termed the election loss "a very depressing experience," and admitted that he believed the race would be closer.

A referendum on the abolition question in Niles Township Tuesday upheld township government for that area. In November, Northfield Township voters went the same route in a similar referendum.

ELK GROVE Township, independent auditor candidate Julie Sass said she will continue to work for abolition of township government despite an overwhelming defeat in the election Tuesday.

The four independents, all of whom were defeated, had campaigned on a platform calling for the abolishment of the township.

Big changes ahead for park district

Major changes apparently are in store for the Palatine Rural Park District.

Three write-in candidates managed to gain control of the park board in Tuesday's election and are vowing to secure park lands for people in the unincorporated areas.

Write-in victors are Eugene Dorsch, also the president of the English Valley Association; Thomas J. Patten, 1143 N. Old Bridge Rd. in Heatherlea; and John D. Pinter, 156 W. Old Bridge Rd., Heatherlea.

Three incumbents, whose names appeared on the ballot, were old guard board members who supported the park district as a vehicle allowing them to stay out of taxing park districts. Ludwig Kopach, George J. Pannhausen and Charles Chapin lost the election by 2 to 1 margins.

"THE RURAL park district hasn't done anything for years. We hope to make the park district viable instead of just a paper organization," Dorsch said yesterday.

The Palatine Rural Park District encompasses all unincorporated areas in Palatine Township not part of another park district system. Incumbents still on the park board are chairman Verne Donner and Edwin Bartz.

Representatives of English Valley, Pepper Tree and Heatherlea subdivisions have approached the Palatine Park District in recent years asking those commissioners to annex the subdivisions to the park district. The board's general policy has been to annex only those areas brought into the village, director Fred P. Hall said. But that policy could change with the new board members on the rural park district.

Recently, representatives of the three areas asked rural park officials to purchase some open space in their subdivisions for park land. The officials reportedly agreed to look into the request, but wanted more details about what the homeowners really wanted, Kelly said recently.

The new rural commissioners say they want to develop park land for all unincorporated residents, not just those in subdivisions. There apparently are no discussions at the moment of the areas becoming incorporated with Palatine.

As far as coordinating with the Palatine Park District, Dorsch said he and his two running mates are taking it easy initially, until they get a firm grasp of the rural park district's situation.

VOTE TOTALS for the election were: Dorsch, 154; Patten, 152; Kopach, 71 and Pannhausen, 70, for two terms of six years each. A partial term of two years went to Pinter with 151, over Chapin with 75. A total of 247 ballots were cast in the election.

Palatine Park District officials reacted with surprise and pleasure yesterday to news of the election results.

"I think it's great. Every park district should be active and provide recreational services for its people," said Palatine park board president Paul Jensen.

The Palatine Rural Park District was formed 23 years ago as a tax protection district. Its tax levies have been minimal, usually just enough to pay for the district's attorney, Francis Kelly, and to hold elections, according to board secretary Harold Bergman.

Any purchases of park land would naturally increase the tax levy for residents of the rural park district. The current levy is only about one mil per $100 equalized assessed evaluation, for a total budget of $1,000.

WHEN IT WAS formed, the rural park district included Inverness, Rolling Meadows and other recently incorporated areas now with their own park districts. As the region developed, land was disannexed from the rural district and annexed to the active park district, but not without occasional difficulty.

Write-in candidates also defeated incumbents in the last election in 1969. But the issues were different, when the winners were Jack Scollay and Patrick Gilligan, both residents of then-unincorporated subdivisions: Banbury Lane and Pebble Creek. Residents of those areas were having difficulty getting the disannexation go-ahead from the rural park district, which would allow them to join the Palatine Park District. Shortly after Scollay and Gilligan were elected, the board agreed to the disannexation and the two men were ineligible for the offices when their subdivisions joined the Palatine Park District.

Before the rural park board agreed to process the disannexation papers, homeowners petitioned the courts to dissolve the rural park district, claiming it was not living up to Illinois statutory requirements. That petition was dismissed when commissioners agreed to the disannexation.

Loser: I'll continue township fight

Despite her overwhelming defeat in the Elk Grove Township election, Julie Sass, independent auditor candidate, will continue to work for the abolition of township government.

Mrs. Sass said she plans to form an "educational group" that would explain to residents the benefits of eliminating the township. A petition then would be circulated calling for the abolition of the township to be put to a referendum.

The four independents, all of whom were defeated, had campaigned on a platform calling for the abolition of the township.

PAUL RETTBERG, another independent auditor candidate, also saw some victory amid the over-all defeat.

"Where we concentrated our work and where we had people out, we won," he said.

The Republicans charged throughout the election the independents were "fronts" for the Democratic party. Mrs. Sass said many people believed the charge, but said she was not seriously disappointed by losing.

"Being a Democrat in Elk Grove Township means not saying you're sorry when you lose by two to one," she said.

Richard Hall, elected supervisor on the Republican slate in an unopposed race, said, "The results were pretty much what we had planned and expected."

IN THE election, only the four auditor seats and the township highway commissioner post were contested. The Republicans ran incumbent Bernard Lee, Wayne Hult, Walter Bartley and Larry Hintze for auditors and incumbent Alfred Steil for highway commissioner.

THREE INDEPENDENT candidates,

Rettberg, Steve Maddock and Mrs. Sass, ran for auditor. Larry Pahl ran for highway commissioner.

The Republicans ran a full slate of candidates and were unopposed for the supervisor, clerk, assessor and collector posts.

Rettberg said the independents concentrated their efforts within Elk Grove Village. Within the 17 village precincts, he said Pahl took 735 votes to Steil's 612.

Under the election rules, the auditor posts were won by the four top vote-getters — the Republican candidates.

WITHIN Elk Grove Village, however, Rettberg said he and Mrs. Sass had the two highest vote totals with 841 and 725 votes respectively. Following them were Lee, 723 votes; Hintze, 702 votes; Maddock, 691 votes; Hult, 632 votes; and Bartley, 596 votes.

Rettberg said he would run again for some public office, but he has not decided what office or when he would run.

The following totals were reported after yesterday's official canvass of all 62 township precincts: supervisor, Richard Hall, 3,471 votes; clerk, George Busse, 3,530; assessor, Charles Hodmair, 3,443; collector, Arnold Sharringhausen, 3,497; highway commissioner, Alfred Steil, 2,753; Larry Pahl, 1,314; auditor, Bernard Lee, 2,948; Larry Hintze, 2,874; Wayne Hult, 2,807; Walter Bartley, 2,727; Paul Rettberg, 1,445; Julie Sass, 1,336; and Steve Maddock, 1,311.

Figures on total votes cast were not available yesterday.

New hospital planned in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the expertise to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area.

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president.

The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

The Evanston Hospital professional

staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but, he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists. Evanston Hospital officials said, and therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

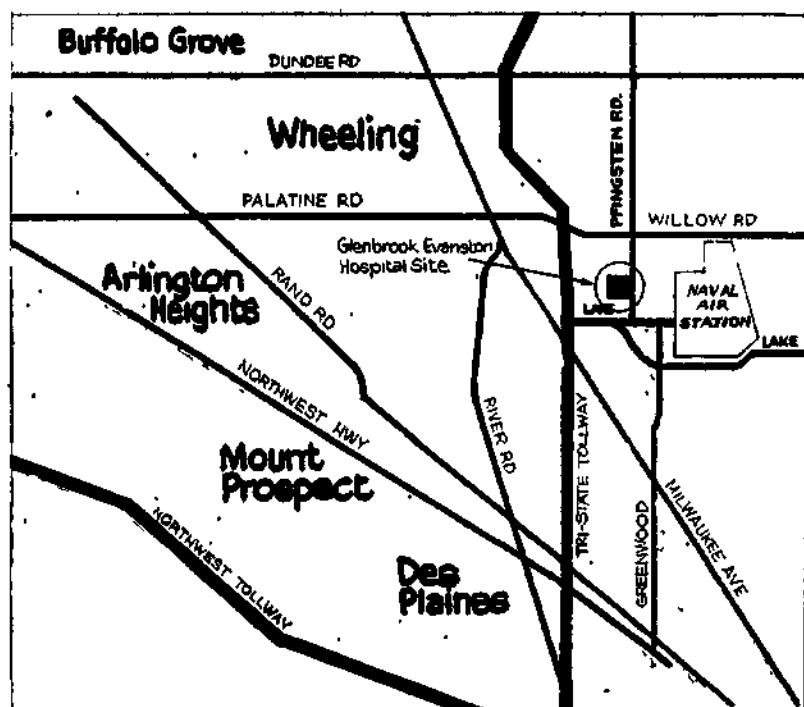

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

The possibility also exists, officials said, Evanston Hospital would build other satellite hospitals in the suburbs as the needs grow.

The new hospital plans are part of an overall program by Evanston Hospital to provide better services for its patients.

Also announced yesterday were plans for a $28 million expansion of the Evanston facility, including a five-story addition to the present structure. The program is expected to be completed by 1978.

Evanston Hospital is a 510-bed facility which served nearly 20,000 persons last year. It is designated as a Trauma Center in the Illinois Regional program. The hospital is also noted for its expertise in the care and treatment of newborn infants.

SERVING THE Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area as well as other Northwest suburban communities by 1976 will be a 200-bed hospital located in unincorporated Cook County near Glenview. The facility will be built by Evanston Hospital and cost $12 million.

Planners seek six-month ban

Moratorium on building sought for Old Town area

A moratorium on all building, demolition, resubdivision and rezoning in the proposed Old Town area will be proposed Tuesday at the Schaumburg Village Board meeting.

A Schaumburg Centre Historic District ordinance, recommended for approval Tuesday night by the Schaumburg Plan Commission, suggests a moratorium for six months. The historic area centers around the Roselle-Schaumburg intersection.

During this time a professional planner is to prepare guidelines for the general outline and architectural design of the historic district. The ordinance also establishes a Landmarks Commission which would review all building plans for the area, and make recommendations to the village board.

The plan commission will act as the Landmarks Commission until the professional plan for the area is approved by the village board. Representation on the Landmarks Commission will include members from the aesthetics committee, the public works department, and the building department.

THE LANDMARKS Commission will also make recommendations on any permits for demolition of existing structures in the area. The effect of the demolition on the historic district plan will be taken into consideration.

The desirability of establishing a federal or state historic district in all or part of the Old Town area will also be investigated by the Landmarks Commission.

In recommending approval of this ordinance, the plan commission in effect held up the plans of Jon Floria, the owner of

The Buttery, and Steven Wilkes, owner of the property at Schaumburg and Roselle roads. Both men asked permission to subdivide so they could sell part of their land.

Floria's petition also included plans for remodeling and enlarging The Buttery, and inadequate parking temporarily held up approval of his requests. The engineering and fire departments will inspect his plans before recommendations are made on the addition or the subdivision.

The commission did recommend that Wilkes be allowed to subdivide his lot, but will not make this recommendation to the board if the Old Town ordinance is approved. The board could decide to allow existing requests for subdividing in the historic area, in which case Wilkes or Floria's plans could be approved before the six months is up.

So you speak some Portuguese, do you?

by JERRY THOMAS

Going to school in another country doesn't always mean a language problem for American students.

There is always someone, just about anywhere around the world, who speaks "just a little bit" of English.

For a Brazilian foreign exchange student now studying at James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates, it's a different story.

"I don't know anybody in this village who speaks just a little bit of Portuguese, my language," said Chermont Oliveira of Ceara, Brazil.

CHERMONT is one of two foreign exchange students living with Hoffman Estates families and attending Conant. The other is Marcia Kowall, 16, of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Charmont and Marcia met recently with four Conant students who will shortly be leaving for semesters in schools in other countries.

The Hoffman Estates students are Len Walsh, 17, of 287 Englewood Rd.; Joan Murray, 16, of 151 Bode Rd.; Joni Pugh, 16, of 464 Chippendale Rd.; and Robbin Sebastiani, 15, of 218 E. Nottingham Ln.

Although Charmont, 16, is having a little difficulty speaking English, he said he enjoys the new experiences and travel the foreign exchange program affords him. He is living with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Dick of 408 Basswood St.

Charmont, one of 10 children, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raimundo Adjair Cidrao Oliveira. He is interested in studying medicine.

WITH MARCIA'S help, Charmont said, he doesn't miss the hot humid climate at home and enjoys the cold weather in Illinois.

His only complaint is there isn't much of anything to do here, other than visit friends.

Marcia's only complaint about language is that her school day didn't afford enough time to talk to friends.

Chattering in English at a pace rivaling any neighborhood teenager, Marcia said she learned language a few months before coming to Hoffman Estates.

She told Joan, who plans to go to Brazil, and Joni, who will go to Ecuador, language will be no problem. Both Joni and Joan love sports. Marcia said the weather in both countries will allow the girls to swim and pursue other sports interests whenever they have time.

MARCIA SAID Mr. and Mrs. Walter Courtney of 173 Jefferson Rd., with whom she is living, have made her one of the family.

One of the things she misses most about Brazil, though, is the food. "Everything is fresh, the seafood, fish, fruits and vegetables, while here it's in a box, ice or a can," she said.

Marcia is interested in art and said Conant's art department is far superior to the school she attended. She acts as a teacher's aide in her own country but is not sure it is what she will do later.

Both Brazilian students told the Conant exchange students they would never regret their travels.

Joan and Joni were reassured about not knowing any other language but plan on taking language dictionaries anyway. Joni will add a bottle of stomach settling medicines to her packing list.

LEN, WHO WANTS to go to Panama, is taking along writing pads and pens to take notes for the short stories he writes as a hobby. When he gets to Panama, the first thing he plans to do is buy a hat.

Robbin wants to go to school in Australia or South Africa, but right now does not know for sure if her exchange plans will work out.

Since her greatest interests are people, baking and cooking, she is looking forward to a different menu and new people to meet.

Robbin recently met a young man from Australia. Both the boy and country sound very nice, she added.

AN INTERNATIONAL observer, Marcia Kowall of Brazil is a foreign exchange student at Conant High School, one of several here to learn about life in our community.

Service station robbed of $500

A young gunman wearing an Army fatigue jacket took about $500 early yesterday from a Union Oil service station at Golf and Meacham roads.

The station attendant told police the robber purchased gasoline, then suggested that the pair split the receipts in the register. When the attendant refused, the man pulled a gun and took about $300 in cash and $100 in checks.

Easter Bunny guest of honor at lunch

The Easter Bunny will be the guest of honor at a luncheon for area youngsters April 14.

The Schaumburg Jaycoettes are sponsoring the luncheon, which will be held at 11 a.m., noon, and 1 p.m. at the Jane Addams Junior High School, 700 S. Springmead Rd., Schaumburg.

The Easter Bunny will be accompanied by a group of clowns. All youngsters will be given balloons and Easter cupcakes.

The cost of the hamburger lunch will be $1 for children and adults.

Reservations, which must be made in advance, may be obtained by calling Mrs. Nancy Kott at 629-1594.

Youngsters less than 6 years old must be accompanied by an adult.

Library board officers picked

Three incumbent board members were elected as officers for the Schaumburg Library Board of Trustees last night. Mrs. Deborah Miller, of 143 Rosedale Lane, Hoffman Estates, was elected president while Mrs. Ruth Tresselt was chosen secretary and Joe McAuliffe will serve as treasurer.

Mrs. Miller and McAuliffe were reelected to six-year terms in the township board elections Tuesday. Mrs. Tresselt served as board president this year. Mrs. Miller is a student at the University of Illinois Circle Campus. She was appointed to the board two years ago.

She is also a member of the League of Women Voters. McAuliffe will be serving his third year as board treasurer. A divisional traffic manager for the Masonite Corp., he is also a professional actor.

McAuliffe stated before the election that he would like to see the library become the cultural center of the township.

Charges fly in mayoral campaign

Charges and countercharges are again flying in the campaign for Hoffman Estates village offices.

The race has been fraught with accusations by both political parties since November.

Republican mayoral candidate Virginia Hayter this week was accused of having advance knowledge of the coming year's village budget, which was not to be prepared until after the election, and her slate was charged with not revealing sources of all campaign funds.

Civic Party candidates again were attacked for not revealing campaign fund contributors, with special criticism leveled at incumbent mayoral candidate Frederick Downey. The slate also was accused of failing to deal with issues in its campaign.

DOWNEY QUOTED Mrs. Hayter as having said the "1973-74 budget was already $600,000 out of balance." He said he wondered "where she gets her figures," and "questions special access by the GOP," since, as of yet, he has seen no copy of the budget.

Mrs. Hayter said yesterday she made the statement, on the basis of a comment by Village Mgr. George Longmeyer. The manager was referring to requests for departmental budgets, compared with expected revenue, she said.

Longmeyer yesterday said he did not believe he had quoted a figure of $600,000 in any statement, but he had told board members the departmental requests total about $400,000 or $500,000 more than anticipated revenue, a situation he described as standard. He and the village finance director will meet with the department chiefs to pare down the requests, he said.

Civic Party trustee candidate Lee Dodgion questioned whether the Republican candidates are independent of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST).

"The ROOST candidates have steadfastly denied any financial support from the ROOST organization. They act as though something is wrong with the ROOST money, and maybe there is," said Dodgion. He referred to political contributions for space in the ROOST ad book, saying Mrs. Hayter told him "builders and developers . . . 'pay through the nose'" for them.

HE ALSO CHARGED a Republican press release and invitations to the village Republican convention were printed on Roost letterhead and mailed with ROOST's mailing permit. Mrs. Hayter said the press release was mistakenly printed on the wrong stationery in haste, and she did not know anything about the other claims. She also denied ever having discussed the ad book with Dodgion and said her slate received no proceeds from it.

On the other side, Republican trustee candidate named ethics as an important issue, saying voters have a right to know "where a candidate's or slate's financial resources come from."

"We believe you have a right to know who has an interest in having a particular candidate or slate elected. But Fred Downey doesn't believe you do — and apparently neither do CP officials," said Melvin E. Timmons a GOP trustee candidate.

Only two CP candidates admit knowing the sources of their campaign donations, and they have consistently declined to name them.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Seeking a price rollback formula acceptable to Congress, the House Banking Committee reconsidered earlier action and voted to put a ceiling on all prices and interest at their Jan. 10 levels.

Rebellious housewives cut sharply into meat sales in the fourth day of a nationwide boycott. Farmers fought back by holding their animals off the market.

The administration abandoned its highly controversial threat to begin withholding immediately $880 million in federal welfare aid from states making payments to ineligible recipients.

The Senate Watergate committee has announced it had received "no evidence of any nature" linking White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman with the Watergate bugging.

South Florida experienced a second major power failure within 24 hours yesterday, snarling traffic, and forcing schools and department stores to close.

The United States plans to send its Skylab space research station into Earth orbit May 14, and put three men aboard it the following day for a 28-day stay, the space agency announced.

The state

Governor Daniel Walker estimated that flood damage to Illinois highways and public buildings would exceed the $4 million necessary to qualify for federal relief, but cautioned against hysteria over the floods.

The Illinois House of Representatives again refused to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The women's rights amendment received 95 votes, 12 short of the three-fifths required for approval under House rules. Proponents now plan a lawsuit seeking a ruling that only a constitutional majority of 89 votes is required for ratification.

Heavy fighting moved steadily closer to Saigon yesterday as Communist forces intensified their attacks in South Vietnam despite the cease-fire . . . In Cambodia Communists struck against Phnom Penh's last supply route and U.S. jets pounded targets around the capital.

The Irish Republican Army called for a reprieve for a member of the rival militant Protestant Ulster Defense Association who was sentenced to death for the murder of a policeman.

200-bed hospital planned for construction in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the expertise to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area.

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president.

The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

The Evanston Hospital professional staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but, he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists, Evanston Hospital officials said, and, therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

The possibility also exists, officials said, Evanston Hospital would build other satellite hospitals in the suburbs as the needs grow.

The new hospital plans are part of an overall program by Evanston Hospital to provide better services for its patients.

Also announced yesterday were plans for a $28 million expansion of the Evanston facility, including a five-story addition to the present structure. The program is expected to be completed by 1976.

Evanston Hospital is a 510-bed facility which served nearly 20,000 persons last year. It is designated as a Trauma Center in the Illinois Regional program. The hospital is also noted for its expertise in the care and treatment of newborn infants.

SERVING THE Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area as well as other Northwest suburban communities by 1976 will be a 200-bed hospital located in unincorporated Cook County near Glenview. The facility will be built by Evanston Hospital and cost $12 million.

Sheffield residents gripe to planners

Several owners of Levitt and Sons' Sheffield Manor quadrophomes complained to the Schaumburg Plan Commission Tuesday night the builder has not satisfactorily corrected some construction problems.

Dennis Conley of Sheffield Manor said, "We've been trying for the past year to get leaky basements, depressed sidewalks and insulation problems around the windows and doors corrected."

Sidewalks and landscaping for Manor I, the first phase of the development, have not been finished, Conley said, but the developer has begun construction of Manor II. "They shouldn't start something else until they finish the first one," he said.

According to Conley, homeowners furnished a list of complaints to Levitt as far back as October, 1972, but Levitt insisted poor weather conditions prohibited any repairs. "They were able to build Manor II despite the weather."

THE COMMISSION, reviewing a request from Levitt for approval of Manor III, loosely tied in correction of homeowners' complaints with their recommendation to approve the new construction phase.

Manor III was recommended accepted

"with the stipulation that the engineering checks out and the village board takes into account homeowners' complaints."

Homeowners were also concerned about the adequacy of the swim club and other recreational facilities as more units are built. The recommendation also carried the condition Levitt be held to building all of the recreation facilities approved originally.

Ray McArthur, commission chairman, asked Conley for a list of major complaints to be presented to the village board.

A Levitt spokesman said recreation facilities have been planned for all three phases of the development. The agreement with the homeowners stipulates the swimming club is to open by June 1, he added.

REPAIRS MAY not be going as fast as residents would like, he said, but Levitt has stayed in contact with the people and arranged a meeting with the homeowners' association for the end of the month.

In other action, the proposed Jamestown Village Apartments on a 15.2 acre site north of Bode Road were once again before the commission as new owners requested site plan changes.

Martin Levine of Case Development Co. said his firm purchased the land from Klingbiel, Inc. However, the site plan approval granted Klingbiel stipulated construction must begin by January, 1972.

The commission said because the construction deadline had expired, Case Development would have to present their case before the village board.

Klingbiel originally purchased the property from Levitt and Sons. A total of 228 dwelling units are proposed by the new owners, the same number Klingbiel proposed.

Case Development is changing the mix of one bedroom and two bedroom units, and reducing the number of buildings from 26 to 16.

Levine said he would ask the village board April 10 for an extension on the construction time limit. The board also may rule on the site plan changes, or send the plan back to one of its commissions for review.

Park district employee in auto accident

A Hoffman Estates park district employee apparently escaped serious injury in an auto accident yesterday afternoon.

Schaumburg police said a car driven by David Foster, of 901 Mulberry Lane, Streamwood, was struck as he attempted to turn west onto Higgins Road from the Grand Canyon Parkway. Foster is a park district maintenance man.

Foster's car, which is owned by the park district, was struck broadside by an auto driven by Mrs. Dorothy N. Brainerd of 1425 Lake Shore Drive, Barrington.

Both cars were extensively damaged and witnesses said the park district car had one side caved in completely. Both drivers were taken to Alexian Bros. Medical Center by a Schaumburg Fire Dept. ambulance.

A hospital spokesman said both persons suffered numerous cuts and bruises. While complete injury reports were not available, both were expected to be released after treatment. Police said Foster will receive a citation for failing to yield before making a left turn.

Precinct 39 library's 'star'

Precinct 39 was the star of the hour in Tuesday's Schaumburg Township board and public library elections.

All the other 40 precincts had reported to township offices by 9:30 p.m. Tuesday. But the clock passed midnight, and Precinct 39 still was missing. With a large number of voters, it carried the potential of upsetting races for four and two-year library terms, if voting had been extremely one-sided and had followed a different trend from other precincts.

But the election judges finally brought in their returns at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday. The 263 votes cast were hard to count, they said. The vote did follow the township-wide pattern, and merely reinforced the victories of winning candidates.

In the race for two terms, each for four years, John Lucas, 181 Highland Blvd., Hoffman Estates, a first-time candidate for public office, led with a grand total of 1,204 votes. Taking the second term, Sonja Leraas, 308 Cloverdale Ln., Schaumburg, followed with 1,113.

LAWRENCE THIELEN, 1704 Cambridge Ln., Schaumburg, campaigned hardest in this contest, but turned up a low third with 874 ballots in his name. The only incumbent seeking a four-year seat, Walter North, 1821 W. Warwick Ln., Schaumburg, pulled only 822 votes. Coming in fifth in the race for two seats, with only 582 votes, was Richard Rowder, 219 Compton Ln., Schaumburg.

A political youngster at age 19, Richard Miller of 140 N. Washington Blvd., Hoffman Estates, pulled an upset in the three-way race for one term lasting two years.

Miller, whose father was among library founders, carried on a family tradition when he assured himself a seat on the board with a total of 1,046 votes.

Miller defeated a 10-year veteran of the library board, Harold Bond of 1501 S. Roslyn Rd., Sunset Hills, unincorporated Schaumburg Township. Bond drew only 776 votes in his name. Low man in the contest was James Lenzo, 1108 S. Mercury, Schaumburg, who polled only 464 votes.

IN AN UNCONTESTED race, two candidates won six-year terms.

The winner of the most votes in any election in the township Tuesday was Deborah Miller, 143 Rosedale Ln., Hoffman Estates. A total of 2,144 persons cast votes in her favor. The next highest total in any township race was cast for Joseph McAuliffe, 807 S. Dartmouth Ln., Schaumburg, who also was elected to a six-year term with 2,064.

One write-in vote was cast in the library race, listing Richard Hatcher for a four-year term.

Personnel changes may not affect Howie deal

Personnel changes in the federal receivership holding title to the Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision in Hoffman Estates should not affect negotiations for settlement of federal and county suits involving the village and the property.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said yesterday he anticipated Federal Judge Edwin A. Robson would retain the Kirkland and Ellis legal firm as attorneys for the receivership. Robson this week appointed Samuel A. Berke, former referee in bankruptcy proceedings for the Federal District Court, new receivers. He succeeds William J. Friedman and Leonard B. Ettelson, who were appointed by retired Federal Judge William Campbell. Campbell, Friedman and Ettelson had been connected with the case since the receivership was named in 1968.

In another development, the Teamsters Union Pension Fund has agreed to accept repayment of its mortgage on the Howie land, with no interest or penalty fee for late reimbursement. The mortgage was made eight years ago, and totaled $1.8 million, said Hofert. He estimated the interest and penalty might amount to as much as a half million dollars.

The Teamsters Union had filed suit in the federal courts seeking reimbursement of its capital plus the interest and penalty from the receivership.

The receivers have agreed to the union's settlement terms, said Hofert.

Boozers, duffers live it up!

The wishes of tipplers and golf enthusiasts were satisfied by the Hoffman Estates Village Board Monday night in separate resolutions.

The board officially repealed its ordinance prohibiting sale of liquor by the drink on election days, and extended legal hours for golf course operation from 5 a.m. to 12:01 a.m.

The repeal action did not really change current liquor sale practices in the village, because police stopped enforcing the ordinance prior to the November elections, said Village Mgr. George Longmeyer. A new state law at that time gave municipalities the option of permitting liquor by the drink sale on election days. The board stipulated Monday the repeal was effective for Tuesday's election.

The change in golf course hours came at the urging of local golfers who thought 7 a.m. opening restricted their style, said Trustee Edward Hennessy. The 12:01 a.m. closing applies to miniature golf links as well as full courses.

The board also learned Monday of proposed development along the south side of Bode Road west of the Interlude Apartments. Century Builders, owners of Interlude Apartments, is planning a 33-acre townhouse or condominium development with approximately 10 units per acre, reported Richard Regan, plan commission chairman. Regan asked Village Clerk Virginia Netter to research the history of a supposed school site donation for which records are lacking, he said.

The board approved two sideyard variations, as requested by Ed Curtin, 187 Lafayette Ln., and Alfred R. McCormick, 270 Bode Rd.

Boys Club asks for Chino Park lease

Competition for Chino Park grew Monday night when the Hoffman Estates Boys Club asked the village board for a 15-year lease on the site.

If the lease were granted, the club would initiate an eight-point development program to be accomplished over four years, culminating in the hiring of a full time director to operate the site.

Items "scheduled definitely to be included in the complex," according to a written request from club president Anthony Stompanato, are handball, tennis and basketball courts; boxing and junior and senior wrestling facilities; two football and two baseball fields and fenced in tot lots. The tennis courts would be flooded in winter for hockey, said the letter.

The club program would be accomplished in conjunction with St. Hubert's School, said Stompanato, who added the school intends a "major addition" but said he could reveal no details. St. Hubert's property abuts the park site, if an access road for the fire department is included as the club initially requested.

THE BOARD already is considering a request the land be turned over to Hoffman Estates Park District, and Trustee Virginia Hayter noted Monday the Hoffman Estates Youth Commission had once expressed interest in the land. While the board agreed some time ago to give the site, minus the Boys Club barn and the fire station road, to the park district, the transfer was bogged down over a debate on which governmental unit should pay back taxes left by the former owners. The village paid them, but has tried to convince the park district to reimburse village funds.

The club said the park site would be available for use to any child in the village.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said the lease could be approved, with a clause allowing the village to terminate it at any point by reimbursing the club for any funds it had spent for improvements. Stompanato agreed to the suggestion, but the board did not act on it.

While the park district request for the site was on Monday's agenda, action on it was deferred also.

Request of mayoral candidate Minton

List of registered voters may cost village $3,000

A request by Mount Prospect mayoral candidate Michael Minton for a list of registered voters may cost the village about $3,000.

The village board this week gave clerk Donald Goodman a "blank check" to hire personnel and rent typewriters to get the list typed by a week from today.

Minton demanded the list last week. According to a 1939 law, it must be prepared by five days before the election, even though a voter registration list is available from the County Clerk's office.

After the board approved the spending to meet Minton's request, Minton criticized Mayor Robert Teichert for "fiscal irresponsibility," though Teichert did not vote on the issue.

"We are faced with the possibility that Mr. Minton will file a lawsuit," Goodman told the village board at Tuesday's board meeting. "While I do not believe that any court would actually enforce this outdated provision, I do not want the clerk's office subjected to anymore unwarranted attacks." He estimated the cost at $3,000.

LAST WEEK, Minton filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court to get the ballot for the April 17 election changed. Through an agreement in court among the attorneys representing Goodman, the village and Minton, the ballot was changed without a court order being issued.

Minton's request that a complete list of registered voters be made available to him five days prior to the election is based on Section 5-32 of Article 5, Chapter 46 of the Illinois Revised Statutes. This law was originally passed in 1939 and has not been enforced in the village.

The village board, in addition to allocating funds for the list, passed a motion that State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, initiate a bill to repeal the law. Both passed 5-0, with Patrick J. Link absent and Teichert not voting.

Minton, in a press release issued yesterday, said, "I am pleased to see that Mayor Teichert has finally agreed to obey the election laws. Laws are made for compliance by everyone, including and especially village officials. No one should consider himself above the law."

"LET ME REMIND Mayor Teichert that he may go to the Cook County Clerk's Office in Chicago and obtain a list with current additions and deletions of all the registered voters in Mount Prospect for posting in village hall, at absolutely no cost to the village or taxpayer," Minton said.

A similar point was brought up at the board meeting by Trustee Daniel J. Ahern. He asked why Minton could not go to the County Clerk's Office himself and get that same list, instead of forcing the village clerk's office to prepare a list for him.

Goodman said the county list is only accurate through last November's presidential election. He added that he knew of no municipality in the area where a clerk's office provides such lists. "Everyone relies on the county poll sheets for the listing of registered voters," he said.

When the ballots were reprinted $437.60 worth of old ballots had to be thrown out. The ballot issue centered on whether the design was illegal and prejudicial in Teichert's favor. Judge Harry Comerford said he felt the ballot could have been considered legal, but was confusing.

In addition to Teichert, who is seeking reelection to a second four-year term, and Minton, Albert J. Motsch is also seeking the mayor post.

Minton reveals 'better way' for village at debate

Michael Minton revealed his "better way" for Mount Prospect this week. It includes lower taxes, elimination of flooding, cutting the village budget, hiring 37 policemen and setting up six village commissions or bureaus.

The 26-year-old candidate for mayor chose an election debate 15 days before the April 17 election to reveal portions of his "positive program." Many details of the program were included in a pamphlet distributed at St. Raymond's auditorium.

During the debate, Minton said he would cut $2.3 million from the proposed 1973-74 village budget. He said in the handout, "Progress with economy can be accomplished. Through the elimination of wasteful, unnecessary spending, through the adoption of better business practices, reallocations and more effective use of available tax dollars, my administration will seek ways to reduce our village property tax rate while providing additional services at no cost to the taxpayer."

Minton is running against incumbent Robert D. Teichert, 48, and independent, Albert J. Motsch, 75.

THE 37 policemen to be added to "our critically undermanned police force" will be hired through a reallocation of the proposed budget, Minton said. "We cannot keep annexing without giving thought to the security and safety of our residents. I will reinstate residential patrols to curb vandalism and burglaries. I will continue to increase police and fire department manpower commensurate with growth and the village's ability to meet the costs out of available income."

He said top priority will be given to solving flooding problems. "Decisive action will be taken to prevent and eliminate flooding in the village. No future development will be approved unless the developer has made adequate provision for water retention."

Among the bureaus Minton said he will establish is a mayor's office of information and inquiry that would make him available to residents two nights a week for discussion with residents. The others include a consumer protection bureau, an environmental control board, a mass transportation commission, a youth services commission (which would provide summer jobs for youths), a senior citizens commission and a family service bureau. The latter would provide family and general counseling for emotional problems of residents.

MINTON said he will issue by mail a progress report to residents six times a year. The report will include questionnaires designed to collect residents' opinions on matters such as mass transportation, parking and traffic.

Water meter readers would be phased out under Minton's program and instead, homeowners would read their own meters and mail in postcards to the village. "This system has proven to be highly efficient, very economical and a great safety factor to the homeowner," he said.

He would have the village clerk's office provide free notary service to residents. He called for stronger controls on the number of liquor licenses given out, a referendum on the subject of "federally subsidized low-income housing," and the elimination of outside legal fees for the village. A total of $12,000 is included for this in the proposed budget.

A job opportunity program would be set up in cooperation with village merchants and industrialists, according to Minton. Job listings would be made available in the village hall. He also repeated his opposition to "the construction of high-rise, high-density multi-developments."

River Trails teachers get pay boost

A 6.4 per cent teachers' salary increase has been approved by the River Trails Dist. 26 Board.

The increase includes a 3.7 per cent increment built into last year's salary schedule, plus a 2.3 per cent raise. The new contract means a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree will receive $9,325 to start, $225 more than last year. Beginning teachers with a master's degree will receive $9,275.

For the first time, the board also provided for wage hikes for teachers with bachelor's degrees after 12 years of experience. After 14 years, this schedule provides for an additional $200 a year and after 16 years, another $200. The board also approved a new schedule for teachers with master's degrees and 30 years service. The starting wage for this schedule is $9,875. With 16 years service, the wage is increased to $18,025.

ONE OTHER important provision in the new contract is for a classroom enrichment fund. This fund allows each principal $50 per teacher in his building to be used for supplies and materials without prior approval of the central office.

After approval of the new contract by the board, Gary Rathgeber, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, said, "It's very close to what we expected. It's not what we originally asked for, but then you never expect to get just what you asked for."

The new contract was formulated in three meetings between the board and teachers' representatives. Last year, negotiations were not completed until September. In discussing the speedy agreement, representatives from both sides said they thought that doing away with an outside negotiator helped negotiations quite a bit.

"I said a long time ago that people-to-people contacts are the most appropriate," said Board Pres. Lloyd Demel.

"It promotes open discussion and trust."

RATHGEBER agreed. "I see this as setting a kind of precedent," he said, "and I think the relationship between the teachers and the board next year is going to continue to be honest and candid."

The new contract will cost the district $96,000 in salaries, according to Assistant Supt. James Retzlaff, representative for the board negotiating team. Since the budget for next year has not been formulated yet, the board has not set aside any specific sum for the teachers' salary increase.

School board approves TAW sale

The Mount Prospect Dist. 37 School Board has approved the sale of $700,000 in tax anticipation warrants (in effect, I.O.U.'s for expected tax receipts) to pay for bills in its education fund.

According to J. C. Busenhart, business manager for the district, the education fund is now completely depleted. In the last several months, the board has been borrowing from other funds to pay bills in the education fund.

Busenhart said county officials told him last week that June 15 is the earliest date tax bills will be sent out this year.

However, they may not be sent out until after that, he said. Busenhart said the district will definitely have to sell some of the $700,000 worth of warrants in May and may have to sell some in April. The warrants will only be sold as the money is needed.

According to law, the district must buy back the warrants as soon as the first tax receipts come in. However, even though the district pays back the warrants, it will still have to pay an additional cost in interest, as well as attorney's fees.

Floros, Furst, Hendricks, Link, Richardson

Trustee hopefuls tell qualifications

Leo Floros presented himself "as a true independent" as he started off the village trustee candidates' portion of Monday's Chamber of Commerce election debate. The other four candidates, all members of the Village Party, outlined the accomplishments of the current village administration.

As he has done before, Floros began by stressing that he felt it was dangerous to have a village board composed of members of a single party. "You need someone not afraid to try something new," he said. He criticized the proposed $6 million 1973-74 village budget and village taxes as part of constant increases in governmental costs. Floros said he wanted to preserve the "village character" of Mount Prospect.

"Like most residents of Mount Prospect, I am opposed to high-rises, to huge apartments, the growing number of commercial establishments and to the other trademarks of a big city," he said. "I present myself to you tonight as one who is interested in halting the spiraling costs of government."

He said monies from sales tax rebates and revenue sharing have been used for the day-to-day costs of running the village, rather than used to solve special problems. "It is indeed unfortunate that these two new sources of revenue, $550,000 this year alone, could not have been used to attack our flooding problems in Mount Prospect for example," Floros said.

He said it is another example of "the price you and I are paying for bigness." INCUMBENT Trustee Donald B. Furst spoke on the traffic improvements made in the village during the past four years and improvements in the water supply system.

Richard Hendricks, unopposed for the only available two-year trustee spot, told what has been done to alleviate flooding, "the most serious problem in Mount Prospect today."

Incumbent Patrick J. Link discussed some of the intergovernmental programs in which the village is involved. These included the fire cadet program, police central dispatching, mobile intensive care operation and the police Metropolitan Enforcement Group.

THE FINAL incumbent seeking reelection who spoke was Bud Richardson. He outlined the financial operations and tax structure of the village. As to the budget, he said, "There will be no overspending. No extra watchdog is needed." (The latter referred to a suggestion by Floros that a financial watchdog committee be set up.)

Richardson said that only 7 per cent of the proposed village budget or $425,000 comes from residential property taxes. "The operation of your village actually costs less than many people realize. We do not have a local utility tax nor a monthly utility tax."

Only 8 per cent of the total residential tax bill goes to the village, he said. "Your village tax rate is one of the lowest of all the suburban communities. This is a stabilized rate which we sincerely believe we can maintain over the next four years."

DURING REBUTTAL, Floros was severely criticized by the other candidates for not attending budget hearings and village board meeting, yet criticizing the village board.

Floros repeated his belief that the village budget is inflated. He chided his opponents for saying, in effect, "Take us all three. We are one, equal in thought, word and deed, rather than standing up (alone)."

Link received one of the largest rounds of applause heard the whole night when he said, "Mount Prospect today remains — bar none — the best community in this area, and don't let anyone, anyone else mislead you into believing otherwise."

Blood drive officials to rely on group plan

Mount Prospect blood drive officials are depending on group plan donations to offset the program's poor start.

Only 117 pints have been donated in the first two village draws, while 225 pints are needed to initiate guaranteed blood supplies for all village residents under the North Suburban Blood Center program. Once initiated, about 1,800 pints a year must be donated to reach the required 4 per cent mark.

Chuck Bennett, blood program coordinator for the local Jaycees, said yesterday that while the program "is lagging somewhat, we expect to make it up through group donations." A special blood drawing is scheduled for St. Raymond's Church May 5 and the Euclid-Lake Homeowners Association is urging its members to give blood at the May 19 village blood drawing at Lions Park.

Under a group plan, all members of the group and their families are covered if 20 per cent of the membership donates blood. But all blood given by a group within the village also counts toward the village's total donation.

BENNETT SAID that St. Raymond's needs about 400 pints to cover all its members. More realistically, he said, they will probably get 200 pints donated.

Saturday's rainy weather and colds and other illnesses, Bennett said, cut down on the number of donors last weekend. Sixty-seven pints were given then.

Several persons who donated Saturday specified that their blood be used for Mrs. Edwin Paulson, 707 Greenwood Dr. She has been critically ill for the last six weeks in St. Joseph's Hospital, Chicago, and must receive daily transfusions to stay alive.

Bennett said the claim for Mrs. Paulson and others is allowable now, but only up to the amount donated by the village. Once the 225 pints have been donated, she and other residents will be covered with no limit.

Could receive $42,000 and solution to drainage problem for silence

Prospect Heights district 'makes deal' with Tara Village

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 could get as much as $42,000 and a solution to its drainage problems because school officials have agreed not to object to a proposed Wheeling apartment complex.

The school board Monday night "reluctantly" made a deal with developers of Tara Village, a 1,200-unit apartment complex proposed for the southwest corner of Hintz and Wheeling roads in Wheeling. It is east of the John Muir School site on Drake Terrace in Prospect Heights and within Dist. 23 boundaries.

In agreeing not to object to the complex, the board modified a previous position opposing all three and four-bedroom apartment developments in the district. Tara Village, which school officials and developers expect will get approval from Wheeling, will include 600 two-bedroom, 450 three-bedroom and 120 four-bedroom units on 75 acres.

Contingent upon approval of the complex proposed by the Larwin Corp., Larwin will pay the district $35 per apartment unit, payable as each unit is issued an occupancy permit. Larwin will also permit Dist. 23 and developers of the Pleasant Run condominiums in Wheeling to tie into a retention basin on the Tara site.

The storm sewer tie-in to the basin would end more than a year of negotiations between Pleasant Run, west of the John Muir site, and Dist. 23. As a result, John Glorioso and Associates, developers of Pleasant Run, have agreed to dismiss a lawsuit charging the district with preventing the natural flow of rain water from the development across the Muir site.

IN RETURN for 15-foot easements on the south and east edges of the Muir site, Glorioso will pay for construction of an underground storm sewer from Pleasant Run across Muir property and into the proposed basin. Glorioso said he would begin construction on the sewer 90 days after the easements are issued and permits are obtained. Larwin must also provide an easement.

The basin has not yet been designed but Robert Neuckranz, engineer for Pleasant Run and Tara Village, said it will be able to handle water run-off from the three pieces of property. Construction time on the basin depends on when and if Wheeling officials approve the development. But Neuckranz said the sewer pipe can be built before the basin.

Developers have already gotten preliminary approval for the complex from the Wheeling Plan Commission and will return for final approval on April 12. Final decision rests with the Wheeling Village Board.

"Let's assume that Larwin doesn't get approval. All that means is that we're right back where we started from," said

Henry Vallely, attorney for the district.

On first vote, the board failed to approve a motion that Dist. 23 agree not to object to Tara Village if Larwin solved the district's drainage problems. The vote was 3-3. Board Pres. Melvin Lacey and board members John Stull and Lori Sarnier voted against the motion.

"I WOULD BE opposed to this type of development because it will bring so many kids into the district," Stull said. "We'd be changing a previous position just to solve a water problem."

Larwin officials estimated the development would bring 367 school-age children into the area while school officials contend the number would be 860. School officials are especially worried about the influx because John Muir is already overcrowded.

"I would like to see a letter to Wheeling stating Dist. 23's position, and that position has always been we don't like three- and four-bedroom apartments. I would like to write to Wheeling indicating the developers have met with us and that they have offered to help us with our drainage problems."

Byron Delman, Larwin's attorney, told the board that Larwin would "not be willing to commit ourselves based on a mild, guarded approval." He pointed out that legally, Larwin doesn't have to make an agreement with the school district.

Supt. Edward Grodsky, who recommended the board approve the agreement, told board members, "I think you'll find you'll have the Larwin development with or without our blessing."

After a brief caucus, the board voted unanimously to approve the agreement which was altered to include the $35 per unit donation. Larwin made the money offer to the district last week.

Schools OK tax warrant sale

The River Trails Dist. 26 Board has approved the sale of tax anticipation warrants, in effect, IOU's on expected tax receipts, in a sum not to exceed $450,000 for its education and building funds.

According to Assistant Supt. James Retzlaff, neither the education nor building funds are depleted yet, but if tax receipts do not come in on time, the district will probably have to begin selling the warrants.

Tax bills are not expected to be mailed out until at least June 15, according to the County Treasurer's Office. It takes about a month after bills are sent out before the district receives any tax money. The warrants must be repaid as soon as the first tax money is received.

Hatlen sewers almost finished, Eppley says

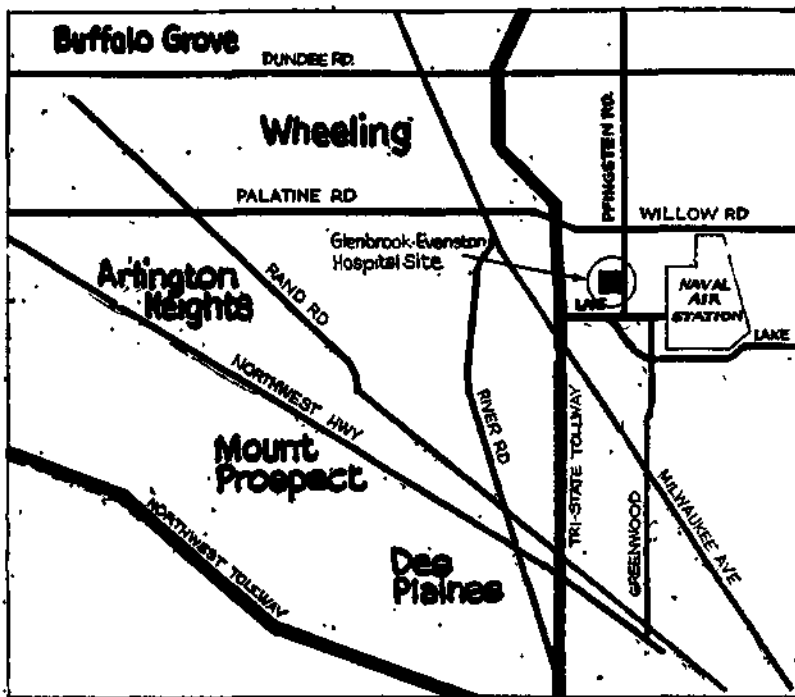

The installation of the mammoth storm sewer system in the Hatlen Heights area in Mount Prospect will be completed this week.

Known first as Special Assessment '70, then '71, the project was the subject of numerous court fights and delays. Actual work did not begin until last October.

The project is designed to alleviate the severe flooding problem in the area, which was designated as the second worst flood prone area in the village by the recent Consoer, Townsend and Associates report on flooding.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said Rosetti Construction Co. will only have yard reconstruction work left to do after this week. He said the area should now be prepared to handle the traditionally heavy spring rains.

The contract called for a completion of the $448,000 project by June.

SERVING THE Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area as well as other Northwest suburban communities by 1976 will be a 200-bed hospital located in unincorporated Cook County near Glenview. The facility will be built by Evanston Hospital and cost $12 million.

Expected to be ready by 1976

200-bed hospital planned for construction in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the expertise to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area."

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president. The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

The Evanston Hospital professional staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but, he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists. Evanston Hospital officials said, and, therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

The possibility also exists, officials said, Evanston Hospital would build other satellite hospitals in the suburbs as the needs grow.

The new hospital plans are part of an overall program by Evanston Hospital to provide better services for its patients.

Also announced yesterday were plans for a $28 million expansion of the Evanston facility, including a five-story addition to the present structure. The program is expected to be completed by 1976.

Union charges schools violated law

A representative of the local electrical union has charged that Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 violated state law in awarding a contract to Arlington Electrical Construction Co.

Joseph Kingsley, of local 134 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, also charged that Arlington Electrical is not a responsible contractor, according to the law.

The charges were made at the school board meeting Monday. James Erviti, district superintendent, and Larry Moats, owner of Arlington Electrical, countered Kingsley's charges.

The school board, in early March, awarded Arlington Electrical a $113,117 contract for Life Safety Code work throughout the district.

Kingsley appeared before the board when the contract was awarded. He claimed that Arlington Electrical, a non-union contractor, could do the work for the price quoted and still pay a union scale wage.

UNDER STATE LAW, the school district can hire a non-union contractor, but the contractor must pay his employees union scale.

William O'Brien also appeared before the board to protest the awarding of the contract to Arlington Electrical. His company was second low bidder for the electrical work with an offer of $136,000.

Fred Johnson, district architect, reported that Arlington Electrical had not done any work for Dist. 59, but had done satisfactory Life Safety Code work at Forest View High School.

Johnson said the high school district knew that Arlington Electrical was non-union. He also said there were no problems with Arlington Electrical working on a job site with union contractors.

Kingsley, at Monday's meeting, charged that the district violated state law when it:

- Did not state that union scale wages must be paid when the legal notice for the work was published.

- Failed to determine what the union rate was in the area and did not post these wages in the administration office.

- Did not notify the secretary of state, by certificate, that prevailing wages had been determined.

The board took no action in the charges, but directed Frank Hines, board attorney, to investigate them.

HINES SAID he had talked to an official of the state labor department and he believed the district was in compliance with the law. He agreed to study the matter further and report to the board.

During a recess in the meeting, Erviti said the district was now in compliance with the laws Kingsley had referred to. He said the district was late in notifying the secretary of state that the prevailing wages had been determined.

Erviti said the laws were "archaic" and were rarely complied with by any public agency in the state.

Kingsley charged that Arlington Electrical was not a responsible contractor because:

- It was not licensed to work in the state. He said the company's last license was issued in Glenview, but had expired in 1972.

- The company was not working with other union contractors. He said Arlington Electrical employees "moonlighted" by working "all hours of the night" at Forest View High School. The union employees of the other contractors on the site seldom saw Arlington Electrical employees, according to Kingsley.

- Arlington Electrical did not pay union scale for the work at Forest View High School.

Kingsley said that at a state labor department hearing in mid-March, Moats admitted he was not paying union scale and agreed to make up the difference.

MOATS, CONTACTED Tuesday by the Herald, said, "I think the real issue in this case is whether a non-union contractor and his employees have a right to work."

He said he was a licensed contractor. He refused to say which municipality licensed him, but said he would show the license to "anyone who has a legal right to see it."

He said he let the Glenview license expire because a contractor was not required to have two licenses.

Moats said his firm did about half its work at Forest View High School during the night and worked days with other contractors for the remainder of the job.

HE SAID the company did night work to minimize disruption for the students. Work could also be done more efficiently at night because the students were not in the way.

Moats admitted he had not paid union scale to some of his employees because he did not know he was required to do so. He is now paying union scale, he says.

"I am now in full compliance with all applicable state laws," said Moats.

Park district acts to halt rise in vandalism

Vandalism to Arlington Heights park property continues to increase, the most recent incident at Heritage Park which cost the district $200.

Angelo Capulli, superintendent of parks, says if the vandalism damage keeps up at its present rate that last year's record $12,000 worth of vandal repairs may be matched or even exceeded.

According to Capulli, the spring season has brought with it the increase in vandalism for this time of year.

Increases in vandalism have been especially heavy at Heritage, Recreation and Olympic parks. Heritage Park damage included broken windows and doors and damage to a public address system and microphones.

IN AN EFFORT to slow the increasing vandalism a safety coordinator will act as a liaison between the park district administration and the youth. The district also is planning to initiate new programs for youth this summer including softball leagues for boys and girls.

"The warm days this spring have been really bad," said Capulli. During a recent warm, sunny day kids at Olympic Park kicked out a $35 door.

"Every year the amount of money we spend on vandalism damage goes up. This year, already, we're a little bit ahead of our total at this time last year," said Capulli. In 1971, the district spent $8,200 on vandalism.

According to Sgt. Paul Buckholz, in charge of the village police youth division, parks are natural collecting spots for youth. He also says that smoking, drinking and vandalism can be expected from high school kids.

"WE ARE GOING to have this type of activity, and the only way we can inhibit it is to have more supervision," said Buckholz.

Olympic Park Recreation Supervisor Al Vetrovic says the kids are controllable, once they come inside. Vetrovic supervises the Green Barrel, teen center at Olympic Park, Friday and Saturday nights.

"There are a number of parties on weekend nights and we do get drunk kids down here," said Vetrovic. "If they get rowdy, they are asked to leave."

Parking garage plan aired

The village board finance committee last night promised to pursue details of a downtown redevelopment plan submitted by Arlington Heights banker Douglas Dodds.

In its first meeting on Dodds' proposal, which calls for construction of three multi-level parking garages financed through a special downtown taxing district, the committee stressed that new commercial construction must go hand-in-hand with building the garages.

Dodds said he had commitments for the construction of a nine-story building of stores, offices and apartments, as well as a 180-room motel in the downtown area. He backed off when Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson asked him to bring forth the prospective developers for a meeting with village officials.

The trustees reacted favorably to Dodds' plan for building the garages, which he says are needed to meet code parking requirements.

The Dodds plan calls for creation of a special taxing district, coincident with the central business district. Two taxes would then be levied on downtown property owners.

THE FIRST WOULD be a tax based on square footage of property, and the second would be calculated on the assessment of new construction. Together, Dodds said, the taxes can raise enough money to pay for the garages with no cost to the homeowner.

He termed the proposal "not only feasible but desirable," and said it was desperately needed to begin a "general up-grading of the very badly lagging downtown section of Arlington Heights."

An earlier attempt by the Village of Oak Park to create a special downtown taxing district was struck down by the Illinois Supreme Court because of the absence of appropriate legislation. A bill is now pending in the legislature, however, that presumably would make the creation of such a special district possible.

Finance committee chairman Trustee Frank Palmatier said he thought the special district probably would be the most equitable way to finance the three garages, but said he agreed with Hanson on the need to somehow assure that downtown redevelopment would accompany their construction.

"How can you base financing on building that isn't assured? I don't think you could borrow money without it," Palmatier said.

DODDS SAID he thought both the office-apartment building, that would be built between Vall and Highland avenues, and the motel, planned for north Dunton Avenue, are still viable projects.

Committee members asked Hanson to check the status of the special district bill, and said it would schedule another meeting in the near future to pursue the downtown proposal.

New activities, fee hikes told by parks

A barrage of new activities, coupled with an increase in fees, will be included in this summer's Arlington Heights Park District activities as outlined in a recreation committee meeting last night.

"The philosophy of the recreation program this summer will be to provide family activities and have a range of special, free, activities at each neighborhood center," said Ronald H. Dodd, superintendent of recreation. Special activities include family picnics, a worm race and a pet parade.

Dodd also said that lessons should be continued after the actual classes and with tournaments or clubs.

"For instance there could be a tourna-

A ROYALTY FLOWERING CRAB tree got the royal treatment this week at Windsor School in Arlington Heights. Third graders dug a hole for the tree and first and second graders buried the roots. The tree, donated by the PTA with funds collected from last year's recycling drive, will be taken care of by different grades on a weekly basis. The project was in conjunction with Earth Week, being held this week to promote environmental education and cleanup. Other activities include movies at the library, 500 N. Dunton, Thursday at 7 p.m. and an emission check at Miner Junior High, 1101 E. Miner, Saturday.

Health unit trying use of volunteers

The village health department has embarked on a new program using volunteers as aides to the village nurse in visiting the sick, the elderly and others who need public health care.

It might be an elderly woman living alone, who is sick and needs a morning's help with her laundry. Or a paraplegic who requires help getting in and out of a car to get to the store.

Services like these and a wide range of other needs can be filled with volunteers, according to Marion Callos, village nurse.

Mrs. Callos says she already has five volunteers committed to the public nursing program and she hopes to attract some others.

"WE'RE TALKING about non-skilled nursing care, several hours a week during the morning for someone who might be paralyzed or elderly and doesn't have anyone here to care for them," she said.

According to Mrs. Callos, the village receives hundreds of calls a year asking for nursing help, and each request must be evaluated as to need and the ability of the health department to respond.

"With the volunteers we'll be able to visit many more people each year. Each volunteer will act as an extension of the village nurse," said Village Health Director Frank Charlton.

Each volunteer will receive several hours training before being sent out on calls. The assistants are also covered by the village's liability insurance, Charlton said.

"We have to be selective in the cases we take. If we can't fill the need in a morning, then the person probably needs to be hospitalized or in a sheltered care facility," Mrs. Callos said.

BUT THE NUMBER of services that can be rendered is great and the need, though often hidden beneath the surface of daily life in Arlington Heights, is very immediate, she says.

Of the five people already enlisted as nursing volunteers, two are professional registered nurses, one is a nurse's aide, and the other two are simply interested citizens, Mrs. Callos says.

The Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County and the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged in Arlington Heights have both helped in recruiting volunteers.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

Seeking a price rollback formula acceptable to Congress, the House Banking Committee reconsidered earlier action and voted to put a ceiling on all prices and interest at their Jan. 10 levels.

Rebellious housewives cut sharply into meat sales in the fourth day of a nationwide boycott. Farmers fought back by holding their animals off the market.

The administration abandoned its highly controversial threat to begin withholding immediately $680 million in federal welfare aid from states making payments to ineligible recipients.

The Senate Watergate committee has announced it had received "no evidence of any nature" linking White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman with the Watergate bugging.

South Florida experienced a second major power failure within 24 hours yesterday, snarling traffic, and forcing schools and department stores to close.

The United States plans to send its Skylab space research station into Earth orbit May 14, and put three men aboard it the following day for a 28-day stay, the space agency announced.

The state

Governor Daniel Walker estimated that flood damage to Illinois highways and public buildings would exceed the $4 million necessary to qualify for federal relief, but cautioned against hysteria over the floods.

The Illinois House of Representatives again refused to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The women's rights amendment received 95 votes, 12 short of the three-fifths required for approval under House rules. Proponents now plan a lawsuit seeking a ruling that only a constitutional majority of 89 votes is required for ratification.

The world

Heavy fighting moved steadily closer to Saigon yesterday as Communist forces intensified their attacks in South Vietnam despite the cease-fire. In Cambodia Communists struck against Phnom Penh's last supply route and U.S. jets pounded targets around the capital.

The Irish Republican Army called for a reprieve for a member of the rival militant Protestant Ulster Defense Association who was sentenced to death for the murder of a policeman.

Court date set for 3 on two charges

An April 13 court date has been set for two North Chicago women charged with shoplifting and a North Chicago man charged with assault.

Arlington Heights police arrested the three Sunday at Turn-Style Family Center, 445 E. Rand Rd.

Store manager Donald Mielke told police a store agent, Kris Tarrant, observed Teresa Williams and Ernestine Freeman allegedly placing pants outfits, dresses and other items of clothing into their shoulder bags. Jeffrey Long was with the two women.

The three fled, according to police, who said Long drove into Mielke when he attempted to step in front of their vehicle.

Police apprehended the trio near Dundee and Rand Roads. They found only one of the items believed stolen. Bond was posted at $1,000 each.

Tennis club promoters still in game

Despite a first round loss to the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, promoters of an indoor tennis club in the Arlington industrial park still are very much in the game.

A special village board committee of Trustees Dwight Walton, Ralph Clabour and Alice Harms has been appointed to review plans for the eight-court, Arlington-Dundee Tennis Club on College Drive.

Rodney A. Houck, 19 W. Burr Oak Dr., a representative of the Berkeley Square Civic Association, told the board the homeowners' earlier objections to the tennis center have been quelled by the elimination of an outdoor pool and three outdoor courts.

"We feel a tennis club would be better than an industrial use, and we have no major objections," Houck said.

Walton, chairman of the special committee, criticized the plan commission for not having done a thorough job in its review of the tennis plans. He said he would not bow to the commission's wish to send the project back to the planning board.

"As a practical matter, you would make the petitioner lose one full year," Trustee Frank Palmatier told Plan Comr. Dave Patterson.

"This is an obstructionist action. The plan commission is trying to keep down all development whatsoever, so they vote against it," Palmatier said.

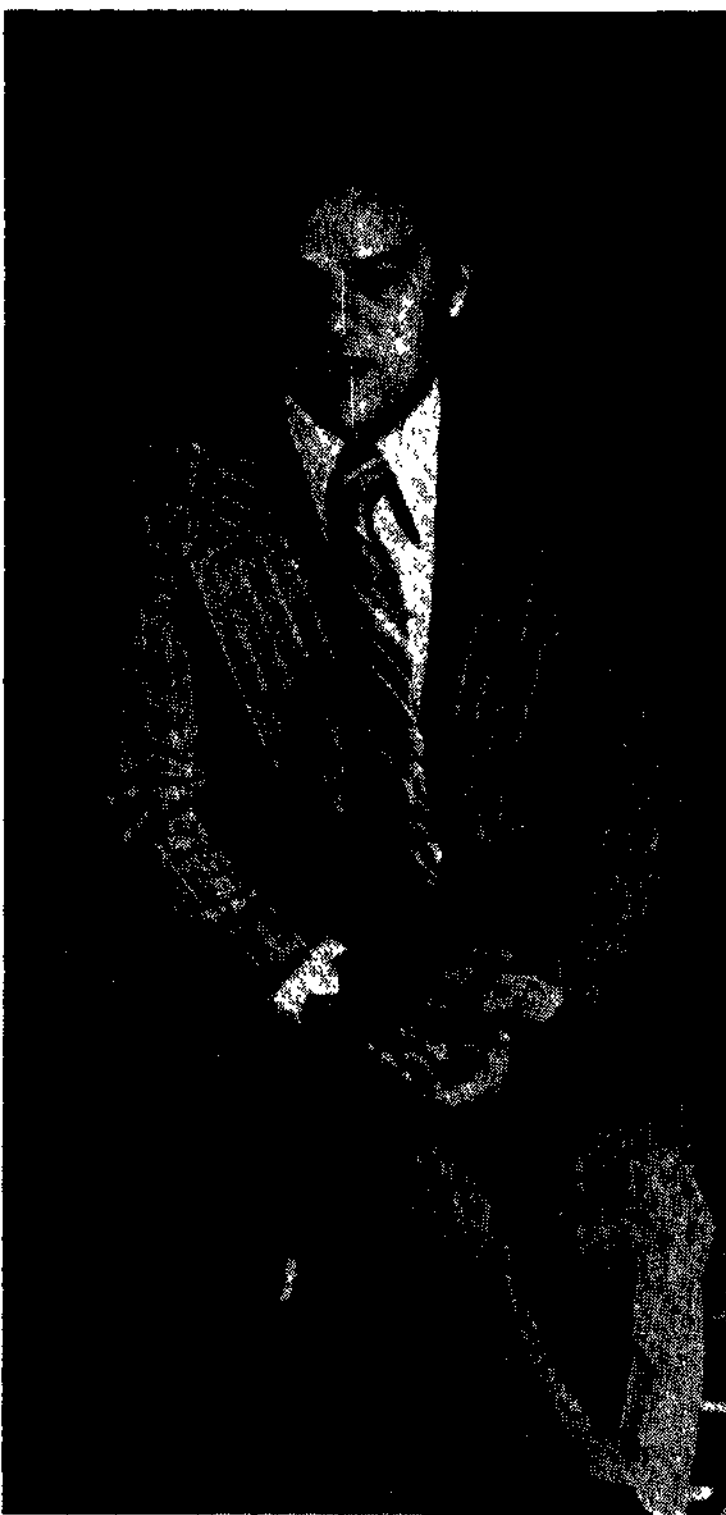

Patterson said the plan commission wanted the trustee's reaction to the concept of a tennis club, and said the commission should be allowed to work out the details of the plan.

Dr. Treanor leaves health board post

Dr. Richard Treanor, a charter member of the medical staff at Northwest Community Hospital, has resigned from the Arlington Heights Board of Health.

Dr. Treanor, who recently moved to the Village of Long Grove, was a member of the Board of Health for the past eight years. An internist, he is a past president of the hospital's medical staff which he joined when Northwest Community opened in 1959.

He is a 1952 graduate of the University of Illinois medical school.

JOHNNY MORRIS, former Chicago Bear and current Channel 5 television sportscaster, told children at Greenbrier School in Arlington Heights they shouldn't play tackle football until they are older because of the possibility of injuries. Morris also answered questions and signed autographs for the third, fourth and fifth graders. The event, sponsored by the school's PTA Cultural Arts Committee, chaired by Barbara Riccio, marked the first time Morris has spoken to a school assembly.

Loser vows township fight

Despite her overwhelming defeat in the Elk Grove Township election, Julie Sass, independent auditor candidate, will continue to work for the abolition of township government.

Mrs. Sass said she plans to form an "educational group" that would explain to residents the benefits of eliminating the township. A petition then would be circulated calling for the abolition of the township to be put to a referendum.

The four independents, all of whom were defeated, had campaigned on a platform calling for the abolition of the township.

PAUL RETTBERG, another independent auditor candidate, also saw some victory amid the over-all defeat.

"Where we concentrated our work and where we had people out, we won," he said.

The Republicans charged throughout the election the independents were "fronts" for the Democratic party. Mrs. Sass said many people believed the charge, but said she was not seriously disappointed by losing.

"Being a Democrat in Elk Grove Township means not saying you're sorry when you lose by two to one," she said.

Richard Hall, elected supervisor on the Republican slate in an unopposed race, said, "The results were pretty much what we had planned and expected."

IN THE election, only the four auditor seats and the township highway commissioner post were contested. The Republicans ran incumbent Bernard Lee, Wayne Hult, Walter Bartley and Larry Hintze for auditors and incumbent Alfred Steil for highway commissioner.

THREE INDEPENDENT candidates, Rettberg, Steve Maddock and Mrs. Sass, ran for auditor. Larry Pahl ran for highway commissioner.

The Republicans ran a full slate of candidates and were unopposed for the supervisor, clerk, assessor and collector posts.

Rettberg said the independents concentrated their efforts within Elk Grove Village. Within the 17 village precincts, he said Pahl took 735 votes to Steil's 612.

Under the election rules, the auditor posts were won by the four top vote-getters — the Republican candidates.

WITHIN Elk Grove Village, however, Rettberg said he and Mrs. Sass had the two highest vote totals with 841 and 725 votes respectively. Following them were Lee, 723 votes; Hintze, 702 votes; Maddock, 691 votes; Hult, 632 votes; and Bartley, 596 votes.

Rettberg said he would run again for some public office, but he has not decided what office or when he would run.

The following totals were reported after yesterday's official canvass of all 62 township precincts: supervisor, Richard Hall, 3,471 votes; clerk, George Busse, 3,530; assessor, Charles Hodlmaier, 3,443; collector, Arnold Sharringhausen, 3,497; highway commissioner, Alfred Steil, 2,755; Larry Pahl, 1,314; auditor, Bernard Lee, 2,948; Larry Hintze, 2,874; Wayne Hult, 2,807; Walter Bartley, 2,727; Paul Rettberg, 1,445; Julie Sass, 1,336; and Steve Maddock, 1,311.

Figures on total votes cast were not available yesterday.

'Local services' panel endorsed

The Arlington Heights Village Board has endorsed the creation of a "committee on community services" to deal with people-related, social service problems.

Actual formation of the committee will be left to the village board which takes office in April. The concept of the committee, however, was approved by the board at its meeting this week.

Trustee James T. Ryan, a member of the public relations committee which suggested the new community services unit, said the coordination of existing and future social services will be a prime responsibility of the committee.

Village-funded social programs include the Bridge, a youth counseling center in Palatine; the police department's Uplift program for youthful offenders, police counselors in the high schools and the recently funded Ecology Corps to help youth find summer jobs.

The committee also will look at housing problems, mental health and other "people problems," Ryan said.

"WE FELT there are an awful lot of things that don't fall into the normal confines of our existing committee structure. The community services committee struck us as a way to bring government closer to people to some extent," he said.

Assignment of village trustees to the new committee will be made by Village Pres.-Elect Jack Walsh.

Additions to three of the board's four other standing committees also were suggested.

The public health and safety committee would be assigned transportation matters. The public relations committee would deal with inter-governmental cooperation. And the finance committee would work with planning matters.

It was recommended the Safety Commission, composed of village, school and police representatives, be abolished. The commission has been largely inactive in recent months.

Each of the proposed five standing committees would continue to have three village board trustees as members.

The appointment of a second trustee to the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, was also recommended. That committee is now headed by Trustee Frank Palmatier.

Adventures of your Garbage

The Case of the March Winds

Comes Spring, comes the wind, and with it, the "complaints" that high winds cause.

As the scene opens, enter our investigator, and the lady points to the evidence: Her garbage can (fibre) at one end of the lawn, its cover at another.

In scene # 2, enter onto the carpet, the "culprit" — our driver. "Don't tell me," he says. "If I set that can upright once. I set it up three times, always with the cover on it — and every time, it blew right over again."

A "true confession." we know. In a high wind, even metal cans can blow over — and those feather-weight fibre cans, which weigh practically nothing empty, can wind up on the other side of town. That's one reason they're technically "illegal," even though we live with them as best we can. But like that old song, "Don't Blame Susie," could we ask, when those empty fibre cans take off in the wind, "Please Don't Blame Laseke"?

SERVING THE Wheeling-Buffer Grove area as well as other Northwest suburban communities by 1976 will be a 200-bed hospital located in unincorporated Cook County near Glenview. The facility will be built by Evanston Hospital and cost $12 million.

Candidates' night scheduled Tuesday

Candidates for the Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 Board of Education will discuss the issues Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Thomas Junior High School, 303 E. Thomas.

Included in the race for three three-year board terms are William Beck, James DeVono, Edith Jolly, J. Patrick O'Brien and Richard Schlott. Beck, Jolly and Schlott are backed by the Dist. 25 Nominating Committee, commonly known as the caucus. DeVono and O'Brien are independents.

The candidates will make 10-minute presentations and answer questions from the audience.

The evening is sponsored by the Arlington Heights Council of PTAs. The election will be held Saturday, April 14.

New hospital planned in Glenview

by BARRY SIGALE

Health care for persons living in the Wheeling-Buffer Grove area is expected to improve dramatically as a result of construction of a 200-bed hospital in Glenview.

The hospital, expected to be ready for patient use by the summer of 1976, will meet the needs of the growing Northwest suburbs whose residents will make increasing demands for more complete medical service.

Projecting population increases through the 1980's and 1990's and expressing optimism they have the expertise to meet patient needs, officials at Evanston Hospital yesterday announced plans to build the new hospital just north of Glenbrook South High School in unincorporated Cook County.

"There is an acknowledged need in the Northwest suburbs for increased health care," said Ernest Libman, director of planning at Evanston Hospital. There are good hospitals there now but there is also needed a satellite facility to serve the Wheeling-Buffer Grove area."

HOSPITALS SERVING the Wheeling-Buffer Grove area now are Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and Holy Family in Des Plaines. Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs include Lutheran General in Park Ridge and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. A fifth hospital, in Schaumburg, is scheduled to open in 1975.

Planning has begun for the Glenview facility, according to Bernard J. Lachner, Evanston Hospital president.

The new hospital, he said, will be owned and operated by Evanston Hospital, which will continue its affiliation with the McGaw Medical Center at Northwestern University.

The Evanston Hospital professional staff and its affiliates at the medical school will be responsible for medical care at the new facility, he said.

It is not known how many doctors, nurses or other personnel will be needed to staff the new hospital, according to Lachner, but, he said medical students would be utilized.

IT HAS NOT been determined what services will be available to patients. An emergency room will be included, it was determined, but there is a study of health needs which will delay any decision on other services to be offered.

The cost of the new hospital is expected to be about $12 million. Lachner said the site, presently zoned single family, was purchased from All State Insurance Co. for $1 million. Groundbreaking for the facility will begin in July, 1974, on the 40-acre site.

The satellite hospital is part of a trend undertaken by major hospitals to take advantage of the increased needs of the suburbs.

At Evanston Hospital, for instance, a large percentage of its patients come from the Northwest suburbs, though most of its patient load still comes from the North Shore, according to officials.

THE NEW HOSPITAL site is in the center of a 70 square mile area where no hospital presently exists, Evanston Hospital officials said, and, therefore, an attractive area to build a hospital.

Presumably, those Northwest suburban patients currently going to Evanston Hospital will use the new facility, although the "parent" hospital will remain for use in difficult cases.

Boutique sponsors sought

Local organizations are being sought to sponsor sidewalk boutiques during the Arlington Heights Festival to celebrate Independence Day.

The five-day festival will run from June 30 to July 4 and dozens of community groups plan to participate. The festival will include everything from a carnival to exhibitions and square dancing.

The Arlington Heights Festival Committee now is looking for groups interested in opening boutiques offering a wide range of sale items. The boutiques will be open on June 30 and July 1. The cost will be $5 a day with all proceeds going to the participating organizations.

GROUPS WANTING to sponsor boutiques may call Muriel Currier, president of the Arlington Heights Women's Club at 253-7049.

The boutiques are only a small part of the festival. A tentative schedule includes a carnival to be located on the Arlington Heights Cultural Center site north of the library. The park district has activities scheduled at each neighborhood recreation area.

A softball tournament will be held at Heritage Park with a girls' tournament at Hasbrouk Park. The park district also is working on a "night under the stars" at Recreation Park for evening entertainment.

Festival officials hope this year's program will be a success so the festival can become an annual event.

Paramedics honored by village board

The first class of Arlington Heights paramedics have received certificates of award from the village board.

The paramedics, all members of the Arlington Heights fire department, have been credited with directly saving at least four lives since the emergency medical treatment program started in December, according to Village Pres. John Woods.

Cited were John Benson, Arthur Christenson, Gerald Collingnon, Robert D'Alberto, William Dressel, Edward Fitch, Richard Frost, Dennis Horcher, Dennis Mathcock, Gerald Nering, Dennis Ritter, Grover Rushing, William Sprung and Craig Weidder.

Some 40 spaces are available and will be sold as soon as possible, according to festival planners. Participants must bring their own tables. The sales area will be along Fremont Street between Dunton and Vail. Fremont Street will be blocked to traffic.

Darryl Kenning.

Every day is Ladies Day in the HERALD. Keep up with society and club doings in "Suburban Living", daily woman's coverage especially designed for the family.

If you earned this when you were a SCOUT-

WE WANT YOU.

Nobody has got more out of Scouting than the man who earned the Eagle Badge.

But when you think about it, nobody owes more to Scouting either. Any Eagle Scout will tell you how important Scouting was in shaping his confidence and his character.

If you earned the Eagle Badge, we want you back in Scouting—as a volunteer leader. Nobody is better equipped to lead boys to manhood.

America's manpower begins with BOYPOWER, and nothing builds BOYPOWER like the Scout.

Will you help?

America's manpower begins with BOYPOWER.
